DRAFT PROGRAM TO PEG DOLLAR, RIGHT BUDGET

President and Aids Work in Secret.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt, it was learned tonight, has under advisement a program for formal devaluation of the dollar in the near future and stabilization of the currency on a modified gold basis.

From such devaluation a profit of not less than 3 billion dollars and possibly as much as 4½ billion dollars will accrue to the government on the gold in the treasury and in the federal reserve banks.

With this increased paper dollar value of the gold at its command and with the revenue from liquor taxes, the administration purposes to balance the budget without raising income tax rates.

Hold Mysterious Conferences.

This project, THE TRIBUNE is reliably informed, is the subject of the mysterious conferences taking place daily at the White House. The problem bristles with intricate complications that have taxed the powers of the financial and legal experts of the government to solve. Not all the perplexing questions have been cleared up and the President is awaiting further elucidations before definitely charting his course.

That the President intends to cut the gold content of the dollar squarely in half, exercising the full limit of the authority conferred upon him by the Thomas amendment, is the prevalent belief in official circles.

Color was lent to this surmise when the administration today resumed the depression of the paper dollar by bidding up the price of gold. For the first time in 17 days the RFC raised its offer for gold, increasing the price by five cents an ounce. The value of the paper dollar, as a result of the gold purchase operations, has now declined to about 62 per cent of parity.

Markets Fail to Respond.

With the stock and commodity markets failing to respond today to the resumed pounding of the dollar downward, some of the President's advisers have concluded that about all of the immediate price raising effect of the dollar manipulation has been achieved and that the administration might as well stabilize now for the long pull in price advances.

The President is aiming at the restoration of the 1926 price level. Prices now average about 75 per cent of the 1926 figure. Prof. Warren, author of the gold purchase program, maintains that a revaluation of the dollar at 50 cents would restore 1926 prices, though not at once.

The advisability of devaluation and stabilization before Jan. 1 has been thoroughly canvassed in the White House conferences. The question of the President's authority to appropriate to the treasury the profit on the revaluation of the gold in possession of the federal reserve banks has proved a stumbling block, however, and it may prove necessary to delay action until after congress meets.

Disagree as to Authority.

Some of the experts think the President has ample power to take over this gold. Others, among whom Attorney General Cummings is listed, regard his present authority doubtful and counsel postponement of action until congress can be asked for enabling legislation.

Whenever devaluation is effected it is to be done quickly and quietly in order to forestall an orgy of speculative buying of gold which would be certain to materialize if it were known the government was about to return to a gold basis and pay two paper dollars for one in gold.

Thousands of persons are believed to be hoarding gold today in defiance of the law, in the hope of profiting from revaluation and stabilization. Estimates of the amount in hoarding vary all the way from 100 millions to 500 millions.

The treasury holds about 1 billion dollars and the federal reserve banks about 3½ billions in gold.

Altogether there are 4½ billions which will become 9 billions if the gold content of the dollar be reduced by 50 per cent. If the government gets the profit on the reserve bank gold, it will have 4½ billions of dollars [illegible] did not have before.

Hoarded Gold Will Be Taken Over.

Contemplated procedure is that when the administration is ready to devalue and stabilize, the treasury will purchase the 3½ billion dollars' worth

DONNE REMOVED AS MANAGER OF HOME LOAN HERE

U. S. Prosecutor Will Study Charges.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—The federal home loan bank board today announced the removal of William G. Donne as Illinois manager of the Home Owners' Loan corporation following an investigation into charges of irregularity in the conduct of his office.

The acceptance of Donne's resignation, which was tendered at the request of the board, may be followed shortly by the removal of several of his erstwhile subordinates in the Illinois HOLC. A thorough housecleaning of the state home loan organization is to be undertaken at once, the board announced.

Charges Being Investigated.

The charges against Donne, it was learned tonight, have been turned over to the department of justice for investigation to determine whether prosecution of the ousted state manager is warranted. Dwight Green, Chicago district attorney, who has already started an inquiry into the allegations involving the Illinois HOLC, is to be notified to investigate the charges laid before the department today by officials of the Home Loan bank board.

William H. McNeal, mortgage and title expert of the HOLC Washington staff, was named to assume charge of the Illinois office pending the selection of a permanent successor to Donne.

Will Investigate Appraisals.

At the same time the board disclosed that Philip Kniskern, its official adviser on appraisals, and Daniel McNamara Jr., associate general counsel of the HOLC, are also in Chicago to conduct investigations into the Illinois appraisal situation and the legal aspects of home loan activities in the state.

The staff of inspectors and auditors which for some time have been checking the operation of the state office, it was said, has been augmented "in order that any expansions or readjustments of the corporation's staff, which may be necessary in Illinois, may be effected with the least possible delay."

The charges against Donne were said to involve the alleged award of appraisal contracts at an excessive rate to appraisal companies in which he was personally or politically interested, and included also complaints that lawyers and other persons were being allowed to collect commissions from home loan applicants on the representation of their ability to push the loan through.

Board Issues Brief Statement.

"Mr. Donne's resignation," the board stated, "follows the receipt of various complaints concerning alleged excessive charges for appraisals in Chicago and Cook county and publicity given to claims that various attorneys, supposed brokers, and others were seeking to act for both home owners and mortgagees on the representation that they could secure prompt granting of loans if paid commissions."

Beyond this the board declined to discuss the nature of the evidence with which Donne was confronted during his two day examination by the board last week. It was pointed out in the announcement of Donne's resignation, however, that the home loan bank law provides stiff penalties as high as $10,000 fine or five years' imprisonment for attempts to collect commissions for influencing home loans and $5,000 and two years' imprisonment for false appraisals.

"Resigned," Board Says.

Although it was generally understood that Mr. Donne had been asked to resign, the board in its announcement attempted to whitewash the state manager to the extent of explaining that he offered his resignation in the belief that he could not continue to conduct his office efficiently in the face of current criticism.

"Mr. Donne," the board said, "presented his resignation with the statement that, notwithstanding his ability to refute all charges and criticisms, he was satisfied that the impressions created by critical publicity of the

WHAT SHOULD HE DO ABOUT IT?

H. P. Pickering Elopes; Weds Heiress in East

New York, N. Y., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Miss Charlotte Milburn and Hugh Parker Pickering of Chicago eloped to Harrison, N. Y., last night and were married. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Anne S. Hollingsworth Peabody and a niece of Devereaux Milburn, famous polo player.

His Divorce Recalled.

Mr. Pickering was divorced late in September by Mrs. Merry Fahrney Parker-Pickering of Oak Park, Ill., whose subsequent martial ventures were headlined in Chicago. She sought first to marry Count Gorge di Georgio of Chile, but was dissuaded by her parents. Di Georgio left for Chile at the request of immigration authorities and Mrs. Pickering returned to Chicago. There in a midnight elopement Nov. 10 she married Frank V. Eiszner of River Forest. His brother, Donald, was killed in a motor crash following the marriage.

Pickering and his former wife had one child, Peter, eighteen months old, who was adopted after their divorce by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Emory H. Fahrney of Oak Park., Ill.

Plans Slightly Delayed.

The elopement of the Fahrney heiress' former husband occurred Sunday night, but Miss Milburn told friends Saturday that she and Pickering would be married. Early Sunday they started for Harrison, but returned unwed because, the bride said, "we were halfway there when I began to think of what a scene it would cause if we were married Sunday morning. So we came back home."

Last night they went all the way to Harrison and were married by the Rev. Theodore O. Passelt Jr. of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church.

They drove back to New York and to a hotel from where Mr. Pickering called his mother, Mrs. Grace Pickering of Chicago, at the Biltmore.

"Well," he said, "I told you some time ago that I would marry Charlotte Milburn, and I have."

The new Mrs. Pickering had very little to say. Her husband was out.

"I told him to buy a pretty present because I am a pretty girl," she said. They expect to go to Miami.

Evanston Wants N. U. to Keep Name if Merged

The Evanston city council in a meeting last night authorized Mayor Charles H. Bartlett to write a letter to Northwestern university anent the proposals to merge this school with the University of Chicago. The mayor's letter will urge the university to retain its name and keep the main offices in Evanston. In other business the council considered plans to cut the salaries of policemen and firemen 5 per cent during 1934.

THEY BUY DOLLARS FOR 35 CENTS TO PAY ASSESSMENTS

Cleveland, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Citizens of suburban Lyndhurst are buying dollars for 35 cents.

Here's how it works: The village defaulted on a $250,000 bond issue Oct. 1, 1932. Mayor David Ott recently offered to accept the bonds at 100 cents on the dollar in payment of overdue special assessments. To date the city's debtors have turned in $30,000 worth of the bonds to pay assessment bills after purchasing a large part of them from original holders at 35 cents on the dollar.

DISNEY DESERTS HONOR DINNER TO WELCOME BABY

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 18.—(AP)—They were awarding a medal for distinguished service to childhood to Walt Disney, the movie cartoonist, today, and right in the midst of the ceremony Walt grabbed his coat and hat, mumbled 16 words of thanks, and dashed to a hospital where a daughter was born to his wife. The baby, Dianne Marie Disney, weighs eight pounds two ounces.

A group of 75 guests at the banquet were at a loss to understand Disney's hurried departure. Dr. Rufus Von Kleinsmid, president of the University of Southern California, who acted as toastmaster, was as surprised as the rest, but all was forgiven when the whole story developed at the Good Samaritan hospital.

Mrs. Disney is the former Lillian Bounds of Lewiston, Idaho.

FRANKIE LAKE SEIZED AS HE DRINKS COFFEE

Frank Lake, who with Terry Druggan was a beer baron in the early days of prohibition, was sipping a cup of coffee in a tavern at Madison and Canal streets last night when Sergt. John Hanrahan and his detective bureau squad walked in.

"Aren't you the notorious Frankie Lake?" asked Hanrahan.

"Sometimes they call me that," replied Lake. "But I'm a big business man now. I own three ice houses in Detroit. Right now, I'm home for the Christmas holidays."

"You're wrong," said Sergt. Hanrahan. "Christmas is seven days away, so right now you're going to be home in the hoosegow."

Secret of How Life Is Formed May Be Known

Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y., Dec. 18.—(AP)—That science is closing in rapidly on the secret of how life is formed from non-living matter is predicted in the annual report of the Carnegie institution.

A life molecule, which apparently holds this secret, is described by Dr. C. B. Davenport, director here of the department of genetics of the institution. This molecule is the gene, an ultra-microscopic particle apparently made by the joining of a number of atoms. Genes carry all the characters of heredity in body and in germ cells.

Study Gene's Structure.

"When we understand the structure of the gene," Dr. Davenport states, "we shall know the essential difference between living and non-living matter.

"The geneticist should shortly be in position to aid the chemist in getting at the ultimate nature of living matter, and especially must both cooperate in the solution of that fundamental property of the living molecule—namely: its capacity for dividing indefinitely with retention of all its qualities.

"For upon this property depends all agriculture and animal husbandry—depends all life itself.

Formerly Lifeless World.

"Before the self-dividing molecule had been evolved, this was a lifeless world; unless it has been evolved in some other planets, they are lifeless still.

"The living, dividing molecule, of which the gene is a special sort, is the great upbuilding agency in a universe that is running down. For the genes create living matter out of the non-living material, while periodically that which they have created is returned to its source for new generations to feed upon."

LANDSCAPING OF ALAMO PLANNED IN CIVIL WORKS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Plans for the landscaping of the Alamo in San Antonio, and the beautification of parks, playgrounds and school interiors throughout Texas as part of the state program of civil works were announced here today by Gutzon Borglum, chairman of the state committee on planning and design.

The heroism of the defenders of the Alamo, none of whom survived, and the victory of the Texans over Santa Ana a few months later at San Jacinto will be commemorated by a centennial celebration in 1936.

Liquor Home Rule Is Saved, Asserts Kelly

Mayor Kelly told the thirteen Democratic senators from Cook county yesterday that the amendments to the proposed state liquor control bill, on which he and Gov. Horner agreed Sunday at a conference in Springfield, will, in his opinion, give Chicago ample home rule in retail liquor licensing.

Following the conference, which also was attended by Senator Richard J. Barr of Joliet, minority leader, Mayor Kelly said the senators had indicated they would support the changes. He looks for the passage of the Lager bill, with the agreed amendments now being drafted by Dewitt Billman, head of the state legislative reference bureau, by the end of the week.

Chicago Keeps Powers.

The Lager bill as it now stands provides for a bipartisan state liquor control commission of three members, with the power to issue or force the issuance of retail liquor licenses, to revoke or force the revocation of such licenses, and the right to examine premises, accounts and stock of liquor sellers. The amendments will strip it of most of these powers in Chicago, but leave them in force in the rest of the state.

"The main thing which bothered the Chicago administration about the bill as it now stands," said Mayor Kelly, "was that under those powers of the state commission, if the city revoked a license, the licensee could appeal to the state commission and stay open for two or three months while the case was being reviewed. My contention and State's Attorney Courtney's was that if a murder was committed in a place, or it was the hangout of hoodlums, the revocation should apply without delay."

Can't Revoke License Here.

Under the amendments, the state commission cannot revoke a Chicago license, although the bill will provide that a licensee may appeal a revocation to the courts. The commission will have nothing to do with issuance of a license in Chicago except that it may hear evidence from a person refused a license by the city and order such an issuance. The city may appeal to the courts from such an order, or, it was pointed out by others than the mayor, there is nothing to prevent it complying with the state commission's order and then revoking the license the next week.

The amendments, in effect, limit the state's jurisdiction in Chicago license matters to little more than revenue collection. There is to be a state license fee of $50, such license to be issued and revoked automatically with the issuance or revocation of the city license. In addition the state will collect gallonage taxes, which Mayor Kelly said he believed would be 2 cents a gallon on beer, 5 cents on wine and 50 cents on whisky.

Provides Fair Taverns.

The bill also provides that the state shall issue liquor licenses for the World's Fair next year, although the south park board shall approve all applications and may revoke licenses. The license fee at the Fair is to be the same charged by the city.

The mayor of Chicago, under the bill, is to be the issuing authority unless the city council designates some one else. Mayor Kelly said he believed this provision would allow the council to establish a city license commission. He would not state whether he wished to retain the issuing au-

BANKERS ADMIT AGREEMENT ON RECEIVERSHIPS

Tell Court of Picking Friendly Creditor.

The secrets of alleged collusion in the Insull receivership cases, which have been referred to repeatedly in court proceedings for almost a year, were revealed in a hearing before Federal Judge Evan A. Evans yesterday.

The testimony was concluded late in the afternoon and Judge Evans announced that he would hear closing arguments at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Bankers and lawyers told of the conferences in Samuel Insull's private office, in the Chicago club, in New York, and in the Continental Illinois National bank, at which the receivers and their counsel were agreed upon. They told how the fallen utilities czar, now a fugitive in Greece, insisted that "the name of Insull" be represented in the receiverships, and how Insull lawyers not only drew the bills of complaint but selected counsel for the petitioning creditors.

The testimony disclosed that the name of the late Calvin Coolidge, former President of the United States, was one of a dozen or more suggested as receiver for the two billion dollar utilities empire at the Chicago club meeting.

Creditor Picked by Insull.

Insull himself, according to the testimony, selected the Lincoln Printing company, which did all his printing work, as the complainant in the Middle West Utilities company receivership.

The immediate issue before Judge Evans, a member of the Circuit Court of Appeals but sitting as a district judge, was whether Calvin Fentress, receiver for Insull Utility Investments, Inc., should be allowed fees for his services. Former Corporation Counsel Samuel A. Ettelson objected to his claim on the ground that Fentress was part of "the original Insull setup," and this raised the far more important question of collusion in all the Insull receiverships.

Whole Structure Involved.

On this same charge Attorney Ettelson had blocked the confirmation of Fentress as trustee for Insull Utility Investments before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson and Referee Garfield Charles, but he had been limited to the one company at issue. Judge Evans agreed to go into the entire structure and the wide latitude granted counsel as well as questions he put to witnesses indicated that he was impressed with yesterday's disclosures.

At one point Judge Evans asked Abner J. Stilwell, vice president of the Continental bank, whether it was his impression that Insull wished to name the receivers in order that he might escape personal liabilities.

"No, it was my impression that he wanted somebody familiar with the corporate structure," said Stilwell.

"That shouldn't have required much knowledge. It was merely an investment trust, holding certain securities, most of which were pledged for collateral," replied the judge.

"But it was a large trust," said Stilwell.

Young Insull's Testimony.

Samuel Insull Jr., the second witness called by Attorney Ettelson, told of his father's reluctance to serve as co-receiver of Middle West Utilities but testified that the elder Insull did suggest Patrick J. Lucey and George A. Cooke as receiver's counsel.

The hearing was conducted in the small, ornate courtroom of the Circuit Court of Appeals, which has the form of a truncated circle surrounded by gray columns and a single row of seats for the spectators. Since it is an Appellate court and not intended for the hearing of testimony, there is no witness stand, and the witnesses sat in a chair at the rim of the crowded inclosure.

Attorney Ettelson experienced some difficulty in drawing out the responses he wanted the witnesses to make, and he was stopped many times with "I don't know" and "I have no recollection of that," but the statements that were elicited carried intimations of importance. All of the witnesses were definite in their assurances that Mr. Insull was actuated solely by the altruistic motive of protecting the interests of the common stock holders. But when Mr. Stilwell was asked whether the common stock holders were represented at a single conference, he replied:

"We knew that the stockholders would be properly represented by Mr. Insull."

Mr. Ettelson was unable to get into the record any testimony that the list of receivers and counsel as agreed upon were rejected by Judge Wilkerson before being taken to Judge Walter C. Lindley, who was "imposed upon," in Ettelson's words.

But in this connection there was testimony by Attorney Lawrence Allen of Danville, long a close friend of Judge Lindley, that he was called in for a conference in the offices of Schuyler, Weinfeld & Hennessy, counsel for Insull companies, before the filing of the bill. He said the lawyers wished to consult him concerning an answer he filed in the American Mine Equipment case, "which made law," and that the contemplated Insull receiverships were discussed only in a general way.

"Were you told that the firm of Schuyler, Weinfeld & Hennessy was to become counsel in the Middle West Utilities case and that you could be counsel for the receiver of Insull Utility Investment?" Attorney Ettelson asked.

"I was not," said Allen.

First Told By Judge.

Later Mr. Allen testified that he first knew of his selection when he was called to Judge Lindley's chambers on the day of the receivership, Saturday, April 16, 1932, by Attorney Sidney Gorham, counsel for the plaintiff.

"I was suggested as counsel for the receiver by Mr. Gorham," said Allen. "Judge Lindley said that this might cause him great embarrassment, that we had known each other for many years and that he had practiced in my court and I in his. He said if he appointed me he might be accused of favoritism.

"But Mr. Gorham asked the judge whether he had confidence in me and he replied, 'Absolutely.' Then Mr. Gorham said there was no reason why I shouldn't be appointed and Judge Lindley agreed."

Investigator Looks On.

An interested spectator at the hearing was George F. Cummerow, chief investigator for the congressional committee on receivership and bankruptcy cases. This committee has already heard charges of favoritism in the equity court of Judge Charles E. Woodward and is to resume hearings here in January. It is understood that the committee has gone thoroughly into the Insull receiverships and that these matters will be taken up next.

Young Insull, according to observers, exhibited great skill in giving the answers that he wanted given, but if he felt any hostility it was dissembled by his urbane and ostensibly helpful manner. After most of the questions he paused briefly and his eyes closed behind their steel rimmed spectacles just for a moment, while he appeared to be meditating gravely. Then he answered, in slow and meticulous speech, the while crossing and recrossing his legs and rubbing his palms as if moved by the utmost earnestness.

Tells Sunday Conference.

Insull Jr. revealed for the first time that a conference relating to the receiverships was held in the Chicago club on a Sunday afternoon. It had been Mr. Ettelson's understanding that the roster of receivers and counsel had been selected at a single "secret meeting" in the elder Insull's private office. His testimony follows:

Q.—Were you present at the conference in your father's office on Wednesday, April 13, 1932? A.—I think so. I hadn't remembered it until I heard it testified to this morning. I did not participate in the conference.

Q.—Well, did you sit in at any meeting with reference to selecting receivers and counsel? A.—I heard discussions of names that should be presented to the court.

Q.—Who was present at that meeting? A.—There was a meeting in the Chicago club on a Sunday afternoon, the 9th or 10th of April, I believe. Mr. Tobey [Waldo F. Tobey of Isham, Lincoln & Beale] was there, and Schuyler, Mr. Hennessy, Edward E. Brown of the First National bank. Melvin Traylor of the First National, Abner Stillwell of the Continental, Herman Waldeck of the Continental, Harold L. Stuart [president of Harold L. Stuart & Co., Insull security distributors], my father and myself. I have a reasonably certain impression that James E. Otis of the Central Republic bank was there and a slightly less definite impression that Mr. Leavell of the Continental was there.

"Receiver or Nothing."

Q.—Relate the conversation that occurred there. A.—The principal discussion concerned recommendations for a receiver for Middle West Utilities company. My father said that whereas he was prepared to assist the receiver in any capacity desired, he personally did not wish to be appointed and wanted it to be understood that he was resisting.

"The statement was made," continued the witness, "that if he wanted to be in the picture—I recall that expression—he must be a receiver. He said that if he was wanted and the court appointed him he would not refuse, but made it clear that he did not want the appointment. In the discussion relating to the other companies some one suggested that I should be a receiver, but I demurred on the same grounds advanced by my father.

"Then it was suggested that what was needed was a person with a good knowledge of finance, with a reputation for fairness and ability and a high standing in the community. In this connection I recall that Mr. Schuyler said: 'You understand, gentlemen, that you are only considering suggestions for the court.'"

Q.—Who suggested former Judge Cooke [of the Illinois Supreme court]? A.—Either my father or myself, or possibly it was Mr. Stuart.

Q.—Were Charles A. McCulloch and the late Edward N. Hurley [appointed co-receivers with the elder Insull of Middle West] suggested at the conference? A.—Yes, Mr. McCulloch was suggested early and later my father suggested that if he were to serve he wanted men like Mr. McCulloch and Mr. Hurley, men of experience and a knowledge of public relations and public policy.

Counsel Suggested.

Q.—Was a counsel suggested? A.—Yes.

Q.—Who suggested Schuyler's firm and Isham, Lincoln & Beale? A.—I don't recall.

Q.—Schuyler had been your father's personal attorney many times, hadn't he? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did your father say he must have three personal attorneys, George A. Cooke, Daniel J. Schuyler, and Patrick J. Lucey? A.—I don't recall that he imposed any such conditions. I do think that in the discussion of Corporation Securities and Insull Utility Investments, Inc., in which my father, my mother, and I had everything we possessed—with no disrespect to the other gentlemen, we suggested that we wanted to be assured of some hope for our investments. We wanted somebody with a knowledge of the properties. At that point I think my father mentioned Mr. Cooke. I don't recall who mentioned Mr. Schuyler.

Q.—Were Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin suggested, and did your father object because they were too close to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE? A.—No. I don't recall that they were suggested at all.

Complainant Selected.

Young Insull then testified briefly concerning the next conference in his father's office and told of asking Washington Flexner, president of the Lincoln Printing company, to file the bill of complaint against Middle West Utilities company.

"I stepped out of the proceeding and met Mr. Flexner," said the witness. "I told him the receiverships were inevitable and asked him if he would be willing to file the bill. He said he would act and I thanked him, saying that some lawyer would get in touch with him.

"Then I went back and told my father that he would act."

Judge Examines Witness.

Q.—You were president of the company [Insull Utility Investment]? A.—Yes.

Q.—What were the debts? A.—I hesitate to say. There was a $60,000,000 debenture issue. The bank debts of all the Insull companies were about $50,000,000.

Q.—The market value of those securities was utterly inadequate, was it not? A.—At the market quotations then, yes.

Q.—And a considerable amount of the securities were hypothecated with the bank. A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—What was the market value of the securities that were not pledged for loans? A.—It was small. Five or ten million dollars.

Q.—Five or ten million dollars with which to meet those debentures? A.—Yes, sir.

Flexner testified that he received a telephone call from Samuel Insull Sr., in response to which he went to the office. Under questioning by Ettelson he testified that the Lincoln Printing company held several time notes of Middle West and that one of these, for $5,000, was changed to a time note at that time. The time notes had not expired and the change was made in the $5,000 note so it could serve as the basis of the receivership suit.

Attorney John E. Wing of Isham, Lincoln & Beale, whose office was one floor above Insull's in the Edison building, testified that he drew up the bills of complaint in the Insull Utility Investments and Middle West Utilities cases. He sent the first bill to Sidney Gorham, counsel for Howard Cherry, and turned the second over to Thurlow G. Essington, counsel for the Lincoln Printing company.

Requested to File Bill.

When Essington was called to the stand he testified as follows:

"I was called to the law firm of Isham, Lincoln & Beale and they told me the Insull receiverships were inevitable. They asked me to file a bill of complaint. I was asked if I would be prepared to serve as Mr. Flexner's counsel. I said I would and it was agreeable to Mr. Flexner. He came to my office later in the afternoon and signed the bill."

Q.—And that was the first time you every met Mr. Flexner? A.—Yes.

Q.—How did you happen to go to Judge Lindley's court? You knew Judge Carpenter and Judge Barnes were sitting. A.—I knew Judge Lindley was sitting in Judge Wilkerson's court hearing equity cases.

Q.—Did you appear before Judge Wilkerson before going to Judge Lindley? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Who did? A.—I don't know that anybody did.

Leavell Tells of Debts.

James R. Leavell, president of the Continental bank, testified that the three major Insull companies owed his bank a total of $40,000,000, a sum which he later corrected to $28,000,000 by Mr. Stilwell. Mr. Leavell told of the meeting in the Chicago club and of a meeting later in the week in the office of Arthur Reynolds, chairman of the Continental bank, at which the Insulls were not present.

Q—What took place there? A—The question of the receiverships was seriously discussed. I don't remember who originated the various names, but I think it was Philip Clark of the Central Republic that suggested Mr. Fentress.

"We agreed to it with enthusiasm," continued the witness. "Mr. Fentress was called in and he objected, saying he was not interested in the Insull companies and knew nothing about them. We told him that was the very reason we wanted him."

Q.—As a matter of fact, he owed your bank on notes of $150,000, $39,000, and $27,000, didn't he? A.—I don't recall, but I would have been quite glad to have such loans outstanding to him.

Insulls Not Present.

Q.—Wasn't it a fact that these meetings were held in order to make selection agreeable to Mr. Insull? A.—No; at the meeting at which Mr. Fentress was selected the Insulls were not present.

Q.—Yes, but isn't it a fact that the only reason Mr. Fentress wasn't made sole receiver was because Mr. Insull objected? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did Mr. Fentress tell you he wanted to be sole receiver, if he served at all? A.—Yes, that was the understanding at the meeting in the bank. But at the meeting in Insull's office Insull said some one from the Insull companies should be co-receiver. He suggested Mr. Cooke. I told him he would have to get Mr. Fentress' permission and Mr. Fentress was sent for. He said he would agree.

Q.—Was there anything said about the possibility of bringing suits against the bank on the ground that the transfer of those securities may have been a preference? A.—There was nothing said about that.

Q.—Isn't it a fact that the Continental bank did everything it could to retain Mr. Fentress as trustee before Referee Charles and before Judge Wilkerson? A.—I don't feel qualified to answer that.

Stilwell Tells of Meeting.

Abner Stilwell, the next banker on the stand, told about a meeting in New York when the Chicago banker creditors of Insull's companies were summoned by Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric company. He said Insull agreed that in view of the unwillingness of the banks to make further loans to meet maturities in June, that the receiverships must be considered. He then gave his version of the Chicago club meeting, and brought in the name of Calvin Coolidge, the late President, as one of those suggested for Middle West receivership.

"We considered this seriously," said Mr. Stilwell. "In view of the vast empire covered by Middle West and the effect the receivership would have upon the nation we thought it entirely possible that Mr. Coolidge might be induced to accept.

Conference in Insull Office.

"The next meeting was in Mr. Insull's office, and the matter of Mr. Fentress' selection came up. Mr. Insull said the investment of himself and his family in Utility Investments, Inc., was enormous, that his name was back of all the securities and that as a matter of principle some one familiar with the corporate structure of the company should be named co-receiver. We agreed with him and called up Mr. Fentress, who accepted the proposal."

Mr. Stilwell also testified that the bankers, receivers and counsel decided to request the resignation of Insull shortly before his flight to Europe in June, 1932, when they discovered "an abuse of corporate authority."

"Mr. Leavell, Stanley Field, and others discussed the matter with Mr. McCulloch and Mr. Hurley [Middle West receivers] and Mr. Insull had a discussion with Mr. Field and then with Mr. McCulloch," testified Stilwell. "He then went into court and asked permission to be relieved."

Q.—And he was also advised to leave the country, wasn't he? A.—There was no discussion of that.

Attorney Walter S. Dunbar, counsel for the petitioning creditor in the Corporation Securities company, said he filed the receivership bill for that company at the instance of David O. Dunbar of Schuyler, Weinfeld & Hennessy, in whose office the bill was drawn.

Fentress Is Last Witness.

Fentress, the last witness, verified the testimony of the bankers that he was first called in and suggested for the Insull Utility Investments receivership when the bankers met at the Continental.

"I met Melvin Traylor as I went in and he told me he was sorry he had to leave," said Mr. Fentress "'I hope you will consider seriously what they have to tell you,' Mr. Traylor said."

Q.—Now about the banks. Did they ever ask any favors of you? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ever have any trouble with them. A.—No.

In the final arguments today Attorney Ettelson will contend that all the Insull receiverships should be invalidated, on the ground of collusion, and will recite a Supreme court decision holding that equity receivers and counsel should be strictly impartial.

MARTIN INSULL TO APPEAR TODAY IN EXTRADITION TRIAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Dec. 18.—Martin Insull, former Chicago public utilities magnate, tomorrow morning begins his legal battle to upset the order for his extradition. He will appear before Justice Charles Garrow in weekly court.

Tomorrow's argument proceeds on the writ of habeas corpus granted after the extradition order was issued a fortnight ago. The presiding judge can end the legal battle of a year by upsetting the extradition order and freeing Insull. On the other hand, if he upholds the order, it is but the preliminary to long drawn out appeal proceedings in a higher court.

Should the judge free Insull, the state of Illinois, which is demanding his return for trial on embezzlement charges, has no appeal. The state must start extradition proceedings anew on new charges.

Edward Bayly, deputy attorney general for Ontario, representing Illinois in the proceedings, stated tonight that as yet he had no instructions from Illinois covering the laying of new charges should the extradition order be thrown out.

Raisa Tells of $500,000 Loss in Big Insull Crash

Rosa Raisa, dramatic soprano of the Chicago Civic Opera company, yesterday revealed she and her husband, Giacomo Rimini, baritone, lost almost $500,000 in cash and paper profits of the same amount in the crash of the Insull utility empire. Mme. Raisa has returned to Chicago for the revival of opera here Dec. 26.

She told the story of her financial dealings with Samuel Insull in her room at the Congress hotel. They began, she said, in 1926, when Insull sent a confidential man to her suggesting investment in utilities. She gave Insull a check for $100,000 several days later.

Promises Her Wealth.

"When I gave him the check," she said, "Mr. Insull remarked with a smile 'O, you are a rich woman. I didn't know that. You will be a very wealthy woman!' Each year for several years my husband and I gave $50,000 or more. Each year he would show me my profits.

"One year he said I had made $500,000. I told him I would like to realize on my investment and take out the $500,000 profits and leave the balance with him. But he would never let me sell and I never saw my stocks. I had told him if my investment were wiped out I would be ruined, but he said there was no danger."

In 1931, Mme. Raisa said, she began to worry and told Insull she had no more to invest.

Tells Her She Can't Sell.

"On Feb. 10, 1931, I went to Insull's home with Georgio Polacco and insisted that I get my shares," she continued. "He finally gave them to me, but told me under my purchase agreement I had no right to sell them without the consent of one or two confidential men he named.

"They would never let me sell them. I have them in a safety deposit box in Chicago now. But even the rental of the box is worth more than the shares. Some day I will decorate a room with that stock and I will place a picture of Insull in the center."

Mme. Raisa said she returned to Italy after the Insull crash and placed what she had managed to save from the wreck in a bank. The bank at Milan failed.

PONDER THIRD TRANSFUSION IN CASE OF MOTHER

Physicians last night were undecided whether a third blood transfusion would be necessary to save the life of Mrs. Elsie Fritz, 35 years old, 15 West 65th street, the mother of seven small children, whose eighth child was born dead Dec. 10, and whose condition was reported as critical at the county hospital. Dr. Ray Tennant, in charge, said he would give the third transfusion today if she showed no favorable signs of recovery during the night.

The relapse in Mrs. Fritz's condition was reported following a brief improvement in which a pint of blood was given by Martin McManus, 28 years old, 503 Aberdeen street, following a radio appeal for volunteers which brought 200 answers. Frederick Sinclair, 17 West 65th street, a neighbor, had given blood for the first transfusion on Dec. 11.

Mrs. Fritz's husband, Russell, unemployed for months, watches at her bedside each night and then goes home to care for the seven children.

CO-ED MISSING FROM MADISON 2 WEEKS FOUND

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—After two carefree weeks in New York, well seasoned with night clubs and a prize fight, pretty Ann Knauer, 20 year old co-ed of Wisconsin university, was ready to return home tonight to Eagle River, Wis., where she has been reported missing since Dec. 4.

Finding of Miss Knauer ended a two weeks' nation-wide search by police. Shortly after she disappeared from the campus at the University of Wisconsin the search was concentrated at Kansas City, Mo., when word was received that a girl resembling her was in a hospital there. Later there was a wide search in both Chicago and Milwaukee. When these failed, general descriptions of the girl were sent to police departments of many cities.

Ann, a third year student in dietetics, shook her long bob—done in Greta Garbo style—and speculated gloomily on what the university dean of women might say about her absence without leave, and expressed sorrow that she had caused her parents worry.

She anticipated no little "kidding" from her classmates on the campus, but declared her vacation was "an episode I will remember."

Found at Hotel.

New York police found her at a hotel in the Central park section today after her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Knauer, had communicated with them. She disappeared from Madison, Wis., without notifying them.

She said she took her midterm examinations and then found some spare time on her hands. The decision to come to New York was the result of stories of the city told her by her brother, Frank Knauer, a boxer who once fought here, she said.

On the third finger of her left hand she was wearing a diamond solitaire and a wedding ring, but this meant nothing, she insisted. The wedding ring, she said, was a guard for the diamond ring.

"We do that down at school," she explained.

Refuses to Name Escort.

Her escort to the night clubs and other places she visited was a student at Columbia university. She refused to give his name, but said that "mother knows him."

"Marriage? I'm certainly not married. Marriage puts a crimp in one's career," she declared.

She had planned to stay in New York only a week, she said, but found time had slipped away into nearly two weeks before she remembered to notify her parents. Last night she telephoned them.

VANISHES WHEN PLANE IS TUNED FOR OCEAN FLIGHT

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Capt. George R. Pond, co-pilot of the plane Leonardo da Vinci, with which he hoped to fly from New York to Rome, was reported missing to police tonight.

Pond, according to Cesare Sabelli, pilot of the proposed flight, has not been seen since Saturday afternoon when he left his secretary, Miss Lillian Edgerton, at the Pennsylvania station.

Pond and Sabelli, their plane prepared and ready to take off, have been waiting for two months for favorable weather. On Friday, Sabelli said, Pond telephoned him that the weather bureau reported weather conditions were improving and suggested that they take off Saturday.

"The next time I heard from him," Sabelli said, "was when he called me Saturday and asked if I could get the plane ready in two hours. I said I could, and he said he would get the final weather report Saturday night. I have not heard from him since."

SHOPPING GROWS: FATHER TO HAVE A HAPPY HOLIDAY

Gifts for Men in Demand in Loop Stores.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Crowds of Christmas shoppers again filled the loop yesterday, rivaling the throngs which made Saturday a record day of the year in volume of sales. "The gain over last year is continuing steadily," said an executive of one large State street store.

Buying is what the State street merchants call "general and well spread." It appears that father will come into his own this Christmas. Purchases in men's stores and men's departments are brisk. One store has set up a special bureau to help women buy men's wear for gifts.

Toy Counters Crowded.

Toy departments are noisy and crowded. Among new gifts for boys being sold are a device for taking fingerprints, designed for the amateur detective, games of badminton and saws for making jig-saw puzzles. A new Alice in Wonderland doll appears popular. A counter where dolls are repaired and made to look almost new attracts mothers who want to refurbish last year's dolls.

Jewelry aisles are filled with well dressed men and women, one of the items selling in large numbers being the diadem, recently come into fashion again for evening wear.

Evening Dresses in Demand.

Women's afternoon and evening dresses are being purchased in quantities, one store reported. Merchants said repeal of prohibition, which has caused an increase in entertaining, should share the credit with the holiday season for this demand.

Many men were seen at perfume counters and others were seated in those rooms in lingerie departments where men are ushered to save them embarrassment. Among the intriguing items of lingerie is a robe of Burgundy red velvet tied with a sash of chartreuse silk. There is also a quaint Elizabethan robe of dull green velvet embroidered in gold.

CAUGHT IN THIRD LOOP HOLDUP IN THIRTY MINUTES

An immaculately dressed young man who admits 40 robberies in the last month was arrested last night after he had executed three loop holdups in half an hour. He is Francis O'Gara, 27 years old, an ex-convict. He has been on parole from Joliet penitentiary since last May when he finished serving seven years of a 10 year sentence for robbery.

At 8:55 o'clock last night he took $25 from Paul Dost, manager of the Schulte cigar store at 201 South Wabash avenue. At 9:15 he stepped into the United Cigar store at 142 North La Salle street and forced John Fleming to hand over $50. Fifteen minutes later he was in the United Cigar store at 50 West Washington street holding up George Ervig.

But Charles Berg, 2823 North Keeler avenue, saw the last holdup through a window and summoned Traffic Policeman Theodore Klank. The policeman pursued the robber down an alley behind the United Artists theater and captured him. O'Gara said he had been supporting a friend and the latter's wife and two children on the proceeds of his robberies.

Accused of Tax Fixing, Enters Not Guilty Plea

John Little of Littletown, Ill., former employé of the state corporation department arrested last week on indictments returned in November of 1932, yesterday pleaded not guilty to charges of embezzlement and conspiracy before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan in the Criminal court. Little is accused with several other men of accepting money from concerns on promises to "fix" their franchise taxes. The trial was set for Jan. 22 before Judge James F. Fardy.

ORPHAN HOMES FIND CHRISTMAS A BUSY SEASON

Many Couples Seek to Adopt Babies.

The Christmas season seems to turn the thoughts of hundreds of childless couples toward plans for the adoption of babies. This is the observation of officials of two of Chicago's leading orphanages who are now busy with their own holiday rush—taking care of the applications of prospective foster parents.

The two institutions are St. Vincent's orphanage at 721 North La Salle street and the Cradle at 2039 Ridge road, Evanston. From the last days of October through the Christmas season, four or five adoption applications a day arrive at St. Vincent's. This is a much heavier demand for babies than occurs during the other months of the year, it was said yesterday.

Waiting List of 1,000.

The Cradle always has a waiting list of about 1,000 couples who are eager to adopt babies, but the waiting list grows more rapidly as Christmas nears than it does at other times, according to Mrs. William B. Walrath, the managing director. Such is the demand for the 29 babies housed there at a time that no child remains longer than 40 days, she said.

Some of the adoption inquiries are most specific in the description of the type of child wanted, said officials of the two orphanages. Often, however, a couple earnestly in search of a black eyed, black haired boy will be so overcome by the attractiveness of a tiny golden haired girl that their ideas undergo sudden revolution and they prepare to claim the girl child for their own.

At St. Vincent's, it was reported, girls are two to one ahead of boys in the favor of prospective foster parents. The choice is more evenly divided at the Cradle.

In the Visiting Room.

A peek any day into the visiting room of the Cradle would probably disclose three persons sitting, two eying the third with mixed wonder, admiration, and hope. Few words are spoken in this little scene, but important things are considered. "Father" and "Mother" wear the regulation nurses' white gowns and masks. Baby sits or lies in a tiny wicker cradle dressed up to the nth degree.

After the decision once is made no one is more eager for the swift conclusion of the adoption proceedings than the parents to be. These proceedings, which receive final approval in court, requires six months. Consequently, orphanage telephones keep ringing vigorously these days with pleas for the speedy acquisition of the "Christmas baby."

Many precautions are taken both by orphanage and court before a baby is transferred to the fosetr parents. Careful examination is made of financial resources, community standing, home life, and health of the couple that want the child.

CHRISTMAS COMES ONCE MORE TO TUNE OF TRIBUNE CAROLS

The Christmas season was hailed last evening with the wafting of carols into Michigan avenue from loud speakers on Tribune Tower. The program originated in the studios of WGN, THE TRIBUNE radio station on the Drake hotel.

From 5 to 5:15 the music went over radio as well as the Tower loud speakers, but from 5:15 to 6 it continued over the loudspeakers alone. The program was as follows:

The carols and Christmas concert music will be heard every evening at the same hour from the tower until Christmas.

TWO PASSERSBY ARE WOUNDED IN GUN BATTLE

A man and a woman were shot last night as they walked in the vicinity of 53d street and Cornell avenue, in an exchange of shots between a policeman and two gunmen. The wounded are Robert Fairweather, owner of a cigar store at 1613 West 53d street, who was shot in the left thigh, and Mrs. Roy Hinman of the Flamingo hotel, 5520 South Shore drive, who was slightly wounded in the left leg.

Policeman Samuel McSheffery of the Hyde Park station halted the two gunmen in front of Alex's restaurant, 1609 East 53d street. Suspicious of the men's actions, he was walking up to search them when they drew revolvers and fired as they ran from him. The policeman returned the fire and pursued them for some distance, but they escaped.

On his return from the chase McSheffery found Fairweather lying in the street. He took the wounded man to the Chicago hospital, where Fairweather said he was shot as he watched the gun battle. A few minutes later the police were notified of Mrs. Hinman's wound. She said she was on her way to shop, accompanied by her daughter, Elsie, 19 years old, when a bullet grazed her leg. She was treated in the office of Dr. Robert A. Black in the Del Prado hotel, 5307 Hyde Park boulevard.

13 Per Cent Increase Noted in Holiday Postal Receipts

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 18.—(AP)—A 13 per cent increase in postal receipts for the first two weeks of December, as compared with the corresponding period of last year, was announced by Pittsburgh postoffice officials tonight. The total for this year is $343,275, exceeding last year's net receipts by $41,095.

DESPONDENT, SHE SWALLOWS POISON.

Despondent over ill health, Mrs. Olga Gerace, 43 years old, 5440 North Menard avenue committed suicide in the kitchen of her home last Monday night by swallowing poison.

MANHATTAN PHONE LIST GAIN INDICATES REGAINED PROSPERITY

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—The Cohens and the Kellys, the Smiths and the Joneses are slowly winning their way back to prosperity, if the new winter issue of the Manhattan telephone directory is an index.

Because of the improved financial status of Manhattan's millions, the new issue of the book has lost something of the lean and hungry look it has worn since the eventful year of 1929.

The new issue, 538,000 copies of which will be distributed in the next 10 days, contains 1,040 pages and approximately 400,000 alphabetical listings. This represents a gain of 12 pages and some 5,000 listings compared with the sad, slim volume labeled "Summer, 1933," which was the thinnest of the depression directories.

The Cohans, Cohens, Cohns lead the list with 18 1-6 columns of space, a gain of about one-third of a column since last summer. The Jonses just about hold their own with 5 2-3 columns and the Kellys with four and a fraction.

LEGION TREATS CHILDREN OF 22 VETS TO A PARTY

Advertising Men Give a Christmas Party.

Twenty-two children of needy former service men were entertained yesterday at the annual Christmas party given by the Advertising Men's post of the American Legion in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman. Selected by the Cook County Veterans' Welfare bureau, the children were treated to entertainment and to presents. These were distributed by Dick Singer, acting as Santa Claus.

Various Christmas parties will be held throughout the week. The Chicago Rotary club members will gather in the Hotel Sherman grand ballroom today for their annual Christmas stag party. Balloons, hats, whistles, and entertainment by several stage stars appearing in Chicago theaters will be provided for the holiday program.

Plenty of Seats Available.

Boxes and several hundred seats still are available for "Chicago's Own Christmas Benefit" show, to be given in the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night, Mayor Kelly announced. Tickets are on sale only at the benefit committee's office, 33 North La Salle street, and all checks must be payable to Col. A. A. Sprague, treasurer. Proceeds will go toward providing 40,000 needy Chicago children with warm clothing on Christmas day. All expenses are paid for out of private subscription.

Current ticket sales have totaled more than $100,000 to date, it was announced. The cast of the show will include the Chicago Symphony orchestra, the Paulist choir and many radio and theatrical stars.

More than 300 children will be entertained at the annual Christmas party given by the Chicago Mercantile exchange next Friday afternoon. A giant Christmas tree will stand at one end of the trading floor, beside which a chimney will climb high into the air.

Santa to Come Down.

Santa Claus, who during the rest of the year is Harold L. Brown, will emerge from the chimney at 2 o'clock and distribute toys, candy, nuts, sweaters, and stockings to all the children. Each child will be given a basket filled with chicken, canned goods, butter, eggs, and fruits, all contributed by members of the exchange. Buses will bring the children from the south side to the exchange and return them to their homes.

The Salvation Army as usual is busy distributing Christmas cheer to the poor. Four tons of candy will be delivered to 30 grammar schools in poorer districts today for distribution at school parties to be held tomorrow and Thursday.

Several hundred underprivileged children will attend the Salvation Army's Christmas parties at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Among them will be 155 children of war veterans, who will be taken to the parties by members of the D. A. V. Children on the south side will go to the South Side settlement, 3053 Normal boulevard; north side, Scandinavian Corps building, 3256 Wilton avenue, and west side, the Salvation Army citadel at 1512 West Madison street.

50 GOOD FELLOW PILOTS TO CARRY BASKETS SUNDAY

Coming in Relays from All Points of Compass.

BY PHIL MAXWELL.

Every one connected with the aviation industry seems to want a hand in Good Fellow activities. "The response has been great," said Capt. Benjamin B. Lipsner, known as the father of the United States air mail, who is chairman of Aviation Good Fellows. "We had set our quota for the aviation industry at 100 baskets, but it looks now as if it will be nearer 150. Sunday is going to be the happiest day in our lives. I can hardly wait until I see the first plane carrying Good Fellow baskets coming out of the sky to the Chicago airport."

Fifty pilots, on their regular scheduled trips, will carry baskets of food and toys to more than 100 families next Sunday afternoon. They will fly to Chicago in relays from all points of the compass.

Women to Be Hosts.

Official hosts to the Good Fellow aviators will be members of Women's National and International Federation of Aeronautical Associations, of which Dr. Irene Behnke is president. In addition to meeting the pilots with automobiles and taking them to the homes of the Good Fellow families the members of this organization will deliver ten baskets themselves. The Chicago Girls' Flying club will supply baskets to five families, and Miss Mary Jane Johnstone, an employé at the Curtiss-Wright airport, has enlisted the aid of aviation enthusiasts from the north shore airports, and ten north side families will be made happy through their kindness.

Assisting Capt. Lipsner at the airport Sunday in details connected with distribution of the more than 100 baskets will be ten members of the Aviation post, No. 651, American Legion, led by its commander, Harry M. Zimmer, and twelve men from the classified ad department of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Help Welcome Armada.

Chicago people are cordially invited to visit the Chicago airport and join with the official committees in welcoming this first armada of Good Fellows. A group of singers from the Lawson Y. M. C. A. Glee club directed by Frank Bennett, heard over W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE radio station, will sing Christmas carols through the airport amplification system Sunday afternoon.

The Stevens hotel will take care of ten Good Fellow families at Christmas time. Giving to the fund for the purchase of the baskets were hotel executives, chefs, waiters, waitresses, bell boys, and other employés.

If you have not already joined the Good Fellows the quickest way to sign up is to call Superior 0100 and ask for the name of a needy family, or fill in the application blank in today's TRIBUNE. The time is short and there will be hundreds, yes, thousands, of poor families that will not have the touch of Christmas unless you and others come to their help. Won't you be a Good Fellow?

PARDON CONVICT WHO ONCE WAS DRESSED TO DIE

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 18—[Special.]—After once being dressed in a black suit and his head shaved in readiness for the Sing Sing electric chair, Edward Larkman was granted a full pardon here today by Governor Lehman.

Larkman was serving a life sentence for the murder of Ward J. Pierce during the holdup of the Art Metal Works in Buffalo on August 12, 1925. He has been in prison eight years.

His pardon followed efforts by his wife, three young children and friends to obtain his freedom since May, 1929, when Anthony Kalkiewicz confessed that the Buffalo robbery was committed by the "Big Korney" gang.

"Larkman wasn't a member of the gang," Kalkiewicz said in a confession written in the death house at Sing Sing.

Nevertheless, mainly on the testimony of a woman witness, Larkman was found guilty of murder and sentenced to die.

Bonds Set at $50,000 for Threatening Judge

The $5,000 bond of Alexander St. John, accused of making threats against Judge John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court, was raised to $50,000 yesterday by Judge Philip J. Finnegan in the Criminal court. St. John, who is 56 years old and lives at 4103 Prairie avenue, was arrested Saturday night at his home by police after Judge McGoorty reported the threats. Two pistols were found in his home. Judge McGoorty said St. John's enmity is due to the fact that several years ago the judge compelled St. John to recompense the mother of his illegitimate child.

DIES AFTER FALL IN HOME.

Mrs. Louis Anderson, 76 years old, 4903 West Austin avenue, died in the county hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Dec 8 when she fell in her home.

N. Y. DEPOT FIRE DELAYS SERVICE ON PENNSY ROAD

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—All train service to and from the Pennsylvania station was disrupted just before noon today by a fire in the Pennsylvania railroad's substation power plant.

The trains on both the Pennsylvania and Long Island systems were halted, the former for almost an hour, the latter for a much longer period.

The fire started from a short circuit in the basement of the power plant at 11:46 a. m. The power from the main plant at Woodside, Queens, was immediately shut off, halting all trains and plunging the Pennsylvania station into darkness.

Two Manhattan bound trains from Long Island were stopped in the tunnel under the East river. The passengers, far from showing signs of panic, got off the trains and walked along the concrete walks into the station, their way lighted by dimly glowing emergency lights and by the flashlights of trainmen and railroad police.

Kelly to Be Guest at Irish Tourist Dinner

Mayor Edward J. Kelly will be the guest of honor at a dinner to be given at the Palmer house Thursday night by the Irish Tourist association. Judge John P. McGoorty will be toastmaster. One of the speakers will be D. J. McGrath, Irish Free State consul in Chicago. The Irish Tourist association, a non-profit organization directing its efforts toward stimulation of tourist traffic to Ireland, will be approximately $22,000,000 on Jan. 1, 1934.

SEEK CHRISTMAS PAY FOR SCHOOL WORKERS TODAY

Bankers Halt Warrant Buying.

An all day conference between bankers and public officials ended last night at the city hall without sufficient money pledged for a Christmas pay day for the 14,000 teachers and 4,000 other school employés in Chicago. James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, announced that another meeting would be held today.

Payment of the city employés for the last two weeks in September was begun by City Treasurer James A. Kearns. The pay day fulfilled Mayor Kelly's promise that the city employés, including police and firemen, would receive a whole month's pay before Christmas. The compensation is for the first two weeks in September.

The county employés will start receiving today their pay checks for the first half of October. Edward J. McCabe, assistant to County Treasurer McDonough, said that the $375,000 pay roll is made up almost wholly of collections of taxes through the Kerner-Skarda act.

Bankers Dodge Warrants.

The school pay day, it was said, was held up because some of the banking representatives did not want to purchase any more warrants than they could apply on the payment of their taxes for 1933.

The proposed school pay day is for the first two weeks in April of this year. The pay roll amounts to $2,078,946. The school board needs to sell $1,800,000 worth of warrants for the obligation since it has cash on hand for the remainder.

The half month pay roll, classified according to employés, was outlined by School Auditor Harry Brackett as follows:

Teachers	$1,700,746
Civil service	325,041
Building fund	35,814
Playground	16,715
Total	$2,078,946

Paid up to April 1 the school workers have had one month in cash and two months in tax anticipation warrants, which have been selling at about a 10 per cent discount, for their services in 1933. If the Christmas pay day goes through the pay roll obligations of the board of education will

SIMON PREDICTS BIG DROP IN BRITISH IDLE TOTAL BY CHRISTMAS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 18.—Great Britain will celebrate its merriest Christmas since the beginning of the depression if a forecast delivered by Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, speaking at Stoke-on-Trent today, comes true.

The foreign minister, addressing the North Staffordshire Chamber of Commerce predicted a big drop in unemployment figures by the end of the month. He said:

"Throughout the year unemployment figures have been going down and I hope by Christmas it may be possible to say that within these 12 months 800,000 fellow citizens, who were without work during the year, found jobs."

Britain's position is steadily improving, according to Simon, and up to the end of the first half of the present financial year, the nation's financial position was better by $210,000,000 than at the close of the corresponding period last year.

Face $85,000,000 Liability.

The present board is faced with an $85,000,000 liability in tax warrants and interest outstanding, which has paralyzed the market for any future borrowing.

The question of what to do about the retirement of outstanding 1928 and 1929 warrants came up late in the day at a meeting of the executive committee of the Chicago recovery administration. Not sufficient taxes will be collected for those years to redeem the warrants. The committee evinced its disapproval of the issuance of 6 per cent bonds, authorized by the legislature, by the school board to pay off the obligations.

The committee also asked the school board to refrain from starting the completion of five new schools in the city. The board has already resumed the building of five new high schools through public works administration funds, which is the only major PWA project started in the city. According to members of the CRA, further building would increase the tax burden.

IRISH BLUE SHIRT LEADER TO SEEK FREEDOM IN COURT

Wins Right to Apply for Habeas Corpus Writ.

DUBLIN, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Permission to apply to the high court for a writ of habeas corpus in connection with the arrest of Gen. Owen O'Duffy, blue-shirted leader of the United Ireland party, was granted to legal advisers of the organization tonight by Justice Johnson. Hearing on the application was set for Wednesday.

Police and soldiers, meanwhile, patrolled the vicinity of Westport barracks where Gen. O'Duffy was held following upon his arrest Sunday.

Secretive About Plans.

Authorities were secretive about plans regarding the leader, who was taken to police barracks after a series of clashes between his followers and police.

An official statement was lacking, but it was believed that O'Duffy might be brought to Arbour Hill barracks here. The general attempted to address a gathering at Westport, Mayo, and, although he wore a banned blue shirt, the symbol of the movement opposing President De Valera, the charges against him, if any, were not announced.

Three armed and masked men, meanwhile, held up the guard of the Dublin-Kerry train today at Rathmore and seized and destroyed copies of De Valera's paper, the Irish Press. They escaped in an automobile.

May Face Military Court.

The opinion was expressed unofficially that the blue shirt chieftain would be notified to prepare for arraignment before a military tribunal. In such a case the government believes it could hold him a month while completing its case.

Possible action in connection with the arrest, it was understood authoritatively, was discussed at a private meeting today of the United Ireland party executive. It was at this meeting that leaders of the party proposed to apply for a habeas corpus writ, charging wrongful arrest.

Immigration Alarms Ulster.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Dec. 18.—The Ulster government is greatly concerned over the increasing immigration into the northern territory from the Irish Free State of persons with anti-British attitudes.

It is feared the increase in immigration may eventually jeopardize the loyalist majority. Consequently, the Ulster government is taking measures to restrict the voting rights of southerners settling in the northern border districts where the loyalists formerly predominated, but where the influx has swung the majority to the other side. The immigration is regarded as a threat against the northern parliament and a step toward an all-Ireland republic.

A passage in King George's speech read at the opening of the Ulster parliament today foreshadows a move to deal with the problem.

"A measure will be laid before you," the members were told, "dealing with qualifying the period of residence governing the registration of voters in northern Ireland."

Viscount Craigavon, prime minister, told parliament that citizens of northern Ireland "are not going to be slaves under a Free State parliament, or still less under an Irish republic."

"They are not content to have any dictatorship from any such government," he added.

President Eamon de Valera of the Free State, who was elected to represent South Down in the Ulster parliament, did not appear at the session.

State to Sue the City to Stop Dumping in Old Canal Bed

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Director Kingery of the state department of public works made known this afternoon that Attorney General Kerner has been advised to file suit against Chicago to enjoin the city from further dumping in the I. and M. canal. The purpose of the state is to protect the waterway, long abandoned for navigation, as the right of way for the eventual construction of a depressed boulevard.

Inter-department correspondence at the capital here indicates that the use of militia or state police was contemplated as a means of halting the city's dump trucks. Gov. Horner, however, feared this might bring about a clash between the city's blue coats and state's khaki uniforms. He recommended "prompt and decisive" court action.

Used as Economy Measure.

Early this year Chicago began dumping refuse into the old canal bed in the southwestern section of the city as an economy measure. Disposal in privately owned clay and gravel holes was costing the taxpayers $200,000 a year.

Last summer, the state ordered Oscar Hewitt, city commissioner of public works, to desist. He asked for a few more weeks to bargain with owners of quarry excavations as a substitute receptacle. Late last week, Springfield received reports that a crew of city employés was grading the banks of the canal at Crawford avenue to take over another section of the waterway for dumping.

"This action of the city," said Director Kingery, "is a trespass on state and federal property, contrary to specific orders from the state administration and in violation of the state constitution that designates the I. and M. canal as a permanent channel for navigation.

"Furthermore, the city is jeopardizing the efforts of the state through legal measures to obtain title to the channel for a future motor highway. An act of congress dated March 30, 1822, states that 'if such ground shall ever cease to be occupied by and used for navigation' the reservation and federal grant of land shall be void. A bill has been introduced in congress to modify the terms of the federal grant."

Calls Route Feasible.

State highway engineer Lieberman last year surveyed the canal bed and reported that its conversion into a highway was feasible and practical. He recommended that the channel should be retained as a continuous right of way as far from Chicago as La Salle, Ill.

The depressed boulevard eventually would be connected with an elevated highway in Archer avenue. In the initial construction program on an elevated highway system recommended by Dr. Miller McClintock in his traffic survey, one of the projects is a pavement on a trestle in Archer avenue from State street to 31st street. In future years, this would would be extended farther southwest with a branch serving the Chicago airport and a branch connecting with a roadway in the I. and M. canal, depressed and with continuous grade separation as far as Justice, Ill.

UNION LEAGUE WILL CELEBRATE 54TH BIRTHDAY

The 54th anniversary of the founding of the Union League club will be celebrated by the club Thursday by a luncheon at which C. S. Cutting and De Wolf Hopper will be the principal speakers. Incorporation papers were issued Dec. 19, 1879, for the "Chicago Club of the Union League of America." The Illinois secretary of state who issued the charter was George H. Harlow, who was a founder and the first grand secretary of the Union League of America.

Burglars Get $5,000 Loot in Nairn N. Shore Home

J. L. Nairn reported to Lake Forest police yesterday that burglars had invaded his home at Castle Gate court and Burton drive sometime during the week-end and carried away loot valued at $5,000. Mrs. Nairn is in an Evanston hospital, and her husband, who has been staying in Chicago, discovered the burglary yesterday when he visited the home. The burglars stayed in the house for some time, consuming several bottles of liquor.

Harpo Marx Gets Cheers in His Russian Debut

LENINGRAD, Dec. 18.—(AP)—In Broadway's own parlance, Harpo Marx knocked 'em cold here tonight. Making his first appearance before a Russian audience in his knife dropping act, the American comedian brought down the house in the music hall as a capacity audience of usually phlegmatic soviet theatergoers applauded, stamped, cheered, and whistled for twenty-five minutes during and after his six minute act. He wore a wig, played a harp, and preserved his usual silence.

LAWYERS YANK FEATHERS FROM BLUE BIRD'S TAIL

NRA Quills Are Loosed in Mirthful Satire.

Feathers were plucked from the tail of the NRA Blue Eagle last night by judges and prominent attorneys in the cast of the ninth annual lampooning musical comedy of the Chicago Bar association, "Christmas Spirits, 1933." The quills were loosed in mirth provoking satire at Chicago judges, attorneys and politicians.

In the audience of 1,000 lawyers and their wives in the headquarters of the association at 160 North La Salle street were several of those portrayed. These were loudest in laughter at the good-natured jibes. Others will be present at a second performance tonight.

The comedy opens in the NRA headquarters at Washington with Attorney John D. Black in a stovepipe hat and enormous brass epaulets as Gen. Hugh Johnson catechizing a corps of senior, junior and associate economists and special, labor and deputy advisers. This ends in a Bronx cheer for Henry Ford and a cry of "liars" for Chicago newspapers.

Sing of Baloney Dollars.

The staff rises to sing the new national anthem of "Baloney Dollars Looping the Loop" and "Alphabet Snatched from the Soup." The chorus to the tune of "My Country 'Tis of Thee" is:

"My Country 'tis of thee
AAA, CCC, HOLC,
TVA, HLB,
NRA, FRC,
PWA, FCT,
FDIC."

One of the administration "brain dusters," Prof. Zilch [Clifford G. Roe], presents a plan to save the country which, in part, is "to the subtrahend add one pint of cognac, bind two stitches as the beginning of every row, purl sixteen; knit ninety-two and repeat at end of round." As the staff burst into wind, acclaim is quelled when two keepers arrive to take "the professor" to an asylum.

High Spot of Evening.

The high spot of the evening to the audience came a moment later when Attorney Frank J. Link, as "Sally Rosalie," coyly exhibited his beauties in a fan dance to charm the administrator into a favorable code. After wild applause "Sally" returned with an encore accompanied by a horse [Seward H. Bowers and Clarence R. Conklin] with pantalettes in jesting reference to the now famous remark of Judge Joseph B. David in the Sally Rand case, "Some people want to put pants on horses."

Attorneys Francis X. Busch, Richard C. Stevenson and Lawrence J. Dahlgren as personal injury lawyers to demand a code. One asked for standardization of "slipts" to doctors and nurses, the second for slower ambulances so that chasers would not be outrun and the third for a 40 hour week for witnesses "including rehearsals."

Federal Judge William H. Holly in the audience found himself the target for jests in a takeoff of himself by Archibald Cattell, clad in a frock coat and silver wig. Cattell sang to the air, "Lord Geoffry Amherst":

"I'll avoid the disposition of those judges who elect
To concentrate their favor on a few.
As to counsel and receivers, your desires I'll respect,
When the traffic belongs to you."

Favorable to Thompson.

The stage judge in turn jibed a colleague of the bar, Dean John H. Wigmore, author of volumes on evidence, for "the coincidence" in his opinion in the Insull case. By odd chance, it was said, the opinion was favorable to Floyd Thompson, Insull lawyer, who retained him.

Samuel Ettelson, former Insull lawyer, now on the other side of the case, came in for fun poking in the person of "Sam Yiddelson". [Henry G. Miller] in speaking of his part in the case.

"I didn't get retained," the character said. "It's a system. You work for a fellow and do a lot of monkey business. In that way you learn his secrets. Then after a bit you hop to the other side and blow him open. Ethical? Don't be silly—there's millions in it."

Thrust at Democrats.

Another hit of the evening was a thrust at the failure of the local Democratic leaders to get federal patronage. Nash, Rosenberg, and Arvey were portrayed by Judge Howard Hayes, Warren B. Buckley, and Thomas L. Owens as three tramps. They lined up with huge letters on their chests spelling NRA, to sing:

Nash—All of our plans upon the bum.

Rosenberg—For our appointments do not come.

Arvey—Gee, how we wish we could get some.

All—Three hungry Democrats, by golly; all of us Fell quite melancholy; everything seems off the trolley."

The performance closed with the entrance of a complainant threatening to halt the NRA by appealing to the United States Supreme court. With a roar "Gen. Johnson" asked, "One of these cock-eyed birds that think they know how to run their business," and sings to the tune of "The Three Little Pigs":

Who's afraid of the Supreme court?
Supreme court, Supreme court?
Who's afraid of the Supreme court,
Not the NRA."

The book of the show and its general direction are by Attorney John R. Heath.

10th Red Sentenced to Die for Murder of Hitlerite

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—Nine lives for that of one Nazi have failed to satisfy the Leipzig supreme court. It added another death sentence to complete the 10 for 1 ratio. A group of communists was accused of storming Nazi headquarters in July, 1932, at Erkradt, near Duesseldorf. One Nazi was killed. This year the alleged attackers were tried and nine were sentenced to death. They appealed to the supreme court which added another death sentence.

50 POLICE LED BY STEGE HUNT CONVICT GANG

Ten Squads Assigned to Capture Outlaws.

Supervising Police Captain John Stege last night was placed in charge of ten police squads—50 men—who were assigned to devote their time to the capture of the Dillinger band of escaped Indiana convicts which is believed to have committed several recent crimes in Chicago. The latest crime was the murder of Police Sergeant William T. Shanley last Thursday by John Hamilton, one of the convict gang.

At a meeting held in Police Commissioner Allman's office yesterday and attended by Chief of Detectives Schoemaker, Capt. Daniel Glibert, chief investigator for the state's attorney, and Lieuts. John Howe and Frank Reynolds, it was decided to print a special bulletin containing the pictures of the Indiana convicts. The bulletins will be distributed to all Chicago policemen with the instructions to have the pictures constantly with them.

Stege Picks His Men.

Capt. Stege went to the detective bureau last night and began the work of selecting from some 6,000 patrolmen the quick trigger men he wants. The men he chooses will be divided into two shifts, one group working from 11 a. m. to 7 p. m. and the other group working at night.

His men will replace the 40 city policemen now patrolling the highways under the supervision of the state's attorney's office. These men will be returned to their respective stations and Stege's men will be put on the streets in their stead. Capt. Stege will not give up his work as supervising captain of the Fourth district, but will assume the added duties of directing the man hunt.

Meanwhile Jean Burke, 24 years old, and Arthur Johnson, 29 years old, were charged with disorderly conduct and admitted to bail of $100 each yesterday after having been in custody for more than 24 hours on suspicion that they knew the hiding places of the convict gang.

Two More Are Seized.

Both the Burke girl and Johnson, who is said to be a gambler, denied knowing John Dillinger, leader of the convicts, or Hamilton, the killer of Sergt. Shanley. Hamilton's sweetheart, Elaine De Kant, 34 years old, still was in custody, and during the day Ted Lewis, 39 years old, and his wife, Agnes, were taken from a rooming house at 1039 North Dearborn street for questioning on their possible acquaintance with the Dillinger gang.

In Milwaukee, Harry Nelson, 39 years old, supposed to have been an associate of Dillinger, was charged with vagrancy after having been held since last Friday. There was evidence of a Milwaukee hideout for the escaped convicts. After several telephone calls from Chicago had been traced to a Milwaukee rooming house the place was raided yesterday, but the man sought had departed.

Taken Off Train

Sheriff F. W. Ward of Vermillion county yesterday returned to Danville with Wesley Grant, 21 years old, of Danvers, Mass., alias Edward Bollivis, an alleged bandit, and his companion Barbara La Valle, 17 years old, of New York City, who were taken from an Illinois Central train yesterday morning.

Grant, it is charged, held up the Tivoli theater in Danville, then forced a Danville taxi driver to take him and the girl a distance of 106 miles. The cab broke down in Matteson, in Cook county, and the couple boarded a Chicago-bound train. County highway police were notified and the train was stopped at Hazelcrest and the two placed under arrest.

TWO ARE KILLED WHEN TRAINING PLANE CRASHES

Warrenton, Mo., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Capt. Wilton M. Briney and Lieut. Graham St. John, both of Kansas City, were killed nine miles south of High Hill, Mo., tonight when their training plane crashed in a rugged section of Warren county.

The bodies were not found for several hours. First reports of the crash were made by Wayne Williams, a Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., pilot. He said the two ships had been flying close together before the crash.

Capt. Briney was a member of the air corps reserve. Lieut. St. John was executive officer of the air corps post at Kansas City and a reserve instructor.

MILK CONTROL MAY INVOLVE KILLING OF COWS

Farmers Suggest Plan to AAA Officials.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—The next step in the new deal for the farmer may find the federal government engaged in the wholesale slaughter of milch cows.

Such a proposal, it is understood, is being seriously considered by officials of the agricultural adjustment administration. They began today the formulation of a national program for regulating the nation's milk supply by controlling production at the dairy farm.

That plan, together with a number of alternatives, will be discussed tomorrow at a conference between officials of the AAA and representatives of the dairy industry.

Although the nature of the production control campaign has not been decided, the slaughter proposal bears the indorsement of the National Milk Producers' Cooperative association and is expected to be at least a part of the program eventually announced.

Could Kill Ailing Cows.

The producers' association, which has wielded a powerful influence thus far in the development of dairy relief programs, is understood to recommend the slaughter of diseased cows as the major item in the milk production control scheme. In addition, the association proposes to eliminate the competition of oleomargarine from the butter market by insisting that butter substitutes be made only from domestic fats and oils, and to continue federal butter stabilization with a view to selling the purchased surpluses abroad.

Whether the recommendations of the association will be followed was a matter of conjecture today. At least seven alternative programs, it was learned, are being considered by the AAA, any one of which or a combination of which may be decided on.

Meanwhile the farm administration prepared today to impose federal processing taxes on milk and its products to finance the prospective attempt at controlled production. Announcement of the tax and a definite milk marketing year is expected to be made before the end of this week as the forerunner of the campaign to regulate the national milk supply.

To Tax Butter Fats.

The processing taxes, it is understood, will be applied on the butter fat content of fluid milk. The rate of tax has not yet been determined, but a one cent levy per pound of butter fat, it was pointed out today, would mean a tax of approximately four cents per hundred weight on fluid milk. The tax probably will be higher than one cent, however, as this rate would raise only approximately 30 million dollars—an amount hardly sufficient to finance the national production control program.

The tax, it is reported, is to be applied to all milk at the point of processing and distribution. Under this plan some two million people engaged in the handling of milk would be subjected to the federal impost. A rough estimate today placed the total number of producer-distributors of milk at 660,000, milk distributing plants at 32,000, creameries at 6,000, ice cream plants at 3,000, and cheese plants at 700. All of these industries will be subject to the processing tax.

The development of the national milk control program is the first direct result of the new alignment in the AAA which finds Chester C. Davis, former production control chief, in the position of farm administrator. Together with Secretary Wallace, Mr. Davis believes a national program for controlling the supply of milk at the farm to be essential to the restoration of dairy prices.

May Change Agreements.

The local milk marketing agreements drawn up under former Administrator George N. Peek are slated for drastic revision. It was considered possible that the schedules of fixed retail prices now included in all the agreements may be eliminated entirely. It was also regarded as likely that the base surplus plan embodied in the agreements will be completely supplanted by the national production control plan. With only the price to the producer fixed in the agreements, it was pointed out today, retail prices would be kept at the lowest possible level by competition among milk distributors.

The audit of the books of large Chicago dairies, made by AAA accountants to determine the actual margin of profit between producer and consumer prices under the federal milk pact for Chicago, was to be laid before Mr. Davis tomorrow, it was learned. C. H. Fryburg, who headed the Chicago audit, had not completed his summary and report of the investigation in time for submission to the new administrator today.

NEW MILK POLICY CAUSES RUMBLES AMONG DAIRYMEN

Although the National Coöperative Milk Producers federation was named yesterday in Washington dispatches as sponsor of the plan to cut dairy production by slaughtering cows, rumblings of discontent with the farm relief projects of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace were heard yesterday from directors of the federation.

The directors met in the Morrison hotel to discuss prospective changes of policy governing milk production as the result of the displacement of George N. Peek as agriculture adjustment administrator. They made no official statement, but several of the directors grumbled. The federation has been a strong backer of marketing agreements to fix prices of fluid milk for producers and consumers. So was Peek. Secretary Wallace was not, and with Peek out of the picture the marketing agreements seem destined for the discard.

The coöperative directors were angry because, they said, Secretary Wallace, by refusing to carry out the government's pledge to put price cutters out of business robbed the marketing agreements of any chance of success.

In apparently a final effort to save the Chicago milk marketing agreement, members of the Milk Council, Inc., the dealers' group dominated by the "big four" dairy companies, held a long conference yesterday for the announced purpose of considering amendments to the milk code. They, too, broke up without any formal announcement.

DRIFT TO FARM FROM CITY SEEN IN ICKES REPORT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—(AP)—A drift away from the city in a back to the farm movement as a result of "widespread unemployment" in industrial centers was noted today by Secretary Ickes in his annual report to President Roosevelt.

The secretary's report was brief, but with it he transmitted reports of bureau chiefs on the interior department's many activities.

"Each year hundreds of thousands of urban workers, with their families, voluntarily or under pressure of economic necessity," the report said, "leave the city for the country, and other hundreds of thousands of farm boys and adult farmers with their families leave the farm for the city.

"In the present situation of widespread unemployment in industrial centers, however, and for several years back it happens that the net drift has bene away from the city—a net back to the farm movement."

Experiment in West Virginia.

The report referred to the $25,000,000 set up for the establishment of subsistence homesteads whereby industrial workers could raise a part of their food on small farms in slack seasons and said the initial move under the program had been among a small group of West Virginia coal miners.

"Society has definitely assumed responsibility for enabling these miners to become self-supporting with the aid of federal funds," the report continued. "They are 'potential' farmers and are to become real farmers. This means that they must be taught how to farm for home consumption, and also taught to engage in some subsidiary craft or trade suitable for the rural community or the home by which they can supplement the family income."

Predominant throughout the report was the emphasis laid by the chiefs of the various bureaus and divisions upon their decreased activities occasioned by sharp economies being effected in the department.

Reclamation Income Cut.

Dr. Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation, said that income due his bureau from all sources during the fiscal year ending June 30 was $4,688,255.57, or $711,059.37 less than in the previous year.

John Collier, commissioner of Indian affairs, said the Indian service was "moving on certain main lines of policy," and remarked that the allotment system under which great sections of Indian land holdings had fallen into the hands of whites upon the deaths of Indian owners must be revised.

DIES OF FALL OFF HIGH CHAIR.

Mrs. Roosevelt Clears Up Rumors About Dog, Charity

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Roosevelt hasn't been given $50,000 with which to play Santa Claus; and she wasn't forbidden to take her dog into a public building the other day. Both yarns are capering through Washington conversation. So Mrs. Roosevelt took time at today's press conference to correct them.

As to the $50,000, it was really $15,000, and she's never seen a dollar of it. With dramatic coincidence, in the same mail about two weeks ago came two letters, both from Detroit. One was from a man asking her to speak at a meeting of ex-newsboys at which they hoped to raise a fund for Christmas charity. The other was from a man asking her advice as to the best method of disposing of $15,000 which he wished to use for charity. It took her but a minute, of course, to send letter No. 1 to man No. 2; letter No. 2 to man No. 1; thereby, she hoped, uniting supply and demand.

Stories Get Twisted.

But the story got twisted in the telling and retelling; somebody printed that she had been given $50,000, and now her mail is filled with requests, suggestions, demands, concerning this mythical money.

As for the dog episode: It is true that she took her Scottish terrier, Meg, with her the other morning when she accompanied her friend, Lorena Hickok, to Miss Hickok's office, the Walker-Johnson building, home of the federal emergency relief administration.

"But it is not all true," she said this morning, "that the custodian of the building had to ask me not to take Meg inside, since dogs were forbidden. I like dogs, but I do not believe in taking them where they don't belong."

"And it was I who went out of my way to find the guard and ask him if dogs were admitted. When he said 'no,' I, of course, walked Meg around the block while I was waiting."

Discuss U. S. Projects.

The talk turned to several governmental projects, in connection with housing, and with work for unemployed women. In each case, when the matter had come up at previous conferences, Mrs. Roosevelt had enthusiastically suggested that the newspaper women go to the specific government department in charge of that project to get additional information.

Today the girls lamented: "But Mrs. Roosevelt, not all the government officials are like you. We go to them and they won't give us the news."

It was a revelation to Mrs. Roosevelt.

"Now the other day," said one of the women, "you told us of a project under a man over in the treasury, but Mr. Morgenthau ——" here seven others chorused "won't let the men in the treasury talk."

Another reporter who wanted to find out about a local housing program said that she had been unable to get any information from Mr. Frederic Delano, the man in charge of it. Now Mr. Delano is also Mrs. Roosevelt's own uncle. So she turned to her secretary and said:

"Please call up Uncle Fred and see what news we can get."

Find News Scarce.

In a few moments the secretary returned. "Uncle Fred," it developed was in New York. His secretary told Mrs. Roosevelt's secretary that there wasn't any news to give out. And that was that.

"Please tell us," burbled one of the girls, "what Sistie and Buzzy are going to get for Christmas."

Mrs. Roosevelt shook her head. It wouldn't be very kind of a grandmother, she pointed out, to tell the world what her grandchildren were going to get for Christmas when Christmas was still in the future, and should, after all, be a surprise to one's grandchildren.

Mrs. Frances Thorne Asks Divorce in Reno

Reno dispatches yesterday told of the filing of a suit for divorce by Mrs. Frances Heyworth Thorne, formerly of Lake Forest, against Richard Van Wyck Thorne, an actor, now living in New York. They were married in Hollywood in June, 1930. Mrs. Thorne charged nonsupport. She was the daughter of the late James O. Heyworth, contractor. She acted in Junior league plays here ten years ago, then joined a stock company and had several parts on the stage.

DONNE REMOVED AS MANAGER OF HOME LOAN HERE

corporation's operations in his state constituted such a handicap to his continued management as seriously to interfere with efforts to afford relief to home owners and his successful direction of the work in Illinois.

"He therefore expressed his desire to withdraw in the interests of home owners of his state and pledged his personal coöperation in the work of the corporation."

Hunt Fraud Evidence.

Chairman John H. Fahey of the Home Loan board declared in announcing Donne's removal that the entire Illinois situation is to be investigated at once. Any employé of the corporation found to be violating the provisions of the act, he declared, will be discharged so fast "it will make his head swim and prosecuted if evidence of fraud is obtainable."

"We intend to complete our survey of conditions in Illinois and elsewhere and unhesitatingly to correct any defects in organization or weakness in personnel which we may find," said Mr. Fahey. "The difficulties in handling loans promptly in Illinois are very serious because of the complicated tax situation, in Cook county particularly.

"No influence of any kind is necessary or will be considered in disposing of loan applications filed with this corporation," the chairman continued. "No one needs to pay a cent to any one to receive preferred attention. Applicants for loans which the corporation can make will get what they are rightfully entitled to; no more and no less.

Promises Fair Treatment.

"Exactly the same fair treatment will be afforded to mortgagees. Any employé of the corporation, in any capacity, who disregards these principles of fair play and the plain intent of the government in the administration of the home owners' loan act will be discharged so quickly it will make his head swim, and prosecuted if evidence of fraud is obtainable.

"Not only in Illinois, but every other state, the board is engaged in intensifying its work and it proposes to push it to the limit with due allowance for such reasonable care as is necessary to protect the interests of the government as well as the home owner. The home owners of Chicago and Illinois need have no doubt that anything will be left undone so far as the Home Owners' Loan corporation is concerned to afford them such assistance as they have a right to expect under the law."

NEW CHIEF HERE TODAY

William H. McNeal of the Washington staff of the Home Owners' Loan corporation, will arrive in Chicago this morning to take charge of the Illinois HOLC office which was left without a head yesterday by the resignation of William G. Donne as state manager. Mr. McNeal will remain until a permanent successor to Mr. Donne is chosen.

It was learned yesterday that Henry G. Zander Jr., former president of the Chicago Real Estate board, still is looked upon in Washington as the leading candidate for the managership.

Discuss Reorganization Plans.

Plans for reorganization of the Illinois office of the HOLC were discussed in several quarters during the day. Morton Bodfish, executive vice president of the United States Building and Loan league, commended the federal home loan bank board for its action in making an investigation of the HOLC here.

He called the Illinois situation an inevitable result of mixing politics and finance, and warned that similar trouble would result from any reorganization that did not eliminate this mixture.

Mr. Bodfish urged the selection of non-salaried boards of leading citizens to supervise the policies and operations of the HOLC in each state. He said this safeguard was omitted from the text of the law on the assurance that its principle would be followed. No such group ever has been set up in Illinois, he said.

Offers New Operation Plan.

New method of operation was suggested by Frank C. Rathje, president of the Chicago City Bank and Trust company. This plan provides for farming out all detail mortgage work to banks, insurance, title and mortgage companies, and other organizations with capable staffs already established. This would make the HOLC a judicial agency to determine whether a mortgage holder is eligible for a loan and for approximately how much. The HOLC also would have the final duty of exchanging federal bonds for a mortgage after the investigative work had been done by agencies properly equipped for it.

Two other Chicago bankers recently presented such a plan to the Home Loan bank board, where it is said to have met with approval.

Mr. Rathje, who recommended Donne for appointment as HOLC manager blamed politics for Donne's resignation and predicted that any man named to the post will be similarly handicapped. Donne was formerly manager of new business for the Chicago City Bank and Trust company.

Donne Denies Politics.

Donne, who returned to Chicago from Washington on Sunday, refused to comment yesterday on the political aspects of his resignation except to deny that he had been compelled to consider politics in organizing his staff. He protested against proposals to break up the present staff of the Illinois HOLC office.

"The organization is functioning," he said. "To break it up would mean nothing but prolonged trouble for distressed home owners, because it would take several months to build up a new organization to the efficiency of the present one."

Donne will go over the Illinois situation today with Mr. McNeal. His resignation is effective at once, and he will be taken off the federal payroll Jan. 1, 1934.

DRAFT PROGRAM TO PEG DOLLAR, BALANCE BUDGET

The second day the President will reduce the gold content of the dollar. The third day the treasury will redeem the three day certificates with 3½ billion dollars of gold at the new valuation, retaining the other 3½ billions if the reduction of the gold content is fifty per cent.

The 4½ million dollars of new money the government would use to finance the enormous expenditures under the recovery program which are expected to raise the budget for the 1935 fiscal year to the neighborhood of 6 billions. Budget Director Douglas estimates that ordinary expenditures will be 2½ billions and ordinary receipts 3½ billions.

Issue Currency Against Gold.

With the 4½ billions the government would proceed to embark on a controlled inflation, at least an inflation presumably limited to this amount. Against the 4½ billions of gold the treasury would issue currency with which to meet the expenses of the recovery program. But the currency would not be redeemable in gold.

The gold standard would be restored in a modified form. Gold coin would no longer circulate. Gold would be held in the treasury and federal reserve vaults in the form of bullion and would circulate among central banks only in settlement of international trade balances.

With 4½ billions from the dollar devaluation and 500 millions from liquor taxes the administration could balance the extraordinary as well as the ordinary budget, even if the unknown requirements of the RFC should boost the aggregate expenditures beyond 6 billions.

Morgenthau Holds Up Rates.

This prospect is said to be one reason that Acting Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau said he would not recommend new income tax rates until after the budget is framed and proposed conservative modifications of the revision of the income tax law are recommended by the ways and means subcommittee.

With 4½ billions of new money in hand it would not be necessary to raise income tax rates, at least so far as the 1935 fiscal year is concerned.

Claiming a 5 per cent rise in commodity prices as a result of a 16 per cent increase in the government's manipulated gold price, Mr. Morgenthau today declared that he is satisfied with the results of the administration's monetary program.

Coupled with Mr. Morgenthau's quiet praise of the dollar's depreciation was another statement from him declaring that he was confident of the continued strength of government credit.

Together, the two statements were taken here as snubs for the Brookings institute, local research agency which yesterday denounced the gold program, and for the National Economy league which yesterday told the President that the cost of his recovery program was threatening federal credit.

Acting Secretary Morgenthau's claims for the gold policy's effect on commodity prices followed the increase of five cents in the government's gold price, the first increase ordered since Dec. 1. The price quoted for newly mined domestic gold was $34.06 an ounce.

Buy 469,491 Ounces.

Thus far purchases of domestic gold have amounted to 469,491 ounces and have cost $15,682,000, Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, through which the gold is purchased, revealed today. Refusing to disclose how much gold America had bought abroad, Mr. Jones said that recent reports of purchases totaling $35,000,000 "would do."

Contrary to the administration's theory, the rise in the gold price today, although it was the first in 17 calendar days, brought no rise in security or commodity markets. Both stocks and commodities suffered net losses for the day.

Secretary Morgenthau, however, was not disturbed by daily developments. Reading from charts at a press conference this afternoon, he declared that if commodity prices on Oct. 21, the day the gold buying was announced, were taken as 100, the present price level would be 105½.

During this same period the price of gold has been raised 16 per cent, he said. Asked if he was satisfied when commodity prices had reacted only a third as much as the gold price, he said he was.

PUBLIC WORKS ART POSITIONS SOUGHT BY 700

More than 700 artists applied at the Public Works Art Projects headquarters at 135 South La Salle street yesterday, continuing their efforts to become government employés. Six more needy painters and sculptors were added to the pay roll, bringing to 140 the number of Chicagoans thus employed. The quota for the Chicago region, which includes Illinois, Wisconsin, and Minnesota, has been reached at 300. Until Thursday these artists will be working on their designs and sketches for the "American Scene" suitable for the embellishment of public buildings throughout the United States.

Walter Brewster, chairman of the committee in charge of applicants, said yesterday he wished to emphasize the the PWAP is not a relief project in the sense of a government dole. There is work to be done, he said, and only competent creative artists are being sought. No distinction is being made between modernists, traditionalists, cubists, or conservatives.

New applications will be received Thursday at 135 South La Salle street, according to Mrs. Increase Robinson, who is in charge.

Soviet Official Here to Promote Travel in Russia

American interest in Russian travel has increased since the Roosevelt administration gave recognition to the soviet government, according to Wilhelm A. Kurtz, Moscow president of Intourist, Inc., Russian travel company, and member of the general executive committee of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. He arrived yesterday for an inspection tour of American hotels and travel bureaus, and spoke at a luncheon of the local Intourist agency in the Palmer house. Mrs. Kurtz is accompanying her husband. Today Mr. Kurtz is to be guest at a luncheon at the Chicago club of a group of business men interested in Russian trade, and at a dinner to be given tonight at the Stevens hotel by the Society for Cultural Relations with Soviet Russia.

STUDY COERCION CHARGE IN STEEL PLANT ELECTION

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—(AP)—A large number of affidavits charging coercion and intimidation at Friday's election of labor representatives at plants of the Weirton Steel company were studied today at the justice department and by the national labor board.

At the close of the day it had not been decided what course of action would be taken on the request of Chairman Wagner of the labor board that an injunction be sought in court to enable the board to conduct a new election.

Officials said there were "several hundred" affidavits, which, with "the complex nature of the case," made further study necessary before going into court.

The affidavits arrived today, with a report from department of justice agents sent to the plants at Weirton, W. Va.; Clarksburg, W. Va., and Steubenville, O., to watch the election held in defiance of the labor board.

The board insists that company interference in the election violated the collective bargaining provision of the national recovery act.

The officials who conferred on the matter today included Harold M. Stephens, assistant attorney general in charge of anti-trust law prosecutions, and Milton Handler, labor board counsel.

Legal Society to Honor Atty. Rocco De Stefano

Rocco de Stefano, veteran attorney, will be honored tomorrow on the anniversary of his 35th year in the practice of law by a testimonial banquet and dance to be held in the Morrison hotel by the Justinian Society of Advocates, an Italian-American legal organization. Mr. De Stefano has served in many public capacities. He has been an assistant corporation counsel and an assistant attorney of the forest preserve district.

FIND SOME CWA WORKERS DRIVE TO THEIR JOBS

176 Autos Parked Near 2 Canal Projects.

The Chicago program of the civil works administration went into full swing yesterday with about 100,000 men on jobs for the city, park boards, board of education, and sanitary district. Hardly had it begun when questions were raised as to how much of the made work—which was intended for the needy and idle—is being apportioned to persons who already have a livelihood.

The queries arose when it was discovered that some of the workers drove to their tasks in private automobiles. It was not believed that the CWA intended that owners of cars or those who possess means of livelihood should be given preference over heads of families who have been subsisting alone on charity.

Many Care Are Found.

Groups of cars were found at both of the largest concentration points for the new sanitary district workmen. They were observed on the north and south sides, where the spoil banks along the drainage canals are being leveled. On the north side two shifts of 1,600 men each worked along the channel with their base at Kedzie and Foster avenues, the first shift from 6 a. m. until noon and the second from noon until 6 p. m. About noon, when the project was at its height, 96 workers' cars were counted near Kedzie and Foster.

The largest concentration point for the canal workers on the south side was 35th street and Kedzie avenue. Drawing their picks and shovels there, 9,000 men spread along the canal from California avenue to Crawford avenue, digging away at the steep spoilage banks which are piled like small mountains. Near 35th and Kedzie 80 cars were parked, some ramshackle, others sturdy.

City Uses 30,000 Men.

The city used about 10,000 men on water pipe extension work and about 20,000 others were mending brick and asphalt paving. The remainder of the workers were distributed on board of education jobs and in the parks.

Lincoln park had about 2,000 CWA men working on the made-land extension off Wilson avenue. Fifteen cars were noted at the concentration point for these workers.

It could not be ascertained yesterday how many of the CWA workers have been employed recently. Dr. Martin Hayes Bickham, chairman of the civil works division for Chicago, said that about 33,000 men who were on work relief jobs before the CWA was established have been transferred to the 30 hour a week CWA jobs which pay 50 cents an hour.

Unable to Make Estimate.

He could not estimate how many of the remaining 67,000 CWA workers have had jobs within recent months. He explained that no CWA jobs have been apportioned to men who had employment after Nov. 1. Those who had work before that date were included with the relief clients when the work lists were made out, Dr. Bickham said.

Some of the CWA projects were not ready to handle all of the men assigned to work on them. Many of the men spent most of their six hour shifts waiting for tools and work to do. It is expected that later in the week the spoil bank work at least will be functioning more smoothly. Part of the delay yesterday resulted from failure to complete dumping stands where the earth taken from the banks will be put in trucks.

CIVIL WORKS GROUP TO SURVEY ILLINOIS FOR FARM HOUSING

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 18.—(AP)—A house-to-house study of what life is like on the average Illinois farm will be made as part of the civil works program, it was announced today.

The federal government has asked the University of Illinois college of agriculture to direct the survey, which is described as a study particularly of farm housing. Approved plans for the survey call for putting a force of 110 investigators into the field, with 21 supervisors and 33 office workers to aid them.

Besides paying salaries the government will provide $4,750 for the expenses of the survey. Most of the field workers will be women, it was announced at CWA headquarters, with preference given to those with experience in home economics.

What the depression has done to the farm home and its equipment will be one of the things the investigators will attempt to learn, according to CWA officials.

DUNHAM DENIES THAT 'PULL' AIDS CWA JOB SEEKERS

Widely circulated rumors that political considerations are affecting the assignment of workers to civil works projects were emphatically denied yesterday by R. J. Dunham, civil works administrator for Illinois. Although enough projects have been authorized to employ Illinois' full quota of 231,750 persons, the assignment of workers was still progressing today.

"It has come to my attention," Mr. Dunham said, "that many people are under the impression that they can obtain special considerations on CWA projects if they see their aldermen or some political official. This is not true. No favoritism is shown in the assignment of any person to a civil works job. The procedure under which these people are selected has been carefully worked out to eliminate favoritism."

Complaints from many workers that they have not been paid promptly yesterday brought the explanation that salaries have been held up in the highway division because of the burden thrown upon a clerical force by the sudden employment of tens of thousands of persons. In other divisions, pay rolls are being met more promptly. All workers should receive their checks for last week's work by this Thursday, it was announced.

Riot Cases Delayed

Judge John Gutknecht in the Boys' court yesterday continued to Jan. 4 the cases of ten men alleged to have participated in the riot between 3,000 Ukrainians and several hundred communists on Sunday at Madison street and Hermitage avenue. One hundred persons were hurt in the fighting. Judge Gutknecht released an eleventh defendant, Luther Pierce, 37 years old, colored, when police said they believed him to have been only a bystander.

MUNDAY'S JOB MAY COST HIM 1 TO 10 YEARS

Salesmanship of 7 Years Ago Kicks Back.

While Charles B. Munday's lawyers were preparing an appeal yesterday to the Illinois Supreme court in an effort to set aside his recent conviction on a charge of embezzlement, it was suggested that the 72 year old ex-banker's present difficulties might be traced indirectly to his own salesmanship of some seven years ago. Briefly, he got himself a job, now that same job threatens to get him into prison for one to ten years.

Munday, who in 1921 completed a one year sentence in Joliet penitentiary for his part in the Lorimer bank failures, was found guilty in the Criminal court last month on a charge of embezzling $1,100 from the State Mill and Elevator of North Dakota, a state owned concern, for which he was Chicago agent. It was charged the total defalcations amounted to $23,000.

Claims $16,000 Commissions.

The former banker denied the charges and countered with claims that the North Dakota company owed him nearly $16,000 in upaid commissions. A jury convicted him nevertheless, and last week Judge T. J. Lynch sentenced him to prison, but allowed 60 days for an appeal, which is now being prepared by Attorney Harry Eugene Kelly.

In connection with the impending appeal, Assistant State's Attorney Marshall Kearney, who prosecuted the case, told how Munday obtained the North Dakota company job that has brought him his present troubles.

Long in Grain Field.

"Munday for years had been in the grain and flour business, and was a stockholder in the C. B. Munday company, which dealt in that business," said Mr. Kearney. "One day he was at Fargo, N. D., testifying before a grain commission, and there he became acquainted with O. L. Spencer, general manager of the company. Munday told Spencer he would like to be the company's Chicago agent, to handle the company's flour. The company was looking for an agent at the time, and several months later Spencer gave Munday the job."

That was in 1928. The Munday company represented the North Dakota interests until 1931 when Munday was indicted. Under the arrangements made, the Munday company was to receive 25 cents on each barrel of flour it sold. According to Munday's attorney, Mr. Kelly, Munday sold more than 500,000 barrels of flour, but at no profit.

MAYOR OFF CIVIL WORKS PAY ROLL IN KANKAKEE

Mayor Dode Rex of Kankakee, who was acting as foreman of a CWA pick and shovel force in his city, is definitely off the civil works pay roll, but the five Kankakee aldermen working on the crew will not be fired, Director Robert J. Dunham of the Illinois CWA announced yesterday.

"Our investigation shows the aldermen were assigned to the jobs in the regular fashion," said Mr. Dunham, "and were approved by the United States reemployment service. This puts the affair out of our province. The CWA only creates the jobs; it doesn't hire the workers."

Mr. Dunham ordered the Vermilion county, Illinois, civil works committee to keep politics out of the work program, after Democrats complained that Republican voters were given preference for CWA jobs. He said the Democrats supported their charges with evidence.

KELLY SATISFIED ON 'COMPROMISE' LIQUOR CONTROL

Believes Home Rule Is Amply Assured.

thority, but said that he believes the mayor, because of his police powers, should be the sole revoking authority. He will appoint some one to hear complaints regarding licenses, he believes.

There is no provision in the Lager bill regarding bars. It provides that liquor selling shall not start until 1 p. m. Sunday, but sets no closing hours. It was pointed out that this might either presuppose a Saturday night closing hour, or even a restriction on sales after midnight Saturday.

The Lager bill also provides that no saloon may be operated on premises for which a previous license has been revoked for a period of one year after the revocation, and it provides for local option by single precincts or groups of precincts not oftener than once in four years, at a general election.

The bill also makes it a crime to carry liquor in an automobile except in the original, unopened package.

Saloon Gone for Good.

In answer to a question, Mayor Kelly said that in his opinion the bill will not mean the return of the old saloon.

"What the old saloon meant to me," he said, "was a screened front, back rooms, open all night and all day Sunday, selling to everybody and a breeding spot for crime and criminals. All that is out, barred by the city ordinance, and in some cases the state law as well. In my opinion, the presence of women will add respectability to the premises handling liquor."

Although Mayor Kelly has issued a warning that those wishing to stay in the retail liquor business after Jan. 1 must file their new application and deposit $250 with the city collector by Wednesday evening, only 1,826 of the 8,323 in business had filed their applications.

Although it was not stated at the city hall what action would be taken, the mayor previously announced that those who fail to file a new application and make a deposit would be closed without further notice after tomorrow.

DELAYED BY CHANGES

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner's hope that the Illinois liquor control bill would be sent ahead at full speed was jolted today by the amount of labor required to redraft the measure in conformity with the changes agreed upon at the conference he held with Mayor Kelly and other Chicagoans Sunday night.

Another day was lost because the mere drafting of approximately 30 amendments was more than the legislative reference bureau could handle during the day. It had been planned last week to have all such amendments ready for introduction in the senate this afternoon so they might be printed and ready for action tomorrow.

Work Into Evening.

But all during the day new changes, many of them of a technical nature, have been brought before the draftsmen. At the hour set for the senate meeting it was concluded the job could not be completed until late in the evening, after which the entire list of proposed changes was to be gone over by Gov. Horner.

Under these circumstances the few senators on hand recessed their session until tomorrow and spent the late part of the afternoon going over the revised text with the governor.

There is little belief now that enactment can be completed this week. If the senate disposes of the long array of amendments tomorrow it might act on the bill on Wednesday, but that action requires a two-thirds vote.

House Must Act, Too.

Then, if that vote is recorded in the upper chamber, the bill must go back to the house of representatives for concurrence in the senate amendments and there again a two-thirds vote would be required. It is doubted that there will be a strong attendance in the house until its members know that the senate has passed the bill.

Therefore there is a question in the minds of most observers whether the house will get down to work on the final stages of the proceedings until after Christmas.

The only report of new hostilities in the offing is that several downstate Republican representatives who have supported the bill up to this time are threatening to reverse themselves because of the agreement reached between Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly. They are beginning to call the regulatory measure a Democratic bill.

2,200 Petition for Repeal of Aurora Rum Ordinance

As Aurora's new liquor ordinance went into effect yesterday a petition bearing 2,200 signatures and asking that the measure be repealed was filed with the city council. The principal objections listed in the petition are to the $1,000 license fee and to a clause permitting dancing in barrooms. There is also objection to a provision barring all drinking on Sunday. Although the ordinance became effective yesterday no licenses were issued and no applications for licenses were received. "It will be Jan. 1 before any licenses will be issued, city officials said. The repeal petition will be considered at a special session of the council today.

EX-MATE JAILED

MRS. MARIE ARCHIBALD.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Robert Archibald, 401 Fullerton parkway, an interior decorator, carried two heavy green drapes over his arm when he appeared yesterday before Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the Superior court. When Attorney Norman Becker charged that Archibald is $722 in arrears in alimony payments to Mrs. Marie Archibald, who divorced him in 1929, Archibald extended the drapes to her.

"These are worth a lot of money," he told his ex-wife. "Maybe you can sell them for something."

"Keep them," ordered Judge Desort. "You can use them to drape your cell in the county jail, where I'm sending you for six months."

Paraguay's Proposal Is O. K.'d by Bolivia.

MONTEVIDEO, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Bolivia accepted a proposal for a truce in the Gran Chaco border warfare with Paraguay, it was authoritatively learned tonight.

Paraguay proposed the armistice at the Pan-American conference in order to allow for an arbitration of claims of the two nations, which have been in dispute over the Chaco Boreal for 50 years.

Paraguayan delegates suggested that hostilities cease between midnight tomorrow and midnight on Dec. 30. This President Gabriel Terra of Uruguay, conference chairman, immediately cabled to President Salamanca of Bolivia pressing for an immediate acceptance.

President Ayala of Paraguay said that under an armistice he intended to insist on the broadest guarantees against a renewal of hostilities at any time in the future.

False reports of an armistice stirred Montevideo this afternoon when news of President Ayala's proposal caused newspapers to blow the sirens of their plants in the belief that at last peace was about to be effected.

Parley Marks Time.

The Pan-American conference meanwhile vitrually marked time while Miguel Cruchaga, the Chilean minister of foreign affairs; Dr. Carlos Saavedra Lamas, the foreign affairs minister of Argentina; Secretary of State Cordell Hull, and other leaders in the peace negotiations followed the progress of the truce negotiations.

While pointing out that several knots must be unraveled before a discussion of a permanent settlement of the conflict could begin, leaders were optimistic that a truce would end active fighting, which has lasted seven months and three days and cost thousands of lives.

The dispute over the sovereignty of the triangular wilderness—a land of swamps and heavy forests—has gone on much longer, although open war was declared only last summer.

Pope Peacemaker.

One break in the hostilities occurred last Christmas when Pope Pius was successful in arranging a temporary peace between the combatants.

The proposal for the armistice came at the peak of a Paraguayan drive which apparently routed Bolivians throughout the lower Chaco region. In this latest offensive 15,000 Bolivians were reported killed, many others were said to have been taken prisoner, and three major Bolivian forts were occupied by the Paraguayans.

Mr. Hull said that today's developments, the result of the efforts of various pan-American statesmen, showed a splendid evidence of the spirit of peace in the new world.

He added that it appeared that the Chaco war monster was being brought to its knees.

"War as a Last Resort."

President Ayala's message said that "the Paraguayans accepted the war as a last resort to defend their sovereignty and to embrace a hope of attaining tranquillity essential to their progress and welfare."

He added that conditions of security adequate to protect the country would require a detailed examination, "as does a definition of peace bases, wherefore Paraguay has already proposed an armistice to the league of nations commission" after a consultation with the military command.

OPEN OLD SCARS FOR OKLAHOMA'S 1934 CAMPAIGN

Two Ousted Governors Among Candidates.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The candidacies of two ousted governors for state offices herald an exciting campaign in Oklahoma next year.

In a gubernatorial field that promises to have more than a score of men seeking the Democratic nomination will be J. C. "Rain' Jack" Walton, impeached and removed as governor in 1923 during the historic Ku Klux Klan fight in which the white robed cohorts fought him to the last ditch.

Walton, now a corporation commissioner, recently made a preliminary announcement as a candidate which political observers viewed as definite. And today, Henry S. Johnston, state senator, who was impeached and ousted from the governor's chair on grounds of incompetency, announced he would be a Democratic candidate for congressman at large.

In Sudden Limelight.

He will oppose the incumbent, Will Rogers, who flared into the limelight in the last election with his unexpected victory.

Another candidate, one of the "best acquainted" men in Oklahoma, is blind Ernest Reno, who for many years has operated the state capitol cigar stand.

Johnston's announcement came as a surprise. Gov. W. H. [Alfalfa Bill] Murray, selecting a slate of candidates, had endorsed him for lieutenant governor. Under the law Murray cannot be a candidate to succeed himself.

Dread Klan Strife.

The gubernatorial race is certain to bring factional strife to fever heat. About the time the Walton boom got under way came rumors the Klan's political activity would be revived. These reports, denied later by the Klan officials, caused deep concern to the conservative element, which remembered the old wounds of a decade ago.

The Republican-Democratic coalition that fought Gov. Murray from the beginning of his campaign, is all set to pound away at his choice for the governorship, Tom Anglin, of Holdenville, speaker of the house and former state senator.

Republican leaders may see in the Democratic strife a chance to swing a winner into the fore, but no candidates have announced yet for the Republican nomination.

E. W. Marland, Eighth district congressman, also is running for governor.

Found Shot to Death in Auto; Accident, Kin Say

Gus Silver, 35 years old, 3517 Lexington street, was found shot in the right temple in his automobile at 79th street and Roberts road, Stickney township, yesterday afternoon. He died shortly afterward in the Little Company of Mary hospital. Police said he evidently had shot himself, but at his home it was said his death was an accident. Silver and a brother operated a trousers manufacturing business at 412 South Wells street.

Elmwood Park to Vote on PWA Loan Proposal

The village board of Elmwood Park decided last night to submit to a referendum by petition the much criticized proposition of whether or not the village should obtain a $150,000 PWA loan for the construction of a reservoir. John A. Cullerton, who has opposed the project from the start, denounced the board for its decision.

STATE LISTS 57 WITNESSES FOR WYNEKOOP TRIAL

Names Reveal Scope of Murder Inquiry.

In a list of fifty-seven witnesses who are expected to appear against Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop in her trial for the operating table murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty yesterday disclosed hitherto unknown features of his investigation. By order of court Dougherty had been directed to furnish Attorney Frank Tyrrell, representing the elderly woman physician, with the names of those who would testify against her.

He turned over the list to Tyrrell yesterday. It includes the names of several girl friends of Earle Wynekoop, husband of Rheta and son of Dr. Wynekoop. This was regarded as indicating that the trial will bring out Earle's extra-marital affairs while he was a guard at the Sky Ride during the World's Fair and was not living with his wife and mother in their home at 3406 Monroe street. The trial is scheduled to begin Jan. 4.

New Names in Inquiry.

Many of the names on the list of witnesses had not previously appeared in the inquiry but Prosecutor Dougherty refused to further identify the persons. This was taken to mean that the state has investigated the private lives of Dr. Wynekoop and her son, who for a time was held on a charge of being an accessory before the fact of murder.

Every one who had to do with the selling of three insurance policies on the life of Rheta is named in the list. Dr. Wynekoop had made several applications for insurance on her daughter-in-law and a $5,000 double indemnity policy was obtained shortly before Rheta's death. Dr. Wynekoop was the beneficiary.

Many of the persons named in the list are neighbors of the Wynekoop family. Their testimony, it was said, is to concern what happened before the evening of Nov. 21 when Rheta's body with a bullet hole in the back was found on Dr. Wynekoop's operating table in the basement of the Monroe street home. The young wife had also been chloroformed.

Stege Heads Police Witnesses.

Supervising Police Captain John Stege, who obtained a "confession" from Dr. Wynekoop which the woman physician later repudiated, heads the group of police witnesses listed. An undertaker, Thomas J. Ahern, who was called to the Wynekoop home before the police were notified, is named, as are the three coroner's physicians who examined the body of Rheta, and Dr. Harry R. Hoffman of the Criminal court behavior clinic.

Among the other witnesses listed are Bernard Gardner of Indianapolis, Rheta's father; Miss Enid Hennessey, school teacher, who lived in the Wynekoop home; John Van Pelt, houseman for the Wynekoops; Mrs. Vera Duncan, a neighbor; Miss Priscilla Wittl and Miss Margaret McHale, who kept company with Earle Wynekoop at various times; Stanley Young, Earle's companion on a trip to the west which began the day of the murder; Roy Young, Stanley's brother, and Dr. John M. Berger, who was called to the Wyneekeoop home after discovery of Rheta's body.

The remaining witnesses are Frank Tapaul, Harry Hodges, Mrs. Allen Lang, W. J. Brown, Morgan Hickey, James Simmons, Miss Ester English, Miss Julia McCormick, F. G. Wagner, Hyman G. Brown, Miss Florence Kates, Miss Eleanor Djurstrom, Miss Edith Kinsey, F. J. Pisternich, Mrs. L. Stone, Louis Gordon, J. Sweet, Miss Margaret McGrath, John Brenoch, John J. Kleiman, Fred Pros, Frank Kasik, Joseph Glanzer, Mrs. T. Spring, M. Schulkins, Miss Florence Reese, Edward Newman, Harry Wright, William Cook, Henry Vogt, Thomas Harvey, and P. Isaacson.

SHOT TO DEATH

Italian City Scurries to Cover in Air Attack Drill

TURIN, Italy, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Alarm sirens sent the inhabitants of Turin scurrying to cover today as Italy's principal industrial city tried out its defenses against air attacks. Troops, firemen, ambulance brigades, and police joined forces in extinguishing hypothetical fires, rescuing wounded, and guiding pedestrians into subterranean refuges.

TELLS OF BRIBING FIRE INSURANCE CORPS IN LONDON

Self-Confessed Gang Chief Describes Corrupt Acts.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 18.—The London salvage corps, which is the unofficial body employed by fire underwriters, but with a semi-official status, has been corrupt for 50 years. This assertion was made in the Bow street police court today by Leopold Harris, self-confessed and convicted leader of a firebug gang in a hearing of charges against Capt. Brynmor Eric Miles, chief of the salvage corps. Miles is accused of taking bribes from Harris and his gang to report incendiary fires as accidental and to favor the gang in the assessment of damages.

CAPT. B. E. MILES.
[Acme Photo.]

While he was testifying Harris was handed a sheet of paper on which were typed the names of certain members of the salvage corps. He was asked to mark with a cross the names of the officers he said were bribed by him.

One He Didn't Bribe.

Handing back the document Harris declared:

"If I just cross one name out, all the rest were bribed by me."

Harris also declared that with very few exceptions the entire salvage corps was bribed by him. He said members came openly to his office, sometimes wearing uniforms, to receive their money.

Asked if he had started the corrupt practice, he said it had been in vogue before he was born. He declared he never approached anybody with a bribe but left it to them to open up a conversation in which they showed themselves willing to accept remuneration in exchange for certain services they might be able to render.

Regarding the salvage corps, Harris declared it was a question of the assessor paying the biggest shilling getting the better service. In other words if the salvage officer was getting for instance one-third of the fee from an opposition assessor and the Harris company was not prepared to pay that amount, they set out to recommend and assist this other firm of assessors.

Admits Handing Over $2,500.

"It simply meant we had a race to compete with methods of opposition assessors for claimants," he said.

Questioned concerning a sum of $2,500 which mysteriously found it way to Capt. Miles' banking account, Harris admitted paying it to the account. He testified Miles knew he was making the payment as the captain had sent him a letter about it.

Asked concerning the allegation that Miles had received regular monthly payments from Harris as "refreshers," Harris stated it was perfectly true that he paid Miles a monthly allowance of $125.

Bets on Dog Race.

He also said that he placed a bet on a dog named Golden Liar for Miles at the dog races. The dog won and Harris paid Miles the winning price of $250. In further testimony regarding his "gifts" to Miles, Harris said:

"I'm not one to pay for nothing. Miles had information to sell and I was the buyer."

The cross-examination ended with a declaration by Harris that "I have never said one word against Capt. Miles that was not the truth."

The case was then adjorned until Wednesday.

REWARD OFFERED BY TENNESSEE GOVERNOR FOR NEGRO LYNCHERS

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Describing the lynching of Cord Cheek Friday night as a "disgrace," Gov. Hill McAlister today posted a $1,000 reward for apprehension of the Negro's slayers. The county grand jury laid aside all other matters to push "a thorough and complete investigation."

The 19 year old Negro's body was found hanging from a cedar tree near Columbia in Maury county. He had been kidnaped from the home of relatives here and, therefore, Davidson county authorities assumed jurisdiction. He had been accused of an attempted attack on a girl.

Criminal Judge Chester K. Hart instructed the grand jury to "immediately take such steps as may be necessary to bring the guilty parties to justice."

At Columbia Chief Deputy Sheriff W. A. Pinkston said little progress was being made in investigating the lynching.

NEW YORK FINDS LABELS CAN LIE AS IN DRY ERA

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Nearly half the whisky sold in New York's licensed restaurants and hotels is adulterated. Some of it is nothing more than alcohol and water artificially flavored and colored. This was indicated today by chemical tests of twenty-five samples collected by health department inspectors.

Announcing the results of the investigation, Health Commissioner Shirley Wynne said of the twenty-five samples 52 per cent were found to be straight whisky, 8 per cent were Scotch, all of which contained artificial coloring, and 40 per cent were "imitation whisky," blends containing varying percentages of whisky or no whisky at all.

Nine of the bottles from which the whisky was poured were labeled "for medicinal use," the health commissioner said, but the liquor did not meet the United States pharmacopeia requirements, which specifies that such whisky must be aged four years in wood.

GENEROUS TERMS OF PENSION PAY FUNDS DEFENDED

Actuaries See No Need of Further Tax Raises.

The generous provisions under which the public employes' benefit and annuity funds are operated were defended yesterday by actuaries employed by the pension boards. The latter asserted that such money does not constitute charity or gratuity, but rather is in the nature of "deferred pay." They asserted the pension systems stimulated morale of the employés and increased efficiency, thus saving the public money.

Yesterday the completion of a survey of the eight principal pension systems of the local governments disclosed a pyramiding of pension tax funds paid in virtually without realization by the taxpayers, with prospects of a still greater burden to be borne because of already increased pension tax rates. These pension tax levies now total $10,000,000, and it is estimated they soon will reach the sum of $20,000,000. The beneficiaries are increasing annually in number, as are the pension and benefit disbursements.

Actuary Defends Systems.

Among those who spoke in justification of the present pension systems, excepting that of the school teachers, which alone is not on the actuarial reserve basis, was Donald F. Campbell, an authority on pension law and the actuary for a number of the pension funds. Mr. Campbell condemned some of the periodical raids on the legislature for increased pension taxes and benefits. He declared there will be no need for further tax rate increases providing abuses are kept out of the systems and the tax collection situation improves.

The actuary warned against the reduction of the annuity benefits or against an increase in the amounts contributed to the funds by employés out of their salaries. To reduce the amounts of annuities and benefits, he declared, would result in a wave of retirements before legislation to that effect could be enacted. The danger, he said, would be a sudden abnormal drain on the cash reserves and would cost the taxpayers more than if the payments are left at the present levels. To reduce the payments would be tantamount to a repudiation of a contract between the employer and the employé, he said.

Lifetime Annuities Provided.

Under the present arrangements employés who retire after rendering a specified number of years of service are entitled to lifetime annuities, ranging from 50 to 75 per cent of the salaries last earned. The maximum salary considered is $3,000 a year. The pension benefits also provide for widows and children of employés, and for duty and ordinary disability while employés are in active service.

Employés contribute approximately 4 per cent of their salaries into the pension funds, while an amount equivalent to 8.3 per cent is contributed out of taxes. In the police and fire pensions 12 per cent from taxes goes into the pension funds in addition to other items. The balance of the pension taxes collected goes into the reserve fund for additional pension needs such as prior service liability, which is the length of service credited up to the time the pension fund was established or placed on an actuarial basis.

"Since pension systems were first created there has been a continuous demand on legislatures to increase the benefits under which they are operated," said Mr. Campbell. "These demands have been made on the legislatures with little or no attempt to estimate the increased cost to the taxpayer. All the funds established for a considerable number of years except the municipal employés' fund have been guilty of this practice.

Present Taxes Adequate.

"If the benefits now being afforded by the allocation reserve funds are not increased by future legislatures, if the valuations in Cook county are not further reduced, if the pay rolls do not increase beyond the present ratio of pay rolls to assessed valuation, and if 85 per cent of the taxes levied are collected, I am willing to go on record as stating that the taxes now authorized will be adequate for present and future needs."

A. A. Weinberg, actuary for the Park Employés' Benefit fund, in which participate the employés of the west, south and Lincoln park districts, expressed a similar point of view. He said further:

"The modern conception of a pension rejects the idea of gratuity. It does not consider the pension as a sum that is taken from one class of citizens and given to another, but established itself upon the conviction that a pension is granted in consideration of service, having been earned by the recipient during the period of employment. Pensions tend to protect the public service from incompetence, which results from the continuance in that service of an employé after his period of efficiency has passed."

WRITER LEWIS HALTS DINNER; PEEVED BY FLASHLIGHT PHOTOS

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Sinclair Lewis, winner of the Nobel prize for literature in 1930 and storm center of several rather theatrical episodes, added another to his list tonight. He halted the Nobel centennial dinner at the Hotel Roosevelt for 20 minutes while he retired to his room because he had been "insulted" by photographers.

Lewis was seated on the dais between Miss Anne Morgan and Prof. Albert Einstein and with other celebrities when photographers began to snap flashlight pictures.

"I haven't attended a public banquet in five years and I don't see why the hell I should be photographed."

With that he stalked out of the room. Several persons attempted to mollify him, but he went up to his room on the tenth floor. The photographers were induced to go up to make peace and after about 20 minutes Mr. Lewis returned.

"I didn't mind their taking pictures," he explained later, "but they kept going and kept shooting. I was already eating my dinner and nobody wants their picture taken while they are eating. While you are eating you want to act human."

GIRL'S SUICIDE IS ATTRIBUTED TO DESPONDENCY

A verdict of suicide while despondent and temporarily insane was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury in the death of Miss Harriet Tallulah Gercas, 19 years old, 8139 West 38th street, who was found fatally shot near the south end of Soldier's field early in the day.

A four page letter, found in her purse, indicated affection for two soldiers, John Petriks, stationed at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., and Irwin Roesner, stationed at Fort Sheridan. The letter emphasized her regard for Petriks and asked his forgiveness.

Private Roesner, who was referred to in the letter as "Irwin," said last night that he had known Miss Gercas since last summer, but that they were merely friends. He had not heard from her since his marriage last month, he said. Members of the girl's family said that she appeared to be happy. They last saw her Sunday night. It was at that time she took her father's gun with which she later ended her life.

Wife Calls Milk Driver Gay Lothario on Route

Mrs. Christine Tornquist, 109 South Taylor avenue, Oak Park, charged in a bill for divorce filed yesterday in the Superior court by Attorney Harry X. Cole that Lester K. Tornquist, 5817 Arthington street, carried on affairs with a number of Riverside housewives on the milk route on which he made deliveries. He was discharged a year ago, her bill states, and she then got work as a stenographer. When she became ill and was unable to work, she charges, Tornquist struck her. Judge Joseph Sabath issued an injunction restraining him from molesting her.

TUMBLING DOLLAR DIET THINS YANK PURSES IN BRITAIN

Tourists Decrease; Some Firms Protect Salaries.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The tumbling dollar has flattened the pocketbooks of many in London's American colony but has failed to drive them homeward. United States officials here, in fact, who gauge the ebb and flow by passports, expect no parallel of the movement that occurred in France when the dollar went off the gold standard.

London, they point out, has never been a haven for Americans looking for a cheap place abroad in which to live off fixed dollar incomes. They have noticed, however, two trends in the growing disparity between the dollar and the pound—a rapid decrease in the number of American tourists and an extension by American firms of systems to protect the salaries of their employés here.

Checks Cashed at Par.

The government, which took care of the depreciated incomes of its representatives in continental gold countries by shipping gold, has arranged that its representatives in Britain can cash their dollar checks at par.

Practices vary with commercial firms having branches here, some converting their employés' dollar checks at par while many are paying in sterling. The sterling salaries are computed on a basis of what the dollar salary would buy in the United States.

This practice is being followed particularly by concerns which did not convert sterling balances into dollars to send to the home office when pounds were cheap and have accumulated funds on hand.

Some Getting Nervous.

What few Americans there are here, however, who have been living off dividends of investments in the United States and those whose dollar salaries have not been adjusted have been getting nervous.

Contrasted to a year ago, an American paid in dollars now finds his sterling income shrunken by nearly 38 per cent while, compared with those being paid at par, he is running 7 per cent behind.

Americans are not alone in being nervous, for many British are fearing the effect of the falling dollar on their export trade. The dollar had barely begun its antics when a deputation from Swansea went to Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, to protest against the possibility of the American policy harming their trade.

Think Britain Will Act.

Their protest was taken "under advisement," and it is felt the British government will step in to protect its nationals the moment the situation becomes grave.

American officials here point out, however, that the full effect of the American policy will not be felt by British trade, unless conditions change, before the latter part of December or early in the new year.

Most dealings are carried on under three-month contracts, so that trading is still going on under the old dollar.

OFFICIALS IN MIKADO'S PALACE IN GALA ATTIRE FOR BIRTH OF INFANT

TOKIO, Dec. 18.—(AP)—On an order to be suitably attired for an occasion of great national rejoicing, all higher officials of the Japanese imperial household today began wearing cutaway coats and striped trousers.

They will continue thus formally clad daily until the gokeji, "or the honorably auspicious event"—the birth of an infant to the emperor and empress.

Physicians of the imperial court have announced the event may be expected between Christmas and the New Year. All higher government officials have canceled plans for their usual year-end excursions, remaining in the capital so as to be able to hurry to the palace and offer congratulations.

SWINDLER OF 50 TEACHERS GIVEN TWO YEAR TERM

Harry E. Wood, 54 years old, was sentenced to serve two years in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Joseph B. David in the Criminal court when he pleaded guilty to two indictments charging him with keeping tax warrants school teachers had given him to sell for them. The losses of more than fifty teachers were estimated at several thousand dollars.

Wood, a former insurance agent, last October approached Henry Kindig, engineer at the O. A. Thorpe elementary school at 6024 Warwick avenue. They were friends of 35 years' standing, but had not met in recent years. Wood offered to sell Kindig's warrants at par to an insurance company. Kindig accepted the offer and spread the news.

Teachers in the Thorpe and other schools gladly turned their warrants over to Wood, but it was the last they heard of the transaction. They obtained his indictment, but yesterday agreed to the light sentence. Judge David advised them to sue Wood to recover the money or warrants after he finishes serving his sentence.

3 SENT TO PRISON BY U. S. JUDGE FOR AUTO THEFTS

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Stolen, 83; recovered, 52; stripped, 19 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Sunday].

Three men yesterday were given prison sentences for their connection with automobile thefts after pleading guilty before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan on charges of violating the Dyer act.

August Newman, 28 years old, in whose place of business at 4321 Kamerling avenue were found stolen cars which had been transported across state lines, was sentenced to serve five years. This will follow his completion of a one to twenty year term in the state penitentiary previously imposed in the criminal court for possessing stolen cars.

Neil Hanagan, 24 years old, was sentenced to serve three years, after motors from five cars taken in Indiana and Michigan were traced through him to Newman. John Marino, 20 years old, received a sentence of a year and a day in the federal penitentiary.

RACE TO OPEN AIR CONGRESS LOST BY FLYING PRINCE

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CORFU, Greece, Dec. 18.—The International Aeronautical federation will open a conference tomorrow at Cairo without a president. Prince George Valentine Bibesco, famous Rumanian aviator, who was due to preside, spent tonight stranded but comfortable at a Corfu hotel after the seaplane in which he was traveling to Egypt was forced to descend.

Bibesco, with the princes and seven other passengers, including this correspondent, left Brindisi, Italy in an Imperial Airways plane at noon. The plane was due to arrive in Athens late today, thus enabling Bibesco to finish his air journey tomorrow in time to call the convention to order at 5 p. m.

The oil gauge on one of the plane's four motors registered zero after 45 minutes of flying, however, and the pilot decided to return to Brindisi on three motors. A new gauge was installed late in the afternoon. The pilot took off again, but was unable to reach Athens before dark so he descended at a refueling station at one of the island's harbors. The flight will be resumed tomorrow morning, but Bibesco will not arrive in Cairo until late at night.

Baby Dies from Nail She Swallowed 2 Years Ago

Jean Buckingham, 4 years old, 323 South Loomis street, died in the county hospital yesterday from the effects of a nail she swallowed two years ago. Her parents were unaware that the nail was still in her body until a week ago when the child complained of pain in her left lung. The nail was removed but an abscess that had formed developed into pneumonia.

2 ON TRIAL FOR SCALDING BOY; JURY DISAGREES

A jury was discharged early today by Judge James H. Fardy of the Criminal court when it failed to agree in the case of Cecil and Mrs. Fannie Kitz of Milwaukee, charged with scalding an 11 year old boy after a Halloween prank.

The boy was Rober H. Jacoby, 4959 Lake Park avenue. He was scalded on Halloween night last year, when he was caught soaping the windows of a store at 5006 Harper avenue, owned by Kitz's sister, Mrs. Mollie Wippman. It was charged that Kitz poured scalding water on the youngster's abdomen and left leg while Mrs. Kitz held him.

The case was given to the jury last night after two weeks of trial, during which Judge Fardy refused to permit young Jacoby to show his scars to the jury or to show how long he had been kept out of school. After seven hours of deliberation the jury reported a deadlock and was discharged. Judge Fardy set the retrial for Jan. 29. The technical charge against the Kitzes is assault with a deadly weapon.

Firemen's Fast Work Saves Six Big Petroleum Tanks

Fire, starting from crossed wires, imperiled six elevated tanks containing close to 100,000 gallons of petroleum on the grounds of the Consumers Petroleum company in the stockyards early today. The fire started in a lean-to housing a pump connected with the tanks. When firemen arrived the shed was in flames and a 2-11 alarm was sounded, bringing extra apparatus under command of Marshal Michael J. Corrigan. The firemen concentrated on the tanks and prevented the flames from reaching them. The pump house was destroyed with a loss of about $1,000.

Final Figures Prove It America's Greatest.

A Century of Progress Exposition, during its five and a half months of operation, was host to 22,320,456 persons and had a gross revenue of $37,270,526.05. The final audit, released yesterday, showed the 1933 Exposition to be the greatest, in attendance and income, ever presented in America, and exceeded only by two major European fairs, both of which operated over a longer period of time.

Of the gross revenue the Fair as a corporation had a revenue of $18,404,149.80. The balance represented money returned to exhibitors and concessionaires. No figures are obtainable for the net income of concessionaires, but the Fair as a corporation showed a net revenue of $2,488,933.83. Fifty per cent of the income of the Fair above operating expenses and interest was deducted to cover cost of the plant and equipment. The plant is being written off on a basis of two years' operation, the 1934 Fair to finish the payment of all funded debts.

At the present time the Fair, practically closed down for the winter months, had current assets of $1,591,643.06. On March 1 activity will be resumed, looking forward to the opening on June 1.

The amount carried on the books as the cost of the Fair is $38,647,836.69, covering all construction. That amount does not include the cost of exhibits by private firms, the cost of their transportation or the cost of operation. Besides the quoted figure, the operations cost of the Fair corporation alone was $4,783,839.24. Officials are confident this cost will be cut in half during the 1934 Exposition.

The closest figure available as to the number of persons employed on the Fair grounds is in the neighborhood of 23,000, including both Fair employés and those of private concessionaires. In addition to the paid admissions, 245,403 gate tickets were sold but never redeemed. With gate receipts accounting for $10,175,007.42, the average gate admission was 45 cents, despite the fact that children's admission during the entire Fair stood at 25 cents and was further reduced to 5 cents on Fridays.

Shows Group Is Best.

The most important concessions group, on the basis of revenue, was the shows and spectacles group with a gross income of $7,513,081.26. Restaurants were a close second with an income of $6,703,205.56. The other major classifications in order of revenue were:

Stores	$3,569,836.65
Utilities	2,876,914.34
Refreshments	2,677,659.19
Rides and amusements	2,268,236.52
Exhibits' sales	725,208.26
Games, vending machines	407,841.79
Miscellaneous	355,485.06

The top leader in all classifications was the Greyhound Bus company with a gross revenue of $1,647,326.22. Century News, Inc., was a close second with a gross of $1,301,419.07. Third place went to Eltel, Inc., restaurant operators, with a gross of $1,013,020.20.

Sky Ride a Leader.

The leading concession in the rides and amusements classification was the Sky Ride, with ticket sales of $771,648.08. In the shows and spectacles class the Belgian Village and the Streets of Paris were almost tied for high honors with respective gross incomes of $650,293.86 and $635,831.94. Both figures represented ticket sales and did not include money spent in subconcessions.

The Brooks Contracting company, operating pay toilets, about which so much furore was raised, grossed $861,517.13. Fair officials have announced that such facilities will be free in 1934.

Officials expressed themselves as pleased over the final showing. With an attendance 50 per cent of that during the last summer, they estimate, the 1934 Fair will pay off all obligations and end the two years run as an exposition paying out 100 cents on the dollar, a record equaled by no previous fair.

FRANCE HONORS WRIGHT ON 25TH YEAR AFTER HOP

LE MANS, France, Dec. 18.—(AP)—France celebrated today the 25th anniversary of Wilbur Wright's historic airplane flight at Anvours field. On this date in 1908 Wright flew for one hour 54 minutes 53 2-5 seconds, covering a distance of 62 miles and demonstrating for all time the practicability of heavier than air machines.

Wilbur Wright's first two pupils in France, the Marquis de Lambert and Col. Lucas Girardville, recounted their experiences as Wright's students.

Rene Giroult, a local writer and devoted friend and admirer of Wright, organized the celebration with the support of the ministry of air and civic authorities. All living spectators of Wright's historic achievements here were invited, and many attended. Wright was first received at Le Mans with doubt and ridicule. Even orthodox scientists, with the notable exception of the late Paul Painleve, mathematician and statesman, expressed skepticism.

FLIGHT BROKEN AS LINDBERGHS SEE OLD FRIEND

Visit Chief of U. S. Navy Yard.

Charleston, S. C., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, just four and a half hours out of Miami, set their big seaplane down at Charleston navy yard this afternoon, and it was announced they had come for "a quiet overnight visit" with Rear Admiral James J. Raby, commandant.

Although the colonel had given no inkling of his landing intentions, the docks were soon crowded with service men and civilian employés, who were kept waiting nearly an hour, along with Admiral Raby, while Lindbergh made his plane fast to a bouy.

Officials announced there was nothing wrong with the plane, and the Lindberghs indicated they had merely desired to break their Miami-New York leg in half, and to see Admiral Raby, whom they have known for years.

"You probably are aware the colonel doesn't like notoriety," Admiral Raby added to newsmen. "He's been that way since I first knew him ten years ago."

Today's unexpected stop was shrouded with the same reticence the colonel has evinced regarding his movements since he and Anne left New York last July.

28 FRENCH PLANES END 16,000 MILE TRIP OVER AFRICA

ALGIERS, Algeria, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Gen. Victor Vuillemin's "black squadron" of 28 army biplanes today triumphantly completed a 16,000 mile tour of France's African possessions.

A hero's acclaim on behalf of France was brought the flyers by Air Minister Pierre Cot, who braved a Mediterranean snowstorm to fly here yesterday.

Thirty planes, manned by 60 pilots, mechanics and radio operators, started on the long cruise Nov. 8. One plane, however, cracked up in Spain, and another crashed in Morocco. Impressing primitive tribesmen with the "white protector's" good will, and incidentally, his strength, was one of the purposes of the mass flight.

Brother of Ivar Kreuger Gets Year in Jail for Fraud

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Torsten Kreuger, brother of the late Ivar Kreuger, self-slain Swedish financier, was found guilty of fraud by the Supreme court today. He was sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment at hard labor and ordered to pay $390,000 to the stockholders of one of his concerns.

Poles Get Italian Contract for 1,600,000 Tons of Coal

WARSAW, Dec. 18.—(AP)—A contract for the delivery of 1,600,000 tons of Polish coal to Italian state railroads was reported signed today in Rome. Previously Italian railroads have bought their coal from Germany.

ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY HIT BY THREE GROUPS

East and Midwest Plan for Its Defeat.

BY JOHN HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Atlantic seaboard and middle west united through official and industrial spokesmen here today in opposition to the St. Lawrence seaway treaty pending in the United States senate.

At a mass meeting called by the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association, Senator L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.] and others asserted there must be amendments and reservations vital to the midwest and Chicago. Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.] opposed an international route. The third and perhaps the largest group opposed the seaway as economically unsound, particularly at this time.

The three groups will protest against ratification of the treaty by the senate either at the coming regular session or at a special session next spring.

Terms of Protest.

The 300 delegates, saying they represented states containing two-thirds of the population and 80 per cent of the country's taxpayers, adopted the following attack on the treaty:

"Whereas, the treaty proposes the construction of a new deep waterway route, 90 per cent of which lies in Canada, and construction of hydro-electric power plants, 80 per cent of which will reside in and belong to Canada; to internationalize Lake Michigan, now strictly an American lake, and to surrender our sovereignty over it; to have the United States advance, in the first instance, all the costs, amounting to possibly more than a billion dollars; to allow Canada to deduct from her share of the expense the amount of her expenditures for waterway improvements heretofore made in Canada and denies to the United States similar credits for practically all moneys expended in American territory; provides that all improvements made in Canada [80 to 90 per cent] shall be made with Canadian labor, Canadian material and by Canadian engineers.

"Whereas, The treaty favors the position of the Canadian wheat exporter in his keen competition with the American wheat farmer, who is already handicapped by British preferential tariffs; provides the means to divert the great lakes traffic which now finds its way to the Atlantic and the gulf through American waterways and over American railroads to Canadian ports by means of Canadian transportation facilities, all to the injury and destruction of our own rail and waterway transportation facilities and to the injury also of American investors in our transportation enterprises and terminals."

The resolution then announced their plan to oppose ratification of the treaty.

Dickinson for Reservation.

"I have advocated the construction of the St. Lawrence waterway," said Senator Dickinson. "I believe that in the end waterway improvements always inure to the benefit and the advancement of civilization. But I want to suggest some reservations.

"The great bulk of the tonnage that should go to the sea comes from the midwestern states, with its natural outlet through Chicago. Most of the main lines of railroads terminate in Chicago. If the St. Lawrence route was constructed as proposed in the treaty it would not serve this vast area that produces this heavy tonnage.

Affects Water Diversion.

"Lake Michigan has always been considered an inland lake. Never until this treaty was proposed has it been suggested that Lake Michigan as a body of water should be subjected to international regulations.

"In order to benefit the midwest, some assurance should be given in this treaty that at least Canada will not interfere, or will not be permitted to interfere in any way with the adjustment of the outlet from Lake Michigan into the Illinois river. For many years this privilege has been enjoyed. Through court decrees and otherwise, the amount of water diverted through the drainage canal at Chicago is to be tremendously reduced. That would affect commerce on the waterway linking with the Mississippi."

Sees Benefit to Canada.

Senator Copeland declared the proposed route would build up Canadian ports at the expense of American seaboard cities, that it would benefit Canadian farmers more than American.

"How anybody can look at the map and be a patriot and still want to build a Canadian-All British canal is more than I can understand," he said.

"I don't think we are going to have a war with Canada, but twenty-five years ago there were people who thought we were never going to have another war. Wouldn't it be better to have the canal in the United Staes, rather than one that goes through a foreign country to reach the sea?

"If you want an all-British canal for all-British ships and for relief of Canadian unemployment, let's have the treaty; but if you want employment for the United States you will be against this treaty till Kingdom come.

Will Oppose Canal.

"I have been asked by many people how I would vote. I don't want to be against the President on anything. When I know he is wrong, I vote against him; when he is right I vote for him, and when I don't know I vote for him and give him the benefit of the doubt.

"But in this particular matter regardless of who may be on the other side, I am still going to vote against this canal."

The meeting was presided over by Mayor J. Hampton Moore of Philadelphia, who denounced the use of American money on a project so thoroughly Canadian. If funds are to be spent on waterways during the present period of economic stress, he declared, let them be spent on American projects.

Ohio Valley Protest.

Among resolutions received, one from the Ohio Valley Improvement association declared in part:

"In view of the possible injury to industry and commerce in the United States and in view of making an international lake of Lake Michigan, we are opposed to the ratification in its present form of the treaty."

The Mississippi Valley association while expressing "faith in the merits of the St. Lawrence waterway from the lakes to the Atlantic," opposed ratification of the treaty "until its inequities have been corrected; until American rights have been protected; until a commercially useful lakes-to-the-gulf waterway has been made secure; until provision is made whereby American money goes to American labor and American sovereignty over Lake Michigan is preserved."

U. S. LIQUOR TAXES FOR 12 DAYS PASS NINE MILLION MARK

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Illinois paid 14 per cent of the liquor taxes collected by the federal government the first 12 days of this month, the period immediately before and after repeal, the treasury department announced today.

Out of $9,111,000 collected in that period, $1,333,000 came from Illinois, the treasury's reports from its field agents show.

Of the amount collected for the 12 days, $3,174,000 came from distilled spirits and wine, $3,565,000 from beer with more than 3.2 per cent of alcohol, and $2,126,800 from beer of lesser alcoholic content. Retailers paid $191,148 in federal license fees, wholesalers, $49,564, and rectifiers, $4,100.

In Illinois, the $1,333,000 federal tax came from $858,500 paid on distilled spirits and wine, $266,000 on beer with a high alcoholic content, and $129,000 on 3.2 beer. The rest was from occupational levies.

PARIS WAR CHIEFS OPPOSE HITLER'S ARMS DEMANDS

Plan to Keep Military Ranks Filled.

PARIS, Dec. 18.—(AP)—French military leaders decided today to oppose flatly any rearmament in Germany and developed plans for keeping army ranks filled during the years beginning in 1936, when the low birth rate in the world war years will make itself felt.

As members of the superior war council, the chieftains met in a secret session, studied Chancellor Hitler's demands for arms equality, and prepared to pass their adverse recommendations on to the government.

Gen. Maxime Weygand, the chief of the general staff of the French army, and former Premier Edouard Daladier, who now is minister of war, attended the session.

Will Send Reply to Berlin.

After the ministers of war, navy, and air have discussed the military findings, the government plans to send the reply to Berlin. Another ministerial decision will involve the wisdom of further Franco-German talks on disarmament.

The council decided that 15,000 specialists will be enlisted and troops who engaged in the pacification of Morocco will be returned to France.

Normally at least 200,000 youths past their 21st birthday are available for army service, but beginning in 1936 war ministry officials fear that the minimum may fall as low as 100,000.

This is because comparatively few boys were born during the war years and because of the high infant mortality at that time.

Few Ready for Service.

From lack of care, undernourishment, and the flu epidemic of 1918 army authorities estimated that the percentage of those rejected for physical deficiencies in 1935 or 1936 will be materially increased.

One move to keep the minimum number of recruits as constant as possible was taken earlier this year when many of the summonses of the "war classes" were adjourned, and young men 19 or 20 years old were told to start their compulsory service after their 21st birthdays.

The conversations on disarmament were suggested by the steering committee of the world disarmament conference, when it adjourned until mid-January.

An important point in the direct, ambassadorial talks so far held concerns the French attitude that if Germany is allowed the army of about 300,000 men she wishes, that number should include Nazi storm troopers, regarded here as a military forces, although in Germany they are considered merely as party members.

Britain Supports Hitler.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 18.—Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador to Germany, will return to Berlin tomorrow primed to tell Chancellor Hitler what Great Britain and other powers think of his proposals for a settlement with France and all around disarmament. The gist of it is that if Hitler means it, it is all right with Britain, but he must show he means it.

Sir Eric's visit to London was the last of a series of consultations with envoys on the continent prior to the Christmas holiday trip of Sir John Simon, foreign secretary. This trip will take him to Paris, Capri, Rome, and perhaps Berlin.

Simon leaves London Thursday immediately after the parliament adjourns for the Christmas recess.

Britain's policy is now sufficiently clarified. She will continue to support the league of nations, but favors some reform of its machinery. So far no proposals for reform have been received from Premier Mussolini, but it is expected the Italian dictator will expound his ideas unofficially when he meets Simon next week.

Willing to Attend Parley.

ROME, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Germany's willingness to attend a four power meeting to straighten out the disarmament impasse, it was reported tonight in well informed circles, was made known to Undersecretary Fulvio Suvich during one of his recent conferences in Berlin.

This agreement will be coupled, however, with the firm insistence that Germany will continue to press demands for arms equality.

Premier Mussolini will discuss the possibility of calling a four power parley with Sir John Simon, the British foreign secretary, when he arrives next week. There was no assurance, however, that they will decide such a meeting of Italian, French, British, and German representatives would be advisable unless Franco-German views are first brought more into line.

Boy Kept in After School for Whispering Hangs Self

Billings, Mont., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Raymond Goodman, 9 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Goodman, was held after school today because he had whispered in class. About 7 p. m. his body was found hanging from a beam in the blacksmith shop of his father's farm. His brother, Edward, 14, said he saw him take a rope into the shop, but thought he was putting it away. The coroner said no inquest was planned.

Find Bartender Murdered; Check Entertainer's Story

A verdict of murder by persons unknown was returned yesterday at the coroner's inquest into the death of Emil Stegmann, 42 years old, 7115 40th street, Stickney, a bartender who was killed by bandits early Sunday during a holdup of the Harlem Nut house, a Stickney tavern. Police were investigating the story of Miss Eugenia Gedman, 943 West 33d place, an entertainer in the tavern.

PLANS $3,500,000 IN BONDS TO MEET N. Y. PAY DEFICITS

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Controller George McAneny announced today that he would ask the municipal assembly to authorize the issue of $3,500,000 in special revenue bonds to meet deficits in various departmental pay rolls which have come to light.

The largest of these deficits is that of the department of hospitals, which must have an additional $1,100,000 if it is to meet the end of the year pay rolls. The police department needs $505,000 and the board of education $450,000. Revenue bonds to cover a shortage of $760,000 in the police pension funds already have been requested.

McAneny probably will ask the revenue bond authorization when the board of aldermen and the board of estimate meet tomorrow.

He said today that the $3,500,000 issue would "leave something to spare" after the departmental deficits reported to date have been taken care of. This margin, he explained, will be used to cover any further deficits which may develop.

Captain of U. S. Liner Kills Self as Ship Hits Rocks

FAMAGUSTA, Cyprus, Dec. 18.—(AP)—A. T. Hickey of Rochester, N. Y., captain of the American export liner Exarch, killed himself early yesterday following the grounding of his ship at midnight Saturday on the north coast of Cyprus. The Exarch's engines were disabled and she was taking in water. Her sister ship, the Exchange, went to her assistance and was standing by tonight.

ROOSEVELT'S AID GETS OVATION ON ARRIVAL IN CUBA

Caffery Cheered as He Steps from Plane.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 18.—Jefferson Caffery, personal representative of President Roosevelt, arrived here today by plane from Miami and was cheered by a crowd of nearly 1,000 Cubans. José Gomez Tolon, president of the Cuban War Veterans' association, delivered an impromptu address of welcome.

"We who are gathered here represent all decent and honorable Cubans," he said. "We welcome you to Cuba and hope you will soon see that we enjoy a respectable government."

Red Handbills in Evidence.

Although Caffery did not come as an official ambassador of the United States, he was met by representatives of both President Grau San Martin and Col. Fulgencia Batista, army chief of staff. Communist handbills reading "Down with Roosevelt!" and "Down with Caffery; He Must Go!" were in evidence, but no hostile demonstration occurred.

Mrs. Josefina Franca Echarte, daughter of Dr. Porfirio Franca, one of the governing junta of five from which sprang the present régime, was shot to death early today by a gang of ten masked men who attacked the country residence of Dr. Franca, located about ten miles south of Havana.

Employés and cowboys drove the attackers away after Mrs. Echarte was killed and Maximo Gonzalez, estate manager, was wounded. The masked men were later reported to have been identified as soldiers.

About $50,000 in cash was stolen from the Franca estate.

Bombs Rock Havana.

Five bombs have rocked Havana since last midnight. Ten persons were seriously injured. Considerable property damage was caused.

Charging that the Grau régime is a communist outfit which is trying to divide Cubans into classes of whites, Negroes, natives, and naturalized foreigners through the "50 per cent native labor law," the National Federation of Labor tonight called a strike to become effective tomorrow. The strike, it is claimed, will involve all business houses and retail stores in Havana.

(The "50 per cent labor law" requires employment of at least 50 per cent native labor, 25 per cent naturalized Cuban, and not more than 25 per cent foreign labor.)

352 Workers Seized.

Luis Arrachevala, president of the labor federation, said that the arrest of 352 workers tonight precipitated the strike.

Col. Batista announced that the "entire army would be used to force open the doors of business houses, if necessary, for the government will not stand for a general paralysis of business."

The labor federation today placed responsibility for yesterday's attack on the newspaper El Pais squarely on the government, charging that soldiers disguised as civilians forced open the doors of the newspaper's offices with rifle butts and helped the mob burn and sack the building.

KNOWLTON L. AMES DIVORCED IN RENO AT PRIVATE HEARING

The court reserved decision as to the custody of the children.

JUDGE JARECKI CONTINUES TAX CASE HEARINGS

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $397,833, making a total of $96,382,301 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
Dec. 18	$ 18,849	$ 130,113
Uncollected	15,941,447	42,526,803
	1930.	1931.
Dec. 18	$ 105,854	$ 143,007

Hearings on the test tax objection filed by the Chicago Real Estate board on behalf of 438,000 home and small flat building owners in Cook county were continued to Dec. 27 by County Judge Jarecki yesterday.

The board's petition alleges that the 1931 real estate assessment rolls are fraudulent and asks that Judge Jarecki reduce by 15 per cent the assessment on the properties of all taxpayers joining in its suit. Assessor J. L. Jacobs will be cross-examined by the board's attorneys when the hearing is resumed.

Judge Jarecki is at present hearing the suit filed by the Commonwealth Edison company protesting against its personal property assessment.

ABOLISH VOTING IN PRUSSIA; NAZIS TIGHTEN GRIP

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Voting was abolished in Prussia today by six sweeping laws which centralized the government and introduced the leadership principle into the smallest local unit.

"Liberalistic and democratic vestiges will be eradicated and supplanted by a strong and responsible leadership," it was said.

Provincial, communal, and municipal bodies, hitherto legislative, will become subject to appointment with only advisory powers. City and town councils will include the local Hitlerite leader and the leader of the Nazi storm troops.

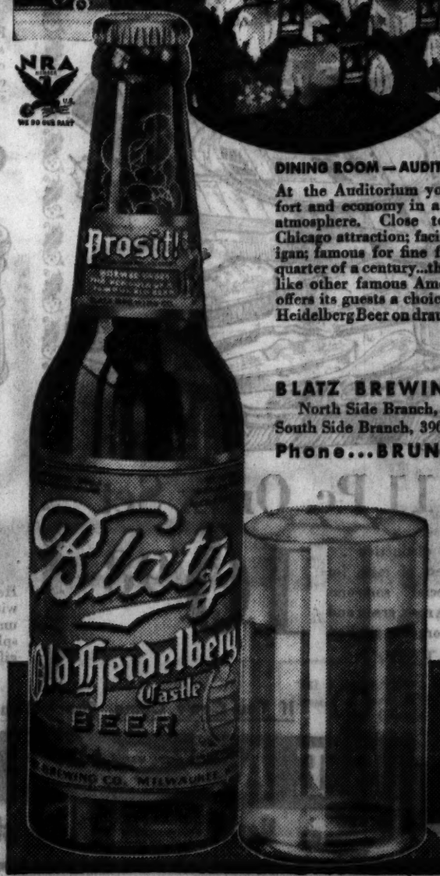
AUDITORIUM HOTEL, CHICAGO

DINING ROOM—AUDITORIUM HOTEL
At the Auditorium you'll find comfort and economy in a distinguished atmosphere. Close to every main Chicago attraction; facing Lake Michigan; famous for fine food for over a quarter of a century...the Auditorium, like other famous American Hotels, offers its guests a choice of Blatz Old Heidelberg Beer on draught or bottled.



"It is with pleasure that we report how popular Blatz Old Heidelberg Beer has become at the Auditorium Hotel," says Mr. Newman. "Served in competition with the finest brews in the country, Blatz Old Heidelberg is the choice of an ever-increasing number of our guests. They praise its zestful taste, its smooth and mellow flavor. They compare it to the finest imported brews. They say its goodness never varies in bottle or stein. When a beer merits this enthusiasm, we think you ought to know about it."

FREDERICK URGED "FREE PEN"; NOW NAZIS GAG PRESS

Hitler Strays from Path of True Aryans.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Dec. 8.—[By Mail.]—As the Nazis squeeze the dregs of freedom from the German press in the name of Aryanism and the totalitarian state, critics of Chancellor Hitler's régime here point out—discreetly of course—that it has wandered considerably from the footsteps of such German Aryans as Frederick the Great, Immanuel Kant, and Karl Julius Weber.

This is considered all the more remarkable in view of the fact that the Nazis speak so highly of such men, and especially of Frederick the Great, whom they regard as their national hero.

A "free pen is the only safeguard for the rights of the people," wrote the philosopher Kant.

Goebbels Expresses View.

"The press is an important and influential instrument for swaying the masses which the government intends to use to further its work," asserted Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Hitler's minister of propaganda and public enlightenment, as he proceeded with the job of regimenting the German people. "The press must be the keyboard on which the government can play."

Dr. Goebbels apparently would have agreed with Weber, who played a prominent part in the days of the wars of liberation against Napoleon, that "books master the world; ink is really the fifth element, after fire, water, air and earth, and the press is the artillery of thinkers." But it is doubtful, according to Nazi foes, whether Weber would have agreed with Dr. Goebbels that "government" might properly be substituted for "thinkers."

Frederick the Great, however, perhaps the foremost and most enlightened of all Germany's famous leaders, the man who started in the mid-eighteenth century what Bismarck finished in 1871 in Louis XIV.'s hall of mirrors at Versailles, has been found to shame most the Nazi schemes to promote Aryanism exclusively and to lock and bolt all individualism and ideas except those which flow from the minds of Hitler and his associates in the inner circle.

Orders Free Conversation.

"Gazettes should not be molested," said Frederick.

He laid down the law at his great suppers, which frequently lasted from 8:30 o'clock until midnight, that the conversation must be perfectly free.

It is indeed difficult to determine which would have been the more disgusted—the Nazis with Frederick or Frederick with the Nazis. For Frederick had a penchant for Frenchmen as his friends, particularly that man of letters, Voltaire. He despised German as the language of boors. He habitually wrote and spoke French. In one of the best known of his literary efforts, "Anti-Macchiavel," published the year he became king of Prussia [1740], he summed up his ideas of what a king should be in the famous sentence:

"The prince is not the absolute master, but only the first servant of the people."

Such a sentence, it is surmised, if published in the current Berliner Tageblatt, for instance, would likely get its author and other responsible parties in considerable trouble with the Nazis.

Free Access to King.

Frederick is known to have tolerated every form of religious opinion, he abolished the use of torture, was careful to obtain an impartial administration of justice and allowed all persons with a genuine grievance free access to his presence.

But his attitude toward the freedom of expression of opinion would probably have most completely alienated him from the professed affections of his Nazi "followers."

"Have it hung lower" is the classic Frederickian expression illustrating this attitude. It is frequently used not only among Germany's liberals or republican journalists but in everyday life. It is based on a well authenticated incident in 1781, at which time Frederick was trying to put Prussia on a permanent base of security and prosperity, having obtained for it a place of dominance in European affairs by the seven years' war [1756-1763].

Freed from Taxation.

After that war Prussia was nearly exhausted and Frederick had had to adopt heroic measures to revive the nation. One of his "prosperity" measures was to free Pomerania and Neumark from taxation for two years, and Silesia for six months. He also restored the coinage to its proper value. But later he adopted the French method of imposing and collecting taxes with its resulting petty tyranny, and this led to a great amount of criticism.

So, one fine day in 1781, Frederick was riding through the Jaegerstrasse [just around the corner from the Adlon], when he came upon a jostling crowd craning their necks and straining their eyes trying to see a picture drawn on the upper part of the wall of one of the street's highest houses. He sent his aid to reconnoiter to see what it was all about.

The unfortunate aid returned trembling.

"They are laughing at a caricature of your majesty," he managed to stammer.

The caricature, according to the historian Preuss, showed the "king in very melancholy guise, seated on a stool, a coffee mill between his knees, diligently grinding with the one hand and with the other picking up any bean that might have fallen."

"Have it hung lower!" Frederick ordered the aid; "lower, that they may not have to hurt their necks about it."

And he proceeded to denounce weaklings who could not stand criticism or caricatures.

WOMAN AND 2 HELD IN TAVERN SHOOTING FRAY

Two men were in the Bridewell hospital seriously wounded and three people, one a woman, were held by police as a result of a shooting and a brawl early yesterday in a tavern at 4800 Throop street. Those wounded are David Cosgrove, 21 years old, 4635 Union avenue, and Bernard Scanlan, also 21, of 832 West 51st place.

Mrs. Marie Wozniak, 38 years old, told police that she shot Cosgrove and Scanlan when they attacked her husband, Frank Wozniak, 40 years old, and her brother-in-law, Paul Parus, 38 years old, owners of the tavern. All of them are being held for questioning by police.

Wozniak said that earlier in the evening he had ejected from the tavern a man known as "Fat." This man returned later with three friends, among them Scanlan and Cosgrove. The four attacked Parus and Wozniak, hitting them with beer steins, Wozniak said. When Parus called for help Mrs. Wozniak responded with a gun. She fired three shots, all of which took effect. Some unidentified gunman fired five shots at her, but missed. He escaped.

GARDNER THREAT IS BELIEVED WORK OF AN AMATEUR

Federal authorities yesterday branded as the work of a crank the letter demanding $10,000 of Robert A. Gardner, wealthy Lake Forest broker and former national amateur golf champion. They said they did not expect any attempt to carry out the written threat to take Gardner's 11 year old son, Henry Keep Gardner, for "a ride."

Agents of the division of investigation of the department of justice, which since the enactment of the Lindbergh law handles all extortion letters, said the request for $100 bills showed the writer to have only story book conceptions of crime. Ordinarily an extortionist wants currency in $1 to $20 denominations, which are difficult to trace and easy to dispose of.

A trap laid by federal agents and Lake Forest police was abandoned Friday when no one appeared to get a dummy package placed at the entrance of the late J. Ogden Armour's Mellody farm at Deerpath avenue and Waukegan road, Lake Forest. The Gardner home at 1051 Meadow lane, Lake Forest, is still being guarded.

ATTENDANT HELD IN VET HOSPITAL PATIENT'S DEATH

James S. Cox, 25 years old, of Libertyville, was arrested yesterday and lodged in the Lake county jail at Waukegan on a charge of slaying William J. McNamara, 37 years old, 734 Oakdale avenue, a patient in the psychopathic ward of the veterans' bureau hospital at Great Lakes, where Cox was an attendant.

State's Attorney Charles E. Mason of Lake county obtained the warrant for Cox's arrest after Irving Ramsdell, another attendant, gave the prosecutor's chief investigator, John Daley, a statement that he had seen Cox assault McNamara last Thursday.

McNamara died Saturday of internal injuries. Cox claimed he had fallen on the patient by accident in assisting him up from a bed where he had been given a treatment. Ramsdell supported this story at a coroner's inquest Saturday, but yesterday told Daley that Cox, angered at McNamara, knocked the patient down and kicked him.

CALUMET HARBOR PROJECT BACKED BY U. S. ENGINEERS

Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], chairman of the city council committee on harbors, wharves and bridges, received notice yesterday that Major General E. M. Markham, chief of army engineers, has turned over to the public works administration a recommendation for a development of the Calumet-Sag waterway terminal and requesting federal funds for the project.

"The plan calls for the expenditure of approximately $2,500,000," said Ald. Rowan. "It includes the contruction of three 'lie-bys' in the Calumet-Sag channal to permit boats to pass, the straightening of the Little Calumet river between Blue Island and Lake Calumet and some dredging in Lake Calumet.

"Now that the army engineers' recommendation is in the hands of the PWA, we will ask Secretary of the Interior Ickes to approve the application for funds."

Hijack Texans with Seven Tons of Pecans Near City

Hijackers held up two Texans bound for Chicago with a truckload of seven tons of pecans early yesterday, held them prisoners for several hours and then released them. The Texans, James and William Querner, were held up on Southwest highway 15 miles from Joliet, they said. They were blindfolded and carried in the truck to a warehouse, where they heard their captors unloading the nuts, and then released near Willow Springs. They found their truck nearby.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE BROTHERHOOD OF GOOD FELLOWS.

It is no accident that Christmas after Christmas, in good times as in bad, many of the same names reappear in the list of Good Fellows. Men and women who have carried baskets of food and toys to the homes of unfortunate neighbors cannot forget the scenes of privation and, more especially, they cannot forget the happiness of those to whom the gifts were brought. Once a Good Fellow, always a Good Fellow.

It is a great merit of Christmas that the pride which at any other season of the year would prevent many families from accepting gifts does not operate. It is the one moment when the more fortunate can share their blessings with the less fortunate without condescension or embarrassment on the one side or loss of caste on the other.

The Good Fellows know all about this. That is why they send in their names year after year. They constitute a kind of club, but it is a club without constitution or by-laws, without officers or a membership committee. Nevertheless it is an exclusive club. Its members are limited to those who are determined that no child in Chicago, however poor, shall have a cheerless Christmas. The application blank for membership will be found on another page. There are only a few days left in which to join this year.

THE HOSPITALITY OF VOX POP IS OFFERED THE COLLEGE COACHES.

Chicago's Bears defeated New York's Giants for the professional football title Sunday in a game which left only the steel and concrete of Wrigley field unfrayed by waves of excitement. If any readers of THE TRIBUNE who rely exclusively upon this department for their sporting intelligence have been interested in the question whether professional football is as interesting as college football, they may be advised that it is. This department yields to no other sport addict in its devotion to college football, but the professional game is to the college game just about what big league baseball is to college baseball. It is the old familiar difference between a good professional and a good amateur. The reasons for this are natural ones and they prevail in nearly all lines of sport.

In professional football expertness and skill give certainty, precision, and polish to plays which generally miss this fine art in the college game. The sure dexterity of the players creates for the spectator the sense of pleasure which always comes from seeing competence so skillful that the very performance of the act has an esthetic value.

It is hard to understand why there has been for a number of years a question of relative playing qualities of the professional and amateur game. The comparison permits only one answer, and that is that the professional game is football of one kind and college football something yet again. It is just as probable that worried college faculties, if they are worried by what's been called the overemphasis of football, will be helped out of their dilemma within a few years by the professional game. No one worries about the college baseball player or questions whether the attention given the game and its players is altogether good for the young people involved. College baseball is merely a pleasant college sport, kept in its proper place so far as the newspapers are concerned and very unlikely to go to the head of any player or cause any students to neglect their scholastic matters for it.

If college baseball were the best baseball the general populace could see, the college players would be getting all the attention which is given Mr. Comiskey's or Mr. Wrigley's players, and the biggest college equipment and investment would be in the baseball field. All the enthusiasms which are given to the professional game would be concentrated on the college game.

When the public discovered that football was a great show the colleges were the promoters which put the show on. If there had been better football played from the beginning by professional teams and if the public had been able to get its thrills and its enjoyment from the professionals many a college stadium would never have gone beyond the dream of a possible architect's blueprint. It may be that as professional football increases its hold upon public liking many institutions of higher learning will be permitted to return to higher learning and will be judged more by the worth of faculties than by the worth of football coaches. The college game will lose nothing thereby and it is possible that something may be gained.

LOWER THE PRICE OF MILK.

THE TRIBUNE has added to its platform for Chicago a plank calling for the lowering of the price of milk to the consumer.

Obviously such a price reduction will be of benefit to the consumers, but the plank is put forward less in the interest of the consumer than of the dairy farmer. He prospers as the sale of bottled milk increases. When the price of milk was raised from 10 to 11 cents a quart, sales dropped, according to the preliminary figures published a few days ago, by a proportion roughly estimated at between 5 and 10 per cent. The result was that the farmer received less money for his milk though the rate at which he sold it was higher. This result was easily predictable; it was predicted, as readers of THE TRIBUNE will recall.

The attempt to explain the decline in consumption as the consequence of the competition of cash and carry stores is feeble. The milk sold at the stores, it is argued, was not included in the totals, and if it had been the amount sold would have shown no decline. All that this line of argument proves is that if the price generally is lowered, the consumption will increase, as it must if the farmers' investment in land, equipment and cattle is not to be wiped out.

There is little reason to believe that the milk sold at the stores could have been sold if the store price had been 11 cents. No doubt some of it would have been, but no doubt, too, most of the housewives who bought milk at 8 cents did so because they could not afford 11. Had there been a uniform 11 cent price many families would have been obliged to do without milk in any form or to use one or another of the processed milks which sell at a lower price.

Mr. Wallace and Gen. Johnson can crack down, in their delightful phrase, on business men of all degrees, but they will never be able to crack down on the housewife. She knows how much she has to spend and how many mouths she has to feed. She is the ultimate cracker-down. She was ignored when the price was raised to 11 cents with results which are now apparent.

There is now no reason to doubt that only a reduction in the retail price of milk will be of any benefit to the farmers. Like other business men, the dairy farmers and the distributing companies must realize that their salvation lies not in higher prices but in larger volume of sales.

EASY MONEY.

So much public attention is absorbed by the financial and economic issues of the administration's program that little is given to the effects already appearing in the field of public morale. The consequence of the government's repudiation within a few months of its own explicit promise to pay its loan of half a billion dollars in gold of a stated amount only the future will reveal, though honest men know that it must be serious. But in the meantime some results of the enormous distribution of public money are transpiring.

Headlines taken at random from the news of the last two or three days will illustrate. From Kankakee we read that the mayor and four aldermen have CWA jobs; from Milwaukee, that CWA workers not entitled to jobs are to be weeded out; from Kansas City, Mo., that 287 motor cars were observed parked at two CWA projects and an investigation is to be made of who is on the pay roll and why; charges of fraud in the Home Owners' corporation management in Illinois are under examination at Washington; the efforts to punish fraudulent beneficiaries of the Illinois Emergency Relief have been challenged as to method and become involved in heated controversy. It would be impossible within necessary limits of space and time to collect the evidence in this field of activity, the inevitable consequence of putting at the disposal of self-serving politics and individual greed unheard of sums of money under the noble guise of relief and recovery.

The task of control is beyond the ability of the most conscientious and assiduous administration. The safeguards and restraints with which the federal administrator, Secretary Ickes, and local agents of relief and of the public works program tried to prevent waste and graft have been and are attacked with increasing force. An army of obscure grafters is after easy money. The appetite of politics for pork is whetted by an opportunity beyond the wildest dreams. Communities aware of the possibilities of federal contributions, and often actually under pressure of federal influence to seek them, are finding new ways of spending.

This condition is developing rapidly into a major problem. Germany, before its great financial debacle, presented a somewhat similar picture of reckless public spending, but with a very great difference. Germany was spending foreign money. We are spending our own. The inflation brought about by government bankruptcy ruined millions of Germans. If the American orgy of public spending is not soon checked American public finance will reach bankruptcy and the consequences will be as disastrous or more so to the American people.

A well considered and wisely limited expenditure on public work and relief was justified in the crisis with which the nation was confronted, but it contained inherently the germs of the evils now multiplying, and this fact should not be ignored. Nothing could be more demoralizing to the nation than the influence of easy public money. It rewards the shirk and the cheat. It is a huge slush fund for political corruption. It is a crying injustice to honesty and industry. The peace, progress, and welfare of a people are based upon character and there is nothing to be hoped for in any program of material recovery which can compensate for the deterioration of character.

WHAT IS A TORY?

[New York Times.]

QUESTION—What is a Tory? ANSWER—A Tory is the kind of person who had charge of this country up to a little while ago and who went in for all sorts of nefarious practices.

Q.—Name one of these practices. A.—Well, the Tories like the idea of children under 16 working in the factories and shops. We have now put a stop to all that.

Q.—How many children have been so liberated in the present year? A.—Well, we had altogether about 670,000 children working for wages, and 480,000 of these are on the farms and are not affected. So you might say there remained about 200,000 children to be set free.

Q.—How many children under the age of 16 were released from labor during, say, the last twenty years that the Tories were in charge? A.—Well, it has been figured out that if the ratio of child labor in 1930 were as high as in 1910, there would have been 2,000,000 more child workers in 1930.

Q.—So that between 1910 and 1930 child labor was cut down ten times as much as it is being done now? A.—It would seem so.

Q.—And that is why the people then were Tories? A.—Yes.

A PICTURE THE ARTISTS MIGHT PAINT.

"Artists, both landscape and portrait, will be given jobs by the thousands by the government through CWA."—News item.

We fear, artists, what the great brain trust
Is going to do with you;
You may have to paint the Green mountains red,
And perhaps the White House blue.

They'll send you out in springtime,
To retint the violets;
And mercy! how you'll have to work,
Touching up the sunsets.

They'll make you paint the forest trees,
So they'll stay green all year;
And paint hollyhocks upon the ground,
So they'll never disappear.

You'll have to go out to the farms,
And paint apples in the trees;
And then paint honey in the comb,
And many swarms of bees.

In every henhouse you will toil,
Painting eggs in every nest;
And then paint in some chickens,
Or ducks if you think best.

And paint a picture that will make
The farmer's joy complete;
A picture of golden grain stacked high,
And called "Two Dollar Wheat."

And while you're touching up the clouds,
And gilding the daffodil,
Oh, artist, please, just paint for me
An old fashioned dollar bill.

The dollar that our daddies had,
That is fading away from hence;
That dollar bill of long ago,
That was worth a hundred cents.

LITTLE MONACO, where you can sit in a palace and gamble in the greatest luxury until your money is gone, is going to sue the sovereign state of Mississippi to recover one hundred thousand dollars on bonds issued in the 1830s. This seems to be a case where all that is required is common sense. Why not have Mississippi turn over to Monaco one hundred thousand dollars in confederate money? That seems fair enough and Monaco ought to be satisfied.

SCIENTISTS have discovered from examination of relics in an ancient Osage Indian village in the Ozarks that the Indian ladies had lipsticks made of pieces of hematite ore and a compact made out of a hollow, round stone. So the flapper of today is no different from the primitive flappers. But, anyhow, the Indian flapper didn't pull out her compact and go through the motions of washing her face in the elevator or dining room. But, of course, this may have been because the ancient Osage Indians didn't have elevators or dining rooms. The scientists say they wouldn't know about that.

ANYHOW, the man who used to tell us how smart his baby was and what he said last night when his mother tried to put him to bed doesn't mention his son any more. But it's just about as bad—now he tells us that the Scotch we've been buying is nothing but bootleg stuff and that the only real Scotch in the world, a nectar for the gods—not a headache in a trainload and so on—is Hootman Heather or Hieland Haggis or something like that. But with everybody telling us what the only real worth while Scotch is these days I'm getting so tired of it all that after this I'm going to drink nothing but hard cider. Until they start having different brands of hard cider, and then I'll swing to buttermilk.

EYES.

Eyes should not be like this, set in young faces;
Eyes hard and dreamless, weighted with their dead
So hopeless and so haunted by the traces
Of some defeat, of hunger long unfed,
Bewildered by a wisdom too soon learned,
Dark with distrust, glazed over with despair—
Young eyes that watched their small world overturned,
Eyes shifting lest one reads the story there.

A LEPROSY TREATMENT.

LEPROSY is accepted by health officers as of minor importance. To begin with, there is not much of it. Health officers know of lepers who have lived [illegible] in some contact with other people without spreading the disease. One man with leprosy served as coachman for a prominent man for years. The fact is, leprosy is very feebly contagious, and for that reason health officers are not greatly interested in it.

Nevertheless, a number of years ago it was thought best for the United States to establish a colony for lepers and to get into it all those afflicted with the disorder. This government colony was established in Louisiana, and every leper known to be such, and living anywhere in the continental confines, was eligible for residence there.

The plan has been a success. The disease has not spread to the people who live in the country round about. The physicians and nurses who live in the colony have not contracted the disease. A moderate number of lepers have been cured, and the disease has undergone a substantial decline in prevalence in those sections of the country where it appeared to have a foothold.

There is the promise that the policy, carried out as it has been for a dozen years, will virtually eliminate the disease from the United States within a half century. But we are impatient. We want quicker action if it can be had. Those who are afflicted want a cure and they want it now. A cure, discovered in the next generation, would be a fine thing, but not for those who are now in trouble.

Preparations made from chalmoogra oil have been in use for the cure of leprosy. We are losing faith in it. Cures are reported, but we hear the opinion that they were the result of improved care rather than the oil.

In wandering over the world as a representative of the medical section of the Rockefeller Foundation, Dr. Victor Heiser went to the Federated Malay states. There he saw a cure for leprosy that had been in use for a few years. It was the discovery of Dr. G. A. Ryrie. It consists of injections into the veins of a watery solution of trypan blue. When a leper is injected with this solution his leprous nodules soon turn blue.

The dye has a special affinity for leprous tissue. After that the blue discoloration slowly extends to all the tissues. In a few hours the doctor has a blue man for a patient. As the color wears off another injection is given. The man again quickly becomes blue speckled, and, later, changes to a blue man. The leprosy nodules gradually soften and finally disappear. So far as can be judged, the man is cured and he remains so for more than a year. Beyond that there has not been time for observation.

THERE ARE EXCEPTIONS.

Mrs. N. B. S. writes: I disagree with you that children do not outgrow asthma. My son, now 26 years old, had asthma from the time he was a year and a half old. At 16 it stopped and he has been in good health since. He was under a physician's care and had good home care so long as he had asthma. I think now his trouble was due to too much eggs in his diet when he was a child.

REPLY.

My answer—no—given to a letter from H. was the proper one. However, there are exceptions. I am not certain your son is an exception. Why credit his cure to "outgrowing it" when it might have been due to changing his diet, giving him less eggs, or to medical treatment, or something else that was done?

From Across the Sea

BY NORMAN INGREY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile.—Dramatic contrasts of wartime conditions in Paraguay and Bolivia, South American enemies fighting for jungle territory in the Gran Chaco, were drawn by an American traveler, Miss Ethel MacNair. She recently reached Chile.

Miss MacNair, who is a New York woman, is attached to Columbia university. She journeyed through the "no man's land" of the Chaco and remained in the Paraguayan and Bolivian capitals during the course of an "educational" tour.

Part of her education was received inside Asuncion and La Paz jails because she was accused of being an American spy in both countries. Due to her own sense of humor and the timely intervention of the American legation she was released within twenty-four hours in each case.

In La Paz she was taken before the general staff and harangued by high officers for her "suspicious activities." The situation was saved when she found that the military interpreter had been her companion on the international train which brought her to Bolivia.

Miss MacNair declared it was a "crime on civilization" that two young South American nations should continue to "lose the flower of their manhood in what was bound to prove a sterile war." She contrasted the self-contained effort of Paraguay with a war-worn Bolivia dependent on outside supplies and faced with stupendous transportation problems.

Despite the repeated denials of Bolivian statesmen she said she was convinced that Bolivia's main war objective was to secure an untrammeled pipe line to the Atlantic ocean. It was impossible to pass the oil over the Andes to the Pacific, she said.

"The Paraguayans can fight for years," added Miss MacNair. "They believe in the justice of their cause and are fighting for their homes. The Bolivians are more powerful, but jaded. President D. Salamanca is a sick man and the virtual prisoner of a military clique. The ideal solution of the war would be the concession of an ocean outlet to Bolivia by some South American power."

Miss MacNair said her most interesting discovery in the Chaco was a Mennonite settlement. These Mennonites, who came from Canada, decided on the jungleland as the "most peaceful place on earth" and established a mission where they thought they would be assured of "eternal tranquillity."

Soon after they arrived war broke out. Since then their station has frequently been bombed and missionaries have been killed.

JUVENILE COURT APPOINTMENTS.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—Who is responsible for the appointment of a referee for the Juvenile court? Some interesting questions are raised by press reports of Dec. 13 in which Judge Normoyle contends that the recommendation of the Juvenile court judge will be the determining factor in the selection by the Circuit judges of a referee for the Juvenile court. That this is in general sound policy few people will deny, but certain inquiries are pertinent.

First, is it not true that no one basis of selection has yet been established? Second, is it not true that in 1912 the juuges followed the advice of the Juvenile court judge? Third, is it not true that in 1927 the advice of the judge of the Juvenile court was apparently not sought at all? Fourth, is there not then room for a third procedure—the voluntary use of the merit system?

Technically the Juvenile court judge personally appoints the probation officers. They are by all odds the persons most needing to be trustworthy and in whom above all the judge must have confidence. But all the Juvenile court judges for more than two decades voluntarily have limited their choice to an eligible list established in accordance with principles of merit service by distinguished citizens' examining committees.

Does not this plan offer a solution to the present riddle regarding the imminent choice of a referee?

It would, of course, be absurd to suppose that any Juvenile court judge would utterly spurn the advice of the community in the administration of the court which is guardian of 25,000 children. It is even more absurd to imagine that the judges of the Circuit court would assign to the Juvenile court or allow to remain there any one of their number who allowed his personal judgment or political obligations to be paramount in his recommendation of one who must annually help to decide the future of more than 6,000 "ragged and miserable children."

The community asked these judges to state before their elections what their attitude was toward merit service in the Juvenile court. Their answer was unanimously favorable. The community in electing them will require no stricter accounting anywhere than in relation to the Juvenile court, its personnel, and its 25,000 wards.

AN INTERNESHIP FOR LAWYERS.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—Your editorial, "205 More Lawyers," advocating a process of elimination of the "morally as well as the intellectually incompetent" future lawyers to be undertaken in the law schools is a commendable start in the right direction. However, I beg leave to point to another stage in the legal profession which is in need of improvement, and that is the time after having passed the written examination.

It is generally known that a law student who passed the written examination is admitted to the bar, which in the mind of the public means he is competent to represent a litigant in a court of law. No patient would be intrusted to the care of a medical student who has been qualified as to his theoretical knowledge, but who has not as yet had any practical training [laboratory or clinical]. Is it unreasonable for the public to expect the same preparation of the young lawyer as of the young doctor?

A period of practical training prior to admission to the bar seems to me the best solution, whether it be called legal interneship or something else. After all, environment in the law school can at best be only a preparatory stage for the undergraduate. F. P. A.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—I read "Buck" Weaver's letter to his wife in THE TRIBUNE this morning, and cannot understand why such an absolutely true picture of conditions and people in Tennessee should call for his resignation and departure from the state. ANOTHER TAX FREE BUSINESS!

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 13.—I notice that the Y. M. C. A. hotel is to be listed for taxation. The House of the Good Shepherd, which lists in the Red Book under "laundries," carries on one of the largest laundry businesses in the city. Its trucks, bearing only the address, 1126 Grace street, are numerous on the streets. The work in this laundry is done by girls who have been sent there by the courts and who naturally do not have to be paid any salary. Why isn't this commercial enterprise subject to taxation?

1. The seller's. If the warranty deed is accepted by the purchaser without the revenue stamps on it, then either can be held liable, but it should be the seller's expense. 2. It is a federal tax and hence the same in each state.

New Invasion by Women; Go to Locker Room

Ladies Take Tea in Once Sacred Precincts.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WOMEN seem to be invading every place formerly sacred to men, first bars and now locker rooms at golf clubs. The men's locker room at the Indian Hill club in Winnetka has just been redecorated to resemble a miniature German village, and, of course, all the women are dying to see it. And see it they will on Christmas eve, for the older carolers are to be served their tea there after the traditional sing which is attended by all the Indian Hill members and their families every year.

The younger carolers will have their tea in the big clubhouse as usual, but since there were 1,600 carolers last year the manager is glad to have more space in which to serve tea to the hungry and cold carolers. The sing takes place outside around lighted trees and the picture is one not soon forgotten by any one who sees it.

This is not the only holiday party planned for Indian Hill members and their families, for on New Year's day there will be open house from 7 to 10 o'clock, but only those over 18 years of age are invited to this jolly affair. The younger ones are not forgotten, however, for on Saturday night of this week the annual dance for those of high school age will be given and on Friday, the 29th, a party for children of sixth, seventh, and eighth grade age will be held. The party this Saturday is an evening affair, but the one on the 29th will be from 4 to 7 in the afternoon.

The sophomore, junior, and senior classes of the North Shore Country Day school are giving a dance at the Winnetka Woman's club Saturday night of this week and many of the young people who go to it later will attend the party at the Indian Hill club. Janet Musselman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George H. Musselman, will be a dinner hostess before the school dance, and numerous other dinner parties are being planned for that night by young Winnetka subdebs and their mammas.

Mary Lou Laird Will Be Hostess.

The miniature German village at the Indian Hill club will be the scene of a gay young people's party on Wednesday, the 27th, when Miss Mary Lou Laird, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Laird, is the young hostess at a dinner dance for sixty of her friends. Miss Laird returned on Friday of this week from the Baldwin school at Bryn Mawr to spend the holidays in Winnetka.

On Christmas day the Indian Hill club will be the scene of a debut, for Mr. and Mrs. Alvin E. Bastien are presenting their charming daughter, Barbara Ann, at a tea there from 4 until 7. Miss Bastien is one of the outstanding debutantes of this season because of her quiet charm and winning personality.

The Bastiens' invitation list for the debut will be augmented by the names of those Princeton Triangle members who do not go home to spend Christmas with their families. As the Triangle show will arrive in Chicago on the 24th, the Bastiens are including its members in their hospitality.

Hold At Homes on New Year's.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress of 939 Green Bay road, Hubbard Woods, and their large family will hold their annual open house on New Year's day after 5 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Fentress are entertaining at dinner next Tuesday night at the Blackstone for their debutante daughter, Harriet, before the Princeton Triangle club show. Miss Fentress returned to Vassar soon after making her formal bow in September, but will be at home for the Christmas festivities.

Another New Year's at home at which a whole family will receive is one to which Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Cutler Dawes have issued cards. Mr. and Mrs. Dawes and their sons and daughters will receive in the Daweses' apartment, 305 Fullerton parkway, "from 10 to six on."

Cards were out about a week ago for the annual Leonard family at home in Winnetka, which this year is to be a wedding reception for Daniel Leonard and his bride, May Morey, who are to be married at 4:30 o'clock that afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Leonard, John Robert Leonard, Miss Harriet Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. Hibbard Casselberry and Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Morey will receive their friends from 5 to 7 o'clock at Wildacre, John R. Leonard's handsome home on Bryant avenue.

Tradition will bring all of the members of the exclusive Chicago club together for dinner on New Year's day. It is a custom never to be altered even to the hour of arrival, which is scheduled for 1:30, allowing all of the New Year's eve celebrants plenty of time to recuperate. Also, according to tradition, the party will continue late into the afternoon.

"Happy New Year, Orville and Blanche Thompson, at home Monday, Jan. 1, 5 to 8 o'clock, 179 Lake Shore drive," read the red-lettered cards received yesterday for the Orville Thompsons' annual New Year's day reception.

With regret we heard yesterday that the board members at the University club have cast a negative vote on reviving their New Year's at home this year. Before the prohibition era the reception was one of the most popular traditions within the club, but with REPEAL chit-chat. Although the bars are crowded, some of the oldtimers are sticking to former speakeasies where the bartenders are more experienced. For instance, a prominent Chicagoan asked for a sidecar the other day at a hotel bar. He observed that the bartender had a recipe book slipped in under the bar and was painstakingly trying to read the recipe without the customer seeing him. He tasted the cocktail when he got it, then picked up his hat and went over to Joe's and got one. . . There is a certain amount of feeling about women at the bars, too. One of the heads of a loop hotel company hasn't been able to have a drink at his hotel bar yet. He's never been able to get near enough, and the hotel is about to open a bar for men only. . . On the other hand, a charming woman has put forth the suggestion—and it may bear fruit—that there be a bar, or several of them, for women, where no men can go unless they are accompanied by a lady. There's feminism for you. . . A Chicagoan has had to put up with a lot of ribbing from his salesmen and employés because his photograph in a group picture taken at a hotel bar was printed in a newspaper, and he had just issued warning letters to the employés pointing out that repeal was here, but that he hoped it would not be the signal for an increase in drinking. . . We must report, too, the thoughtful and chic lady who appeared at a recent party with a little gold swizzle stick concealed in a slim gold cylinder. She carries it about in her bag along with her vanity and lipstick to have handy when champagne is served. . . Stand back, howling mob; plutocrat though she is, we won't have her harmed.

ONE of our favorite bulletineers tells the story of Jake. Before the depression he was Jacob, but now that he is again pressing pants he once more calls himself Jake. The other day he looked extremely happy and, considering the calamities that have befallen him in the last four years, his pleased expression caused comment. By way of explanation we point out that in 1929 Jake was wiped out in the stock market; in 1930 bonds and mortgages took him bye-bye; in 1931 he lost his business; in 1932 he packed up and left what had been his own home, and in 1933 his relatives came to live with him in a little rented flat. Asked what made him look so happy, Jake said that he was to be married in 1934 and confided the details of the romance.

"Vell, my friend, I'm tellink you, it vas like this," he said beamingly. "I met my future vife at a vedding. At nodder vedding I make luf to her. The next vedding ve vas to she announces her engagement. And now, my friend"—he bent close to his listener's ear—"ve vill be married at a vedding, too."

You recall, perhaps, that Miss Le Gallienne's devotion to the theater was mentioned. Once upon a time Miss Barrymore and Miss Le Gallienne attended together a performance of Duse's. Every time Duse came on the stage Miss Le Gallienne stood up—head respectfully bowed. At least that's Miss Barrymore's story.

Three Exhibits Worth Holiday Gallery Visits

Critic Praises Landscapes by Mrs. Newman.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Three interesting exhibitions of differing character are on view in north side galleries. The All Illinois Society of the Fine Arts is sponsoring the attractive showing of landscapes and flower paintings by Mrs. Ira A. Newman in the Lord Nelson room, Drake hotel.

Mrs. Newman has established a reputation for decorative canvases along these themes and this one man exhibit bears out the promise which one has discovered in single pictures found here and there among the general exhibitions each year. It is a good show with much of beauty to commend it. Perhaps among the most significant work might be counted "White Roses in Black Vase," "Summer Bouquet," "Peonies in Window," and "My Valentine."

The O'Brien galleries, 673 North Michigan avenue, offer three exhibits for the Christmas season. The Carolina landscapes by Lawrence Mazzanovich are like so many gleaming tapestries, richly soft in color and exquisitely beautiful. In the room across are found landscapes by F. C. Peyraud, the Chicago painter whose work is familiar to most of us. These recent pictures convince us that Mr. Peyraud has lost nothing of the cunning of his touch. They are as stunning as his earlier landscapes, vigorous, virile and eminently livable. The Skokie valley and much of Illinois have served him for subjects. Fall and summer are his favorite seasons and this group of paintings is rich in reds, golds, blues, and green.

Upstairs in the O'Brien print gallery is discovered a whimsical and clever exhibit of water colors by Peggy Palmer. Most of them portray children engaged in amusing activities. They are colorful, cheerful, and in tune with the holiday spirit.

The last of the three exhibitions is found in the Kroch galleries, 206 North Michigan avenue, where paintings by Anita Venier Alexander have just been hung. The work in still life is admirable, the drawing exact and the colors good. The painting is modern in character, one feels well acquainted with the people and the work horse. Similar characters are found in all modern pictures.

A certain coldness prevents an enthusiastic response to the exhibit; the appeal of the painting is more to the mind than the spirit. One feels calculation and effort back of each conception and their very smoothness forbids them life. As sheltering well solved problems the exhibition is recommended for consideration.

These various exhibits will continue into the first of the new year.

Pullman Conductor Gives First Recital Between Train Runs

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Nat Metzger, a Pullman car conductor, made his debut as a singer between trains here.

He pulled in from New York at 2:30 p. m. on the Diplomat of the Baltimore and Ohio road, ushered his passengers on their way and scurried to a music studio in a downtown hotel.

There in a rich baritone he sang in his first public recital numbers by English, French, Italian and German composers.

At 9 o'clock he was back in the train shed crying "All aboard" for the train back east.

Dr. Stelzle Issues New Study of Church Life

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Only about 7 per cent of this city's white population are members of Protestant churches, Dr. Charles Stelzle reported today in announcing the results of a new study of American religious life. He finds that in the Presbyterian church, selected as a typically American organization, it "required the combined efforts for a whole year of an average of thirty members to win one convert." There was a net loss of 41,000 in the entire Presbyterian membership and a loss of 23,800 in the number of Sunday school teachers and pupils.

MISS HELEN HUNTER

Chicago Debut

This charming photograph of Miss Helen Hunter, who arrives today to spend the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garfield King, was taken by her uncle, Clarence B. Mitchell, who has taken up photography in a serious way and is to have an exhibit of his work here next month.

Miss Hunter, the daughter of the Robert Hunters of Pasadena, is making a debut in Chicago, where her mother lived as a girl [she was Gwendolyn Mitchell] on Thursday at a reception to be given by Mr. and Mrs. King at the Casino. Miss Hunter's grandaunt, Mrs. Charles Adams of Honolulu, will receive with the debutante and Mr. and Mrs. King.

New Drinking Complicated as to Glassware

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Plenty of people are more than dizzy trying to find a clear way through the proper methods of serving liquid refreshments since drinking has become above board and more complicated.

It's no wonder that the glassware departments are doing a large and rushing business. Never has there been such an array of crystal goblets, fancy cocktail glasses as well as plain, and practical drinking units of new design.

For the host or hostess thoroughly weary of colored glass there are some knockout clear crystal numbers—particularly attractive and simple after the rainbow and gaudier colored creations of last year. There are tall, slender pilseners and graceful cocktail glasses and goblets that will show the sparkling stuff inside. Some clear crystal brandy balloons worthy of enthusiasm have blue or amber stems with the fragile bowl as clear as a bubble. Tricky cocktail sets of crystal have Christmas gift possibilities, especially those with colored symbols on the outside. One salty set has the signal system of a busy flag waving sailor on each glass. The signals give such warnings as "danger," "stormy weather," and the rest of the code for drinkers ashore.

Tall, graceful decanters with a convoy of small glasses, boasting price stickers that will make you gasp, come in fascinating colors—smoky gray, topaz, ruby, and sapphire blue—while crystal and colored combinations are also available in the same kind of sets.

Colored enamel clips of all the easy to identify animals make a timely gift for the hostess who feeds the hungry and thirsty in large crowds. The repeating guests identify their own glasses with the aid of one of these obliging animals clipped daringly on the rim of the glass. Chromium clips of the same menagerie can also be found, while painted numerals on tall glasses do the same sort of job for careless imbibers who are prone to lose things after the party is gleefully started.

Glassware will be a welcome Christmas gift.

Cheer Hepburn at Her Debut as Stage Star

Sellout at Washington for New Play.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Katharine Hepburn felt the thrill of curtain calls tonight, celebrating her return to the stage in her first starring rôle there as the central figure in "The Lake," British hit of last season.

A capacity audience at the National theater let her hear from their hands the plaudits that attended her rapid rise in the moving picture field.

The applause went for her company as well, the supporting cast being headed by Frances Starr, Blanche Bates, and Colin Clive.

The occasion was made quite a social one. Seats sold out early, many persons prominent in social Washington preceding the play with dinner parties. Alumnae of Bryn Mawr, Miss Hepburn having been a student there, turned out in force.

Written by Dorothy Massingham and Murray MacDonald, and produced for the first time in this country by Jed Harris, "The Lake" is headed for New York.

Contrasting with her few previous appearances before audiences, which were in subordinate parts, Miss Hepburn found a decidedly appreciative audience which called her back for repeated bows of acknowledgment once the curtain had fallen. She appeared to enjoy it very much.

Divorce Plea Reveals Secret Marriage of English Film Beauty

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The secret marriage seven years ago of a blue-eyed blonde beauty queen from England, Miriam Jordan, was disclosed today in her suit for divorce.

She was just as much surprised that Hollywood learned her secret as was Hollywood at the revelation. She thought the suit filed under her real name of Miriam ..uby Davis against Joseph Davis would guard the identity of the principals.

The wedding took place in London, April 14, 1926, and they separated October 1, 1929.

In her suit she charged he was lazy and profligate, refused to work shortly after their marriage, and that she was their sole support while they lived together.

After her separation she came to Hollywood alone, heralded as winning beauty queen of the Wembley exposition, an All-British Empire fair, as privately educated at Skinner's School for Young Ladies in London, and as unmarried.

Light Comedy of Matrimony Has Barrymore

"SHOULD LADIES BEHAVE"

Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.
Directed by Harry Beaumont.
Presented at McVicker's theater.

THE CAST.

Augustus	Lionel Barrymore
Laura	Alice Brady
Max	Conway Tearle
Winifred	Katharine Alexander
Leone	Mary Carlisle
Geoffrey	William Janney
Butler	Halliwell Hobbes

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"Should Ladies Behave?" was known on the stage as "The Vinegar Tree."

It is a lightweight, sophisticated matrimonial comedy concerned with a week-end of happenings at the country home of the Augustus Merricks. These be parents of a darling daughter who has had her feelings hurt by a gauche young fiancé who has informed her she's crude and that, O, HOW he does wish she'd glean some sophistication . . . !

Come Aunt Winkie and Auntie's (sub rosa) lover, Max Lawrence, to week-end—Max being mistaken by giddy Mamma Merrick for one with whom she had spent a romantic night before her marriage. . . . While daughter decides that Max is the man for her. . . .

Complications, of course, ensue. . . .

The best acting in the piece is accomplished by Lionel Barrymore, who, as grouchy old Papa Merrick, quite dominates your interest. Conway Tearle and Mary Carlisle second him in naturalness.

Alice Brady is funny at times, but would have been funnier had her slapstick not been so greatly exaggerated. She uses a trowel. Katherine Alexander is quite colorless as Aunt Winkie and William Janney proves unremarkable as the fiancé.

The action moves briskly and the film is smartly accoutered.

Pale Blue Proves Paris' Favorite Color for Details

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Pale blue, in about nineteen-odd tones, is a detail color that is being much shown in Paris. Dark brown, dark red, black, navy and beige and gray frocks with blue used to trim them are important in the advance spring style shows of the big dressmakers. The one of the blue is varied according to the color of the dress. You see pale turquoise blue, pastel blue, powder blue, baby blue and cornflower blue, as well as others.

Three carved turquoise buttons are sewed along the shoulder seams and the turquoise blue taffeta jabot buttons on to these buttons. This jabot is tucked part way down, and is very frilly below the tucks.

Page Mr. Pomeroy

By ELIZABETH JORDAN

SYNOPSIS.

Bruce Pomeroy, brought up in poverty, befriended a Russian, Boris Orleneff. In return Orleneff, before his death, left Pomeroy an invention, which is about to make Pomeroy a millionaire. Orleneff stipulated that his brother's family, whom he considered parasites, were not to get a cent from the invention. While walking through New York's Central park one winter's morning Pomeroy is kidnaped and taken to a small island off the coast of Maine, where he is made a prisoner in a luxurious home, but kept on a starvation diet. His captor is Boris Orleneff, nephew of the inventor. Boris' cousins, Cyril and Olga Norrikoff, assisted in the abduction. They want Pomeroy to make a settlement. He refuses. Boris invites Pomeroy to join the family circle downstairs. The older members are unaware that Pomeroy is an involuntary guest. He is impressed by Boris' sister, Irma, and his mother. Pomeroy manages to elude his guard, Grateful, and get out of his room, but a raging storm makes escape impossible. Olga Norrikoff offers to help him escape if he will take her to New York. She tells him they are all starving. That the house was lent to them for the winter, Boris and Cyril hadn't been able to get work.

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

SANITY DOUBTED.

"I'll do one more good deed today," Olga said. "Though I'm not supposed to leak this way. You may be interested to know that as soon as the sea quiets down you will be taken over to the mainland and turned loose. Boris has decided that the pleasure of your company these few days is all we desire."

Pomeroy looked at her in silence. Was that true?

"Cyril doesn't agree," she added lightly. "But that doesn't matter. Boris is the head of the family, and what he says goes. Besides, we're all a bit fed up. We'll not be sorry to see the last of you," she ended curtly.

Pomeroy stood up. His brain was whirling. He had borne all he could. Yet the visit promised to go on indefinitely. She was leaning back in her chair, her feet on the brass fender, her air one of quiet comfort and stability. His brown eyes took on a reddish cast. He strode to her chair, lifted the girl in his arms without effort, and swiftly carried her out of the room. After the first instinctive struggle she remained quiet.

Once across the threshold he settled her more firmly in the crook of one arm and, drawing the door shut, bolted it on the outside. Then he put Olga on her feet and smiled down at her. For some reason the smile enraged her. Her color rose warmingly.

"That will be about all from you, my girl," he said. "Please don't call again."

"How dare you," she began furiously. "I'll—I'll—— "

"You won't do a damned thing," he assured her, still smiling but keeping steady eyes on her.

"What are you going to do?"

"I shall merely take a little constitutional in the grounds," he said

"I know you think I'm a lunatic . . . well, I'm not."

coolly. "I need air and exercise. If you decide to mention my plan to your cousin, you might add that he will find me in the caretaker's hut, if he cares to come after me. But it will hardly be worth while. I know only too well I can't get off the island in this weather."

She looked at him steadily.

"Don't go out without your hat and coat on," was all she said.

He broke into a laugh so spontaneous and so unrestrained that she smiled unwillingly.

He strolled toward the staircase before she could reply and went on downstairs without looking back. She stood where he had left her, staring after him for a long moment. Once she moved as if to follow him, but finally she turned and went back along the hall toward a rear stairway. Pomeroy stopped in the vestibule to borrow a hat and overcoat. He unlocked the big front door and slipped out on the broad snow covered veranda with a deep breath of satisfaction. He was not hurrying, nor was he making any effort to escape the observation of any one looking out the windows.

The storm was as wild as he had pictured it and the wind seemed higher. He pushed on more rapidly until he found himself almost running. He paused at the boathouse door, saw that it was still unlocked, and went in. The flag, he discovered, was the worse for wear but was still in position. He left the boathouse again and continued his quest for the caretaker's cottage, peering through the sleet. He caught the outlines of a small building some distance away. He struggled toward it, reached the front door, and pounded heavily on its pine surface.

The door opened and a man stood back from it, sheltering himself from the wind and snow that rushed into the house. He was middle aged, medium sized, gray haired, and unemotional. His smooth shaven face had been battered by wind and storms and burned by hot suns. This was all Pomeroy had time to observe as he crowded past the man and hurried to the fireplace, in which a big blaze was roaring up the chimney. There he grinned at his host, who regarded the manifestation without a change of expression, though he was watching the caller closely.

"Hope you don't mind my dashing in that way," Bruce said, taking off his overcoat and cap and shaking the snow from them.

His host closed the door with some difficulty, and remained silent. The caller added: "My name is Pomeroy, and I'm from New York."

"I've heard tell of you." The other's voice was not unpleasant, but neither was his manner hospitable. "Come up here for kind a rest cure, didn't you?"

"Is that what Mr. Orleneff told you?"

The caretaker was not answering questions.

"Tain't no weather fer you to be out in," he mentioned and continued to keep the stranger under close observation.

"You don't mind if I sit down and get warm, do you?" Pomeroy smiled again, and again failed to get an answering softening of expression.

"Nope."

"I know you think I'm a lunatic. Well, I'm not. But I did need fresh air and exercise."

"Look here," he asked. "Do I really seem crazy to you?"

"Well, I'm not."

"I've heard tell they all say that." Pomeroy laughed out suddenly and got to his feet.

"All right," he said good naturedly, "if you don't believe me, I'll clear out." He reached for the cap and coat he had dropped on another chair, and started to put on the coat.

"Hold on a minute," the caretaker said, and added with more spontaneity than he had shown as yet: "Durned if you don't seem all right to me!"

"I'm glad of that," Pomeroy smiled. "I am all right. I always have been. Even Orleneff is admitting that I'm all right, for I'm leaving his hospitality as soon as this storm is over."

"An' no one's sayin' when that'll be," the caretaker announced darkly.

Pomeroy dropped the coat and cap. He rather liked this weather beaten, slow spoken son of the sea, and he believed the man was intelligent.

"Is there any boat on this island except that useless sieve in the boathouse?" he asked conversationally.

"No, sir. But that worked pretty good in clear weather till those Orleneff folks busted it."

"I understand you live here both summer and winter."

"Yep. Sense old Mr. Crosby bought this island and built his house. That's seven years come spring."

"O, I got a little workshop back of this shack. I putter round. I got some idees I'm workin' out."

"What are you working out?" Inventions?"

But the caretaker was not as expansive as he seemed. He grew cautious again.

"O, some idees," he said vaguely.

"I'm a manufacturer myself.' Pomeroy drew out a small leather case and produced one of his business cards. "I manufacture the Oreleneff clip."

The caretaker looked at the card and then at its owner. He seemed surprised and somewhat confused.

"No, I own it. They have nothing to do with it. But they want to have. That's why I'm here."

"I see."

The caretaker spoke slowly, looking hard at Pomeroy. It was increasingly clear that he was intelligent and that his mind was working.

"What's your name?" Pomeroy asked the man.

"Mason. Andy Mason."

"Well, Mr. Mason, I'm going to tell you the facts."

Swiss Steak Is Labeled 'Meat Without Fight'

BY MARY MEADE.

Three men came into the restaurant, sat at a nearby table, and hungrily studied the menu.

"Swiss steak," ordered Mr. A.

"What's that?" Mr. B. questioned.

"Well," explained Mr. A., "you don't have to chew it, but it isn't hamburger."

Mr. B. looked puzzled, so Mr. C. explained it this way: "Swiss steak is regular steak with the fight taken out of it."

Which is as good an explanation as I've heard. Your culinary dictionary will tell you it's round or flank steak pounded with flour and cooked at long, low, moist heat to make the meat tender. The pounding and long cooking are what makes it so very, very tender and still most delicious. The meat is cooked with water, tomatoes, or sour cream. The two last mentioned, being acid, give the meat more tenderness than the water, for they help still more to break down and soften the meat fibers.

For a large family, or when company is coming, have your butcher cut off a piece of round steak about 3 inches thick.

SWISS STEAK.

4 pounds round steak
2-3 cup flour
Salt and pepper to taste
5 tablespoons bacon drippings
1 quart canned tomatoes
1 cup hot water

Sprinkle the meat with salt and pepper and pound into it as much flour as it will hold. Use a ridged meat hammer or the edge of a heavy plate for the pounding. Brown in the bacon drippings on top of the stove in a heavy skillet. Pour the tomatoes and hot water over the meat, cover, and cook in a slow oven [325 degrees F.] until tender—three or four hours.

BEEFSTEAK POCKETS.

1 pound pork sausage
1 cup soft bread crumbs
¼ cup water
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
2 cups cooked tomatoes
1½ teaspoons salt
1 small onion

Cut the steak into three inch squares and slit a pocket in each with a sharp knife. Blend the sausage, bread crumbs, and chopped onion together with the water. Sprinkle each slit lightly with salt and stuff with the sausage mixture. Secure the edges with toothpicks. Sear the outer surfaces of the meat in hot fat, slicing the whole onion into the pan to brown at the same time. Then add the salt and tomatoes and cover closely. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for 2½ hours.

HAMBURGER JARDINIERE.

1½ pounds hamburger
1 No. 2½ can peas
1 No. 2½ can tomatoes
Salt and pepper to taste
¼ cup flour

Season the hamburger with salt and pepper and pat into a round flat loaf. Brown in hot fat, turning carefully with a pancake turner so that the loaf will not break. Remove the loaf from the skillet, combine the flour with the fat, and add to it the contents of the can of tomatoes and the peas, from which the juice has been drained. Bury the loaf of meat in the vegetables, cover the pan, and cook in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for one hour, or until the vegetable sauce is quite thick. Remove to a hot platter and surround with a border of mashed potatoes.

Yule Stocking Can Be Full of Jolly Trinkets

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

There are two ways of doing those little Christmas stockings that are hung with such awe on Christmas Eve by the small son or daughter. You can jam in apples and nuts and oranges hurriedly, just before you tumble wearily into bed yourself. Or you can fill that little sock or stocking—but it really needs to be stocking—in such a way that it becomes one of the most thrilling events of Christmas morning. All you need to do for the latter, is to let your imagination get working.

For filler you'll use the traditional nuts and oranges and apples. But the important part of the stocking will be the little presents that you will collect over a period of days. For inspiration, go to the counters in the toy sections of the department stores where they have small articles for five, ten, and twenty cents, or to the five and ten cent stores.

You will find such things to select from as well made little farm animals [and wild ones too], little dolls or doll's accessories, and tiny automobiles and locomotives and trucks, or blunt-pointed scissors.

For children who like to draw you might choose plain or colored pencils or crayons to tuck into the stocking. We always wrap each stocking surprise in tissue paper, giving a little touch of suspense. A small lollipop or a barley sugar animal is a wholesome sweet to add. And one Christmas we started something, because our Chrismas Child had been waking up at five o'clock—and we had to keep it up for years. We made tiny bread and butter sandwiches cut very small wrapped them in waxed paper and put those in too, to keep the empty and excited little tummy going until breakfast time. This made a great hit.

For the toe of the stocking we had five new pennies bright as gold. The next year we increased it to ten. When the pennies are this numerous and then become fifteen and twenty, it is nice to make a little chamois money-bag with a drawstring. It seems then like a treasure trove.

Watch the utterly absorbed face of your little boy or girl, finding each little surprise in the Christmas stocking, and I think you'll feel you've scored one Christmas success to start the day.

Friends of Opera to Meet Thursday.

Thursday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock there will be a meeting of women at the residence of Mrs. Arthur Meeker, 1100 Lake Shore drive, that may prove to be a very important one to the new Chicago Grand Opera company that starts its season next Tuesday.

Mrs. Meeker as chairman of the Friends of Grand Opera has called a meeting of the executive committee to decide what support the organization shall give to the new company, and although this year it may not amount to more than taking a box or two in the name of the FOGOs and some tickets to be given to music students, still to have the powerful Friends of Opera in back of them at all would be of value to the new company, without a doubt.

The FOGOs used to undertake the selling of the boxes for the old Chicago Civic Opera company and in many ways they proved themselves of tremendous aid to the company. If the FOGOs should be revived it is certain that a new chairman will lead them, for Mrs. Meeker has not been in the best of health recently and she told us recently that she felt that it was a younger woman's turn to head the organization if it should resume its work.

Olivet Institute Benefit Tonight.

Another gala evening for society tonight as the result of Mrs. Howard Linn's untiring effort. The second benefit performance of opera intime is to be given in the Palmer house ballroom for the benefit of Olivet institute in which Mrs. Linn is so vitally interested.

There is to be a double bill with the ballet opera "Pulcinella," by Stravinsky, coming the first part of the evening and the pantomime "L'Enfant Prodigue," by Wormser, the second part. Singing will be Chicago's own Janet Fairbank, Oscar Colcaire, and William Russell.

In the ballroom foyer preceding the opening of the opera at 8:30 Mr. and Mrs. Linn will entertain at dinner for Mrs. Linn's brother, Seymour Blair. Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson, the Wolcott Blairs, Mrs. William H. Mitchell, Mrs. Paul Draper, and Ralph Hines.

Mrs. Harold S. Talbott of Dayton, who arrives in town today especially for tonight's opera, will be another of Mrs. Linn's box guests. Mrs. Talbott is dining with the Chauncey McCormicks, the John Alden Carpenters, the George T. Langhornes, the William McCormick Blairs, Mrs. William A. Nitze, and Russell Tyson.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron S. Harvey will have as dinner and box guests Mr. and Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Mr. and Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence, and Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Hamill. The junior Byron Harveys are taking Miss Cornelia Fairbanks and Frederick Poole to the opera with them.

Book of Recipes to Aid Hospital.

Such a tempting little book of recipes as came in yesterday's mail from Mrs. Robert J. Dunham; it made us want to hasten home and experiment with some of them immediately. Mrs. Dunham, who confesses in a letter sent with the book, that as far back as she can remember, cooking in the kitchen has always been one of her chief delights, has assembled her pet recipes in a gay little green and white checked covered book—the brilliant magenta lining of the cover almost blinded us, but is effective—that she is selling for a dollar, the proceeds going to the Passavant hospital.

The book pays tribute to Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, too, so Mrs. Dunham says in a short foreword, "who has given to the hospital of her time, health, and heart, and to whom much of its success is due." "Palatable Patter" will be included on the Christmas lists of many as soon as they learn about it, we are sure, not only because of the worthy cause for which it is being sold, but because the recipes really will be an addition to any household.

It's a long way off, but already the women interested in it are working to make it one of the most successful benefits of the winter, so we think we'll tell you that on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 4, the Red, White, and Blue club will receive the proceeds of a recital by George Gershwin, assisted by Leo Reisman's orchestra and James Melton, popular radio tenor.

Betty Brawley Will Be Hostess Today.

Miss Betty Brawley, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Brawley, is entertaining today at luncheon in the Blackstone hotel for Miss Eleanor and Miss Betty Coit and Miss Jean O'Brien. Miss Brawley has invited several of the debutantes of this year and last year when she came out.

Christmas day at the Edwin P. Welches in Lake Forest will be very merry, for Mr. and Mrs. Welch will be welcoming a tiny newcomer to their fireside. She is a daughter born last Friday and it will be just about Christmas day when she is removed from the hospital to her new nursery.

Mrs. Welch is the former Isabelle Baker Curtis, daughter of the late Alfred Landon Baker and sister of Mary Landon Baker. By her former marriage Mrs. Welch has two daughters, Priscilla and Isabelle Curtis.

This Thursday Priscilla will be returning home from her studies at St. Timothy's in Catonsville, Md., with her two good friends, Miss Barbara Hutchins, the daughter of the James C. Hutchinses, and Miss Mary Gardner, whose parents are the Robert A. Gardners. Miss Hutchins and Miss Gardner are cousins.

John N. Doles Have Daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. John N. Dole are receiving congratulations on the arrival of their first daughter at 10 o'clock Sunday morning at the Evanston hospital. The baby's two little brothers are Peter and Johnny Dole, who are at Warm Springs, Ga., now with their maternal grandmother, Mrs. Wirth S. Dunham. Before her marriage Mrs. Dole was Barbara Dunham.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Terbell Jr. arrived Saturday from their home in St. Louis to spend the week-end with Mrs. Terbell's parents, the Stuart Logans. The rest of the Logans' family . . . their two younger daughters, Shirley and Lorraine . . . arrived at home yesterday from their school in Aiken, S. C. From Chicago the Terbells are traveling east to spend the Christmas holiday with Mr. Terbell's mother in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Riffat Tirana of Geneva, Switzerland, are visiting Mrs. Tirana's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby G. Walling, in Winnetka. Mr. Tirana is attached to the staff of the league of nations and is very much in demand here to talk privately about international affairs.

The Wallings' daughter, Miss Frederika Walling, is here from Detroit, where she has been working, for the holidays, and she will soon be joined by her young brother, Cheves T. Walling, who is at Harvard. Another brother, W. English Walling, will be at home, too, for Christmas. He is working out of town.

The Gustavus F. Swift household is slowly being filled with children returning from schools. Miss Geraldine Swift is at home, for she has finished her school days, but Gustavus Jr., her brother, returned last Saturday, and her two sisters, Miss Marie Swift and Miss Jane Swift, will be at home very shortly, one arriving today and the other Thursday.

Plan Second Thursday Roundup.

A second Thursday night roundup will be held by the Chicago committee of Arden Shore this week in the College Inn at the Hotel Sherman. Last week's party was such a success . . . especially from the financial standpoint . . . that the committee members are working on plans for this party with renewed zeal.

Yesterday morning the committee met at the Palmolive building to complete details for the Christmas tree, the arrival of Santa Claus, and for a snappy floor show. Mrs. Edwin Rogers Fifield, president of the Chicago committee, attended, and so did Mrs. Richard Gambrill Jr., Mrs. Thomas J. Fleming, Miss Julianna Holmes, and Mrs. Leslie Olmsted.

Woman's Ad Club.

The Woman's Advertising club will hold its monthly meeting and Christmas party this evening at the Chicago Woman's club. Miss Gudrun Carlson, former U. S. trade commissioner, who recently returned from her post at Oslo, Norway, will be the guest speaker.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Junius S. Morgan, commodore of the New York Yacht club, who has kept the Salutation, the Morgan home on West Island, Glen Cove, open this winter, will preside at the annual meeting of the yacht club next Thursday evening at the New York City clubhouse. Members of the Long Island colonies and nearby will attend the dinner which is to precede the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall M. McLeod, who were married last June in Oyster Bay, are passing the winter at Roslyn, where they have leased a house on the Hon. Mrs. Frederick E. Guest's estate. Mrs. MacLeod was Miss E. Teresa Townsend, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard R. Townsend of Ramsbrook, Oyster Bay.

Sir Harry Gloster Armstrong, former British consul-general in New York; Lady Armstrong and Miss Constance Armstrong are passing the holiday season with their son and daughter-in-law, Capt. and Mrs. Thaddeus Armstrong, at Port Washington. They arrived a few days ago from London and will return to the British capital in January.

A new supper club came into existence with the first assembly of the Coronet club in the ballroom of the Hotel Gotham. According to the club announcement this new supper club is for "people who want to be more than sophisticated" and the membership is restricted to "the town's best and smartest people."

Players Guild Offers Noted Spanish Work

"World and His Wife" Deals with Gossip.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Players Guild, one of the several organizations which have undertaken to keep the dramatic stage of Chicago alive on a semi-professional basis, gave its second production of the season in the Chicago Woman's club theater last night. Its offering was José Echegaray's "The World and His Wife," called in the Spanish original "El Gran Galeoto"—a work that has a fairly important position in the history of the development of modern trends in drama.

Echegaray, university professor, politician and man of letters, has often been called "the Spanish Ibsen." His career was contemporary with Ibsen's, and he was the first European dramatist to follow the trail that the great Scandinavian was blazing. He wrote "El Gran Galeoto" in 1881—the same year that Ibsen brought out "Ghosts." The play gradually won world-wide fame, and in 1907 it reached the American stage in a brilliant production by William Faversham. The American translation, incidentally, is the work of Charles F. Nirdlinger, uncle and mentor of George Jean Nathan.

As an example of the playwriting of 1881, "The World and His Wife" passes the test of revival with honors. It has not resisted the "dating" process [which means passing out of date] as firmly as Ibsen's major pieces, and it contains hints of the influence of Sardou as well as that of Ibsen; but on the whole it stands up well, especially when one considers what old-fashioned stuff was the stock in trade of the commercial stage at the time of its birth.

Malicious gossip about a woman's virtue is the villain of this tightly constructed tragedy, and the Spanish sense of honor is its defeated hero. It tells a striking story with the aristocracy of Madrid as its background.

The Players Guild production is a satisfactory evocation of Spanish atmosphere, and Ben Guy Phillips, director of the organization, has professional authority in the leading rôle. The performance will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night.

Dancers Will Tell Story at Opera Tonight

In the second performance of opera intime, to be given at the Palmer house tonight under the direction of Karl Kreuger, there will be a first performance in America of Stravinsky's ballet-opera, "Pulcinella." Laurent Novikoff, for many years the dancing partner of the late Anna Pavlova and now the ballet director of the new Chicago Grand Opera company, has arranged a ballet to present the story while singers and orchestra present the music.

The singers will be Janet Fairbank, Oscar Colcaire, and William Russell; the dancers Bentlet Stone, Isabel Rolfson, Gloria Randolph, Georgia Jesseph, and others. This performance will be followed by Debussy's "L'Enfant Prodigue," to be sung by Irene Williams, Reinhold Schmidt, and Mr. Colcaire.

The performances are for the benefit of Olivet institute, and Mrs. Howard Linn is the chairman of the committee.

The "diamond horseshoe" will be in Chicago for the season of the Chicago Grand Opera company which begins a week from tonight. Starting this morning a crew of workmen will tear out five rows of seats across the center of the Civic Opera house to make way for the construction of a series of new boxes from which society may not only see but be seen. This gives the boxholder the opportunity either to appear in public or to remain in the greater privacy of the mezzanine boxes, which will be retained.

Aisles in the front and at the back of the new boxes, opening into the main longitudinal aisles of the house, will separate the new section from the rest of the auditorium and will allow access from one box to another. The view from the main floor seats behind the boxes will be unobstructed.

Marion Claire has been added to the cast of Puccini's "Turandot" in the rôle of Liu, which she has sung 100 times in six Italian cities, among them Florence, Verona, Padua, and Venice. The date of the opera, its first presentation in Chicago, is now set for Jan. 10.

Rouge Plays Important Role in Successful Evening Makeup

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It isn't only that you have two distinct and different kind of makeup for day and evening wear, but the makeup artists tell us we must apply the rouge in different locations for day and evening.

For daytime wear the area commonly described as the cheekbone area is the place for your rouge. But for evening, it goes higher on the temples and farther out toward the hairline. This, to give the eye more reflection, so to speak.

A double rôle goes for eye shadow, too. For its application, rather. For day wear it is blended lightly at the lash edge and still more lightly than that on the upper part of the lid. For evening, the lid is more heavily shadowed and the tint may reach right up to the eyebrow.

Whether for day time or evening wear when you apply the rouge, dab it on lightly in little dots. Don't smudge a whole spot at once. The dots are sufficient when blended in. You can always add more color this way. It's a bit messy to have to rub the whole smudge off if you get it on too heavily at first—and you never feel quite so right as when you lay it on in light dots first and blend that in carefully.

They have creamy tinted shadows now that work into the eyelid easily. In fact, the cream rouges are becoming far more popular than the dry. The latter serves best, of course, for daytime repair makeup away from home.

To get your face ready for an evening, after you've given it its good cleansing, put on your foundation cream, then your rouge. The rouge works in beautifully atop the foundation cream and promises to stay put longer.

The three general classifications of faces are oval, round, and long. The oval face calls for rouge applied in a triangular shape at about the middle of the cheek. The round face takes its rouge best close in to the nose, working up fairly high on the cheeks. The long face takes its rouge rather low on the cheek and back toward the ears. The thin, sunken cheeked face should carry no rouge at all.

MINUTE MYSTERY

DEATH ENDS AN ENGAGEMENT.

"It all happened so unexpectedly that I was totally unprepared!" Adam Kraemer replied to Prof. Fordney's question.

Fordney nodded. "Go on."

"As you know," continued broad-shouldered, athletic Kraemer, "Mildred Watson and I were engaged. I went to her apartment last evening to take her to dinner. She was expecting me and the door, which has a very peculiar safety catch, was unlocked, so I walked in. Seeing me, Mildred arose unsteadily to her feet, started toward me, and it was then I noticed an unfamiliar man in the room. Catching sight of me, he drew a gun, shot Mildred, then took a 'pot shot' at me, and ran out the door.

"She sank to the floor on some broken champagne glasses, upset by her fall. I rushed to her, slipped my arms under her, and carried her to the couch. She——"

"You're a lucky man, Kraemer, to——"

"Yes—in one way—only the palms of my hands are cut—when I raised Mildred—whereas I might also have been killed. But—I've lost my fiancée! Before she died I begged her to tell me who the man was that shot her. All she replied was, 'Jack—Jack——'"

Fordney waved his hand for silence. He was thinking. He knew that Mildred Watson lived way beyond her means. She was discovered by the police in her luxurious apartment gowned in an exclusive Poiret evening dress of shimmering satin. She made but $30 a week as a stenographer!

"Then what?" he suddenly demanded.

"Why, I called a doctor and——"

Temper Display Mars Months of Politeness

Sudden Character Change Worries Girl Friend.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

For six months Roy was perfect. His "etiquette," as Gloria tells it, was inspiring. There was no limit to his generosity, consideration, and adoration of her.

But gradually the perfections were dropped. Etiquette, generosity, consideration, all went the way of the snowball in a hot clime. The former Chesterfield got into the car first and Gloria followed. He went out the door first. She tagged after, sometimes with a hand out to prevent the impact of a slammed door. Affections cooled and boring indifference registered in every move and look.

Cutting remarks were passed back and forth. Then quarrels and fights, one with our Lord Chesterfield aiming a right at his love. That convinced Gloria the gentleman had a petulant and venomous nature. So she called it a tie by forswearing another sight of her opponent. Marriage with a slugger was not her idea of something to enter when one could remain away from the ringside.

Time elapsed. A repentant Roy came around with apologies, his old time etiquette, generosity, and consideration. Gloria could not resist the avalanche of charms. Adorable and irresistible, she calls him now, but some inner consciousness inquires, "Can the leopard change his spots?" Would it be the same story over again? And would I marry him were I in her place?

"Not," we answer the last query, "unless we'd taken up boxing ourselves in a big way. Just as a matter of self-defense. Too, we'd do a little inquiring around among his older friends, look into his relations with his family, to determine more about the young man's true character. Even so, we'd still be dubious about tying up with a gent whose better moments are so easily dropped. Six months is a short period compared to the long years of marriage, and we'd like to think a man could survive more than a six months' test of etiquette, consideration, and generosity."

Tuberculosis Institute Tells of Health Lectures

A health service was given 694 industrial concerns during the last year by the Chicago Tuberculosis institute, officials of the institute pointed out yesterday as they urged the purchase of their Christmas seals. Numerous lectures on health matters were given, leading to personal interviews and discovery of physical conditions in need of correction. Those in need of treatment and unable to pay were told where free diagnosis and medical service could be secured.

WEDDINGS

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Grace Glidden of Waverly road, Highland Park, daughter of the late Henry H. Glidden, to Dr. Albert Rufus Sheldon, also of Highland Park, which took place last Friday at the bride's home. The wedding was quite small, and Dr. and Mrs. Sheldon are now at home in Mrs. Sheldon's house. The bride is a sister of Henry Leonard Glidden, who is living in New York this winter, and of Jay S. Glidden of Highland Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. West of Los Angeles announce the marriage of their daughter, Virginia, to Warren Boyd Burkhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Burkhart of 6811 Ridgeland avenue, which took place at noon Tuesday, Dec. 12, at the home of the bridegroom's parents, followed by a reception.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Mrs. Nettie H. Balch to Albert F. Martin, which took place last Thursday in the Sheridan room of the Edgewater Beach hotel. The Rev. Henry Hepburn of the Buena Memorial Presbyterian church officiated. Mrs. Martin was attended by Mrs. Ruth Hess Mason. Mr. Martin's best man was his youngest son, Stanley Martin, of Niles Center.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Jimmy Caras, the 23 year old Wilmington, Del., Greek who has been looked to for great deeds in the current world's pocket billiards tournament at the 131 South Wabash Avenue Recreation room, delivered last night. He caught up to the impetuous Andrew Ponzi of Philadelphia, the hunted one of the long chase. He not only drew up alongside of him, but passed him so fast that he whipped Andrew, 125 to 41, in 19 innings, 19 rapid brackets which left the packed house breathless.

Caras' victory complicated the standings for the first time in the tournament, but doubtless with great satisfaction to himself. It was his sixth triumph of the show and enabled him to tie the elusive Ponzi for first place at six victories and two defeats. Back of the pair is Erwin Rudolph, former world's champion from Cleveland, who has won five matches and lost two. Prior to last night, only the veteran Frank Taberski of Schenectady, N. Y., had been able to conquer Ponzi.

Caras Is Cagy.

Ponzi sought to outwit Caras in the early innings of their duel, but found the young Greek too much for him when the match became a matter of defensive strategy. The confident Philadelphia Italian even went so far as to toss away 16 points in the tenth inning, thereby leaving himself five points in the hole. Caras responded to this with a neat safety in his portion of the inning, leaving himself 31 balls ahead, for he had previously run up a chain of 26.

Both got going in the 15th, Ponzi evacuating the embarrassing position in which he had left himself by running nine to leave himself with four balls. Caras, in his half of the inning, came through with a fancy 18, which came to an end only when he blew the three ball in the right foot pocket, after having gone to the bother of getting out a sandpaper foot pad to get himself set for the shot.

Holds Big Lead.

This still left him with an advantage of 55 to 4 and it appeared Ponzi might as well cease worrying his tie with the nervous knuckles which had already produced six victories. He came up to the 16th inning and before he was done with it he had convinced the customers that he had two of the sharpest eyes in the house, despite the fact that he had lost the sight of one eye at one time. They nearly tore down the stands when he ran a great 36 to trail Caras by only 15 points. This grand achievement came to grief only when he missed the 12 ball in the left foot pocket.

Caras' answer was a string of 17, ending when he missed the five ball on a bridge shot in the right head corner. In the 17th Ponzi attempted to cut the 11 ball into the left foot corner, but failed, the ball hitting both corners. Caras then went from a canter to a gallop with the high run of the night, a 46, which caused Charley Seaback, of Astoria, N. Y., the unluckiest player in the meet, to leave with the comment "It's all over." It wasn't quite, for the 46 came to an abrupt end when Caras missed the ten ball on a full table shot.

Overcomes Stymie.

In the 18th, Ponzi got the six ball for a starter, but then dubbed the seven in the right head pocket. Caras picked up three to lead 121 to 41, and when Andrew laid him an apparent stymie in the 19th, by freezing the cue ball against the head rail, Jimmy made a great full table shot of the 15 ball in the right foot corner. He dusted off three more balls to win, winding up with the ten ball in the left head pocket on another full table effort.

"Beat Ralph Greenleaf," an interesting little pastime pool players in the tournament had rigged up to amuse themselves, came to an end yesterday afternoon.

It was the ambitious Willie Mosconi, 19 year old Philadelphian, making his debut in world tournament billiards this year, who applied the finishing touch to the sleek haired Greenleaf, 125 to 55, in 22 innings. It was Greenleaf's final contest and this morning he will be on his way home to New York with a record of two victories and seven defeats, the most disastrous performance in a career which includes 12 world's championships.

BAILEY, INJURED HOCKEY PLAYER, GROWS WEAKER

Life Depends on Vitality, Surgeon Reports.

BULLETIN.

Boston, Mass., Dec 19. (Tuesday)—(AP)—Irving (Ace) Bailey, Toronto hockey player injured in a recent game here, took a turn for the worse at 1 a. m. today and a doctor was summoned to his bedside.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Irvin [Ace] Bailey, injured Toronto hockey player, tonight started giving way under the strain of his two delicate brain operations and Dr. Donald Munro said his patient's life depended entirely on his superb vitality.

"His local brain condition," the surgeon's latest report said, "is well in hand and is not causing any trouble. But his general condition it not as good as it was. He is definitely weaker.

"He is now beginning to show the effects of the strain he has been under, but I hope the nourishment he is getting by intravenous methods will be sufficient to pull him through the crisis. If he will act favorably to what is being done he will pull through. It is all a matter of his condition and there is little we can do in a medical way.

Hopes to Build Up Strength.

"His blood pressure is normal, his pulse between 90 and 100 and his temperature has dropped to 102 and his respiration to 30. His condition is still very critical and he is being treated with measures to build up his strength."

Dr. Munro said that no blood transfusion was needed. Earlier in the day a New York hockey fan offered to come here at his own expense and donate his blood to aid Bailey, who suffered his dangerous injury in a collision with Eddie Shore of the Boston Bruins in last Tuesday night's game at the Boston garden.

Tonight Charles F. Adams, president of the Bruins, announced that the entire receipts of tomorrow night's game between the Bruins and Montreal Maroons would be turned over to Mrs. Gladys Bailey, wife of the injured player. Adams said that about $10,000 would be realized.

Charge Against Smythe Dropped.

Earlier in the day Connie Smythe, Toronto manager, who has remained close by his injured player since the accident, the most serious professional hockey has suffered in more than 30 years, appeared in police court, where an assault charge against him was dismissed.

This action followed when Leonard Kenworthy of Everett, a spectator at the game, told Judge Wilfred Bolster that he was satisfied that Smythe struck him without intention during a period of great excitement.

DESIGN HEADGEAR

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 18.—(AP)—A headgear for hockey players similar to those worn by football players and one which would prevent such injuries as those suffered by Irvin [Ace] Bailey of the Toronto Maple Leafs, is being designed by Jack Adams, manager of the Detroit Red Wings.

Adams revealed his idea today. He said he and his trainer, Honey Walker, have had the idea for some time and that several prominent Detroit brain specialists have agreed that such a headgear would have averted the injury suffered by Bailey.

"Walker and I are working on a headgear made of hard fiber on the outside and with sufficient padding inside to absorb much of the shock sustained when a player's head collides with the ice or the boards," Adams said.

"Headgears will give the defense more confidence in body checking," remarked John Ross Roach, Red Wing goalie, "and it probably would cause forwards to mix it more willingly with big defense men."

Is Jones Still the Greatest Golfer? Atlanta Meet to Tell

Augusta, Ga., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Has three years' absence from competition taken anything from the golfing mastery of Bobby Jones?

BOBBY JONES.

For the first time since he won the 1930 national amateur at Merion, Bobby comes back into actual competition next March 22-25 in an invitation tournament over the Augusta national course, which he helped design.

This 72 hole medal battle will number among its contestants the best professionals and amateurs of the world. It likely will be the largest collection of stars Jones ever faced in any of his past triumphs.

Can Other Stars Forget Jones?

And this tournament may decide several questions:

Whether the many other aces, able for three years to concentrate on par and their best efforts in competition without worrying over the Jones menace, have forgotten or escaped from the psychological whip Bobby appeared to hold over them in the final years of his campaigning. Whether they can forget he is in the field and can produce the same low scores they have been posting recently.

To all outward appearances Jones is as good as ever. There are no kinks in that swift, easy swing, in the perfect timing of every movement.

But it has been a long time since Bobby was called upon to produce continually his best shots under fire. The other stars will not need a pep talk to train their guns on Jones. They will remember the havoc he caused in his 14 years of battling along the links.

He Can Concentrate.

The answer to Jones' performance may come through the matter of concentration. During his competitive days Jones was known for the absolute concentration he could produce. If the absence from fire hasn't removed this factor, Bobby likely will be as much of a threat as ever.

Bobby now is in the best physical condition of his life. He is some lighter than in 1930. The waistline, much in evidence then, has receded a bit.

He will have the advantage of knowing the course better than his rivals—this stiff battle ground which calls for every shot and tests the skill of players to the limit. Bobby has played here often during the fall and plans to spend most of January and February here.

Whatever the outcome, Bobby's appearance in the field will be one of the features of the 1934 campaign—an event that will cause interest wherever the game is played.

DUNDEE HEADS MIDDLEWEIGHTS IN N. B. A. RATING

Providence, R. I., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Vince Dundee's ascendancy to the top of the middleweight division and the abdication from this class to the light heavyweight group by Lou Brouillard mark the major changes in the latest National Boxing association ratings as announced tonight by President Edward C. Foster of Providence. Foster is also chairman of the Rhode Island commission.

Brouillard headed the middleweight class in the September rankings but since that time he lost the title to Dundee and being unable to make the weight in this class, he has become a light heavyweight. He is rated 10th in this division.

BEAR PLAYERS RECEIVE $210 FOR TITLE GAME

Giants' Share Amounts to $140 Per Man.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

While the fans who saw Sunday's professional championship game were still babbling of the spectacular 23 to 21 victory of the Chicago Bears over their eastern rivals, the New York Giants, the club owners and President Joseph F. Carr of the National league, finished their pencil work and yesterday released the figures of the title game. Receipts, after deduction of federal taxes, were $21,138.52.

From this was subtracted rental for Wrigley field, traveling expenses and so on, leaving $14,606.92 to be divided between the players, the clubs and the league. Each of the 25 men who share in the $5,258.49 that goes to the championship Bears will receive $210.34 while the Giants, who also divided their portion of the receipts in 25 shares, will receive checks for $140.22.

Total receipts [less gov't. tax]	$21,138.52
Park rental, 15%	3,170.77
Game expense, including traveling expense of visiting team and all incidentals	3,360.83
Total net receipts	14,606.92
Player's share [winning club]	5,258.49
Player's share [losing club]	3,505.66
Each club's share	2,191.04
League share	1,460.89
Each Bear player [25 shares]	210.34
Each Giant player [25 shares]	140.22

Giant Squad Disbands.

Universal comment on Sunday's game was that the Giants and Bears staged the greatest offensive battle in modern football. Steve Owen, coach of the losing team, who will be back with the Giants next season, opined that it was a great game to win, but equally as great a game to lose.

"If the game had lasted two minutes more we would have scored again," Owen said. To which one of his friends added: "And if the game had lasted four minutes the Bears would have got another touchdown."

The Giants disbanded for the season yesterday, but the Bears will meet Thursday morning at Wrigley field to prepare for a game next Sunday with the Gunnars of St. Louis. The Green Bay Packers, who finished their season at St. Louis last Sunday, beat St. Louis, 21 to 0. Buck ts Goldenburg, Packer full back, who arrived in Chicago yesterday to wrestle for Doc Krone at the Arcadia, paid tribute to St. Louis as worthy of a place in the National league.

League May Expand.

"The Packers were pushed back to their 20 yard line in the opening quarter and I thought the 16,000 fans at the game were all coming right down to the field. We got our touchdowns on two successful rushes and one pass."

While the club owners of the National league will not make known their plans for 1934 until the summer meeting of the league in New York June 30 and July 1, they probably will make several changes in the code of rules, and it is possible that the league will be increased to 12 teams. It numbers 10 members now.

Another current report is that the Green Bay Packers may move to Milwaukee next fall, and if the change is not made then it certainly will be made in 1935.

FRIEDMAN QUITS PRO RANKS; MAY COACH C. C. N. Y.

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Benny Friedman, professional football star, announced today his playing days are over. He plans to return to coaching, in which he gained some experience as an assistant at Yale in 1932.

Simultaneously with the announcement that the former Michigan star had retired came the admission from Dr. Frederick B. Robinson, president of City college of New York, and Prof. Frederick Woll, chairman of the faculty athletic committee, that "Friedman had been mentioned prominently" for the position held now by Dr. Harold J. Parker.

Friedman's announcement of his retirement comes after seven years as player, coach and manager with Cleveland, Detroit, New York, and Brooklyn in pro football, and as guest coach at Yale. Last year he was player manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers. During the present season he played quarter back of the Brooklyn eleven.

In the Wake of the News

CRISLER AT PRINCETON.

YALE'S unofficial flirtation, now ended, with Coach Harry Kipke of Michigan's conference champions probably was inspired by the success at Princeton of H. O. [Fritz] Crisler, former Big Ten athlete and coach.

Princeton is the only major eleven in the country which has not been defeated or tied. Its schedule did not present the difficulties of some other teams, perhaps, but it was a representative Nassau chart. To have come clean satisfied its undergraduates and alumni and brought plenty of fame to the former University of Chicago player who tutored its eleven.

Princeton's policy did not permit this eleven to visit the Pacific coast for the Rose Bowl game, an honor which went to Columbia, which the Tigers had first beaten, 20 to 0, in Columbia's only defeat.

Princeton partisans are not claiming the national championship, a mythical honor at best. Undoubtedly they would be willing to pit their Tigers against all comers, but that's not on the cards. Football critics, who go in for that sort of thing, think there are elevens which could take the Tigers, although they rate Princeton in the top flight. Since there is no means of determining such opinion, Princeton men are willing that the record speak for itself.

Crisler and an unusually capable bunch of sophomores are given credit for the Tiger success. Our view would be that with these sophomores, but without Crisler, Princeton would have been better than in the past, but not so much better. Likewise, with Crisler and without the sophomores, Princeton would have been better. The combination was unbeatable.

The Wake always has been a warm admirer of Crisler from his playing days on the Midway, where he was a nine letter "C" man in football, basketball, and baseball. As a coach, he developed into a man who commanded the respect of his players and obtained their best efforts. Quiet spoken, but firm, he had the knack of getting on with boys. This quality, no doubt, was recognized at Princeton, where Dr. J. E. Raycroft, one time assistant to Stagg in physical education, perhaps expressed a favorable opinion. Dr. Raycroft is highly regarded there for his constructive work in athletics as physical recreation.

FRITZ CRISLER.

Crisler was a great football end at the Midway. It was generally conceded that his assistance to Chuck McGuire in coping with Tackle Stan Keck, then All-American, in the Chicago surprise 9 to 0 victory over Princeton on its home gridiron in 1921, resulted in McGuire's gaining All-American honor at tackle that year. While never confirmed by Crisler, the story was told that there was considerable talking back and forth in the line that day, in which Keck participated. Crisler is said to have retorted, "Say you, fellow, over there, quit talking and play football or they will take you out and put Keck in."

After graduation Crisler acted as assistant to Stagg. On the "Old Man's" advice, he declined an offer to become head coach at Minnesota at the time Dr. Spears, now at Wisconsin, took the job. He was regarded on the Midway as Stagg's heir apparent. But Stagg showed no disposition to retire. By his nature he was the whole coaching system. He did not delegate much authority to his assistants.

So when another offer came from Minnesota in 1930 with the retirement of Doc Spears to go to Oregon, Crisler accepted, feeling he would have greater opportunity to develop his ideas, particularly on offense. He went into a troubled spot because many Gopher alumni wished a former player, Bierman, now there, or Shaughnessy, now at Chicago, for the job.

In his likeable way, Crisler soon earned the respect and good will of undergraduates and the downtown alumni coaches. His 1930 eleven, somewhat weak in material, held to a scoreless tie a strong and better Stanford eleven, defeated Indiana, and lost to Northwestern, Michigan and Wisconsin.

In 1931 Minnesota downed Iowa, Wisconsin, and Ohio State, lost to Michigan by one touchdown, and lost to Northwestern in that sensational 32 to 14 contest, which Pug Rentner pulled out of the fire after the Gophers had a 14 to 0 lead. Poor generalship was costly to the Gophers.

Crisler was still in good standing with students and alumni, but slight friction had developed somewhere in the administrative scheme of things. At any rate, he listened to and accepted an offer at a large increase in salary to become head coach at Princeton.

Last year, his first in his new post, Crisler's eleven lost to Columbia, surprised Michigan by playing a 14 to 7 game which the Tigers might have won, had scoreless ties with Cornell and Navy, beat Williams and Lehigh by big counts, and held Yale to a 7 to 7 tie in the climax of the season.

That was the start toward this year's record of Princeton, 40; Amherst, 0.

Princeton, 45; Williams, 0.
Princeton, 20; Columbia, 0.
Princeton, 6; Washington and Lee, 0.
Princeton, 33; Brown, 0.
Princeton, 7; Dartmouth, 0.
Princeton, 13; Navy, 0.
Princeton, 26; Rutgers, 0.
Princeton, 27; Yale, 2.

After a hiatus of years, Harvard is back on the Nassau schedule next fall, so Princeton's eleven will meet both Yale and Harvard.

We can pay no higher compliment to Fritz Crisler than to say that if we had a son playing football, the present Princeton coach is the type of man from whom we'd like the boy to receive gridiron instruction.

COLUMBIA ENDS DRILL AT HOME FOR COAST GAME

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Columbia's football team went outdoors today for its final drill here in preparation for its New Year's day game with Stanford at Pasadena.

Held indoors by inclement weather for some days, the team went to Baker field largely because Head Coach Lou Little wanted Capt. Cliff Montgomery, Tom Tomb, and Newell Wilder to practice kicking. Montgomery and Tomb did the bulk of the punting, while Wilder practiced drop-kicking and placements.

The workout consisted of a short drill in fundamentals, signal drill for the first and second teams.

The first-string lineup remained unchanged except that Wilder and Al Ciampa alternated at center where Wilder previously had been used exclusively. Ciampa and the first and second string full backs, Bill Nevel and Frank Chippendale, were nursing minor injuries, but all three were expected to be in condition New Year's day.

The squad of 30 players, five coaches, two trainers, and the team manager will leave for the west tomorrow afternoon at 3:40 o'clock.

Delay Action on Cutting Prize in Kentucky Derby

Share values of the stock in the American Turf association were reduced from $25 to $12.50 at a meeting of the stockholders held at the Illinois Turf association offices in Chicago yesterday.

Col. Matt J. Winn, president of the association, said the reduction was made to conform with the present values of the properties owned by the association. These properties include the Lincoln Fields and Washington Park race tracks in Chicago, the Churchill Downs track, home of the Kentucky Derby in Louisville, and the Latonia and Lexington tracks, which are also located in Kentucky.

The annual meeting of the association is not to be held until April.

While reports have come out of Kentucky lately that the value of the Kentucky Derby will be cut from $50,000 to $25,000 for the renewal next May, Col. Winn said yesterday no such action had been taken.

"We eventually may have to cut the value of the Derby prize," Winn said.

HARNESS HORSE DEVOTEES BACK SUMMER MEET

Driving Club Likely to Be Formed.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Most of the horsemen in town gathered in the International amphitheatre at the Union Stock Yards yesterday for the 100th anniversary Chicago horse auction. Trotters, runners and saddle horses went under the hammer.

There were rumblings, with quite a bit of authority behind them, of a revival of matinee trots and paces here next season. The organization of a gentlemen's driving club which will include some of our best known horse lovers was taking form.

Names heard in connection with the new driving club included those of George B. Dryden, Henry W. Knight, Thomas B. Hogan, Edward J. Baker of St. Charles, C. J. Smith, Frank Fuller and Robert W. McElvain.

Talk Grand Circuit Meeting.

These events, which will find the gentlemen drivers at the reins when their own steeds perform, will be conducted on Saturday afternoons and on holidays. The club may sandwich in a Grand Circuit trotting meeting in midsummer. It will open up a new field in which a good trotter or pacer may earn his oats. Application for Grand Circuit dates likely will be filed as soon as the club is organized.

The leaders among the trotting horse people have been flirting with Chicago as fertile trotting horse territory for a good many seasons. As a result the auction ring was crowded with more people than have visited it for a good many years. The bidding was quite brisk, yet the prices as a rule were very low, because, so the sales people claimed, only very ordinary stock was offered. A couple of young trotters brought slightly more than $300. Others were selling all the way from $30 to $100.

Many famous horses have been sold in this ring. The one that lingers longest in the memory of the old timers was the sale of Dick Welles. This unknown colt was auctioned off more than a score of years ago for $250. The buyer was Hosea Sells of Chicago. A little later on Dick Welles became one of the most famous horses in the country.

A Young Fellow Buys.

The desire to stick out one's chest and say to a friend, "that's my horse; what do you think of him?" got the better of one buyer.

This particular animal—he was a yearling from the famous Lakeland Stock farm at Union City, Mich.—didn't hold much charm for anybody in the big crowd but this one young Chicagoan. Somebody forced him to bid $41 for the nag. Another fellow said "forty-two dollars." Another fellow hoisted it to $43.

And There He Goes!

Auctioneer Frank Gross pleaded for another bid. "This colt may be the champion of the world in a couple of more years," he warned the crowd surrounding the sales ring.

Yet it was the last bid, and finally the auctioneer hammered and shouted "one-two-three and sold to the gentleman over there for $44."

The young man stepped proudly forward to pay for his new horse. He brought out all the money he had in his pockets. He counted it again and again, and so did W. O. Ireland, secretary-treasurer of the sale.

"There's only $41 here, young man, and you bought the horse for $44," said Ireland.

The transaction was about to become a tragedy when a tall fellow stepped up—it looked like Tom Hogan of the Yellow Cab company—there was a conference over in a shaded corner, and the young man soon came back with three more dollars and lead his horse away.

Losing Owners Sell Out.

A little more of the up and down romance of racing came beneath the glare of the bright lights in the big international theater early in the evening. Traps and racing rigging of all descriptions—sulky carts, blankets, saddles, bridles, lanterns and harness were hauled out into the arena to go to the highest bidder.

Auctioneer Gross sounded the keynote. "This paraphernalia must be sold at once for whatever it will bring," he said. "The horses that were equipped with it last season were not able to win. The folks who owned them won't have much of a Merry Christmas unless there is a buyer in this audience."

The sales will continue today and tonight. The buyers will unbuckle their bank rolls at today's session, when better racing prospects will be offered.

OUTLINE RACE SCHEDULE.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The schedule for next summer's Grand circuit racing was tentatively outlined here today at a meeting of representatives of the Trotting Horse club.

There was no indication of definite dates, but George H. Tipling, general manager of the North Randall track in suburban Cleveland, said the trotters and pacers probably will be here from June 30 to July 7.

Officials of the Trotting Horse club at the meeting were W. H. Crane of Hackensack, N. J.; Henry W. Knight of Chicago, and J. J. Mooney of Detroit.

CLOSE OF DUCK SEASON HARD ON SONGBIRDS

They Thrive on Corn Put Out for Game.

BY BOB BECKER.

The chickadees, nuthatches, titmice, red headed woodpeckers and the downy woodpeckers must be sorry to see the Illinois duck season come to a close. At first thought one would hardly associate these birds with the hunting of mallards along the Sangamon and Illinois rivers. However, these species have a swell time eating and storing some of the corn which is put out for the mallards. When the corn counters for the ducks have closed, the song birds' feast will be over.

On the last day of the 1933 waterfowl season when we were hunting with Norwood Bard of Highland Park, Ill., and Brownie, an excellent Chesapeake Bay retriever, we had a good chance to observe the picnic which the chickadees, titmice and woodpeckers have hammering on kernels of corn. Our blind which served as an observation post was a snug and well placed hideout on the bank of the old Sangamon river.

A Perfect Blind.

It was just about one gunshot from our blind to the opposite bank. In this old cut the water varied from six inches to several feet deep. Behind us and over us towered giant willows, ash trees and other heavy timber. Our blind was constructed of branches and vines, so it fitted into this forest background.

In this heavy timber the song birds are numerous. We could see cardinals and also hear them all around us. But of all the birdlife in the thick timber the nuthatches, titmice, and chickadees came the closest to us and hunted the most determinedly for a few kernels of corn. At one time during the afternoon of the last shooting day of the 1933 season we reclined in our blind and watched three nuthatches squabbling about territorial rights on a big willow tree which rose right at our elbow.

Each of these "up-side-down" birds had one kernel of corn in its bill and you should have heard the names they called each other until the fight was ended! One of the birds was not more than five feet from our head during the rumpus.

Get a Drake.

During one of these squabbles we heard a couple of our call ducks start to broadcast and Brownie the Chesapeake whined softly. There was a reason. A mallard drake had dropped out of sky and was almost ready to swing to the decoys. We dropped this fellow and Brownie retrieved him. Two minutes later the nuthatches and the titmice [the latter are so perky and so handsome with their crests] were back on the "breadline" as if nothing had happened.

Chickadees sometimes lighted on our blind and sat there to hammer away on a kernel of corn as long as we didn't move. Brownie, the Chesapeake, didn't care much for these song bird visitors. He would much rather see a bunch of mallards come out of the sky, watch them circle, hear the boom of our gun and then rush into the river to retrieve a bird.

150 REPORT FOR HOCKEY PRACTICE IN C. Y. O. LEAGUE

One hundred and fifty players answered the first call for recruits in the Catholic Youth Organization Hockey league when the first practice session was held at the Coliseum last night. Practice will be held every day at the Coliseum in an effort to perfect the play of the C. Y. O. teams before the opening of the newly-formed league Jan. 8.

Emil Iverson, president of the Chicago Amateur Hockey association, gave the C. Y. O. players a chalk talk on the fundamentals of the game to open the session. The players will be coached by members of the Coliseum staff.

It was decided to throw competition for places on the C. Y. O. team open which will give boys from all parishes in the archdiocese a chance to play on one of the six teams which will make up the league. Iverson, formerly hockey coach at the University of Minnesota, was impressed with the first workout of the C. Y. O. puck chasers and expressed the opinion that the league would produce some of the best amateur players in the country.

ILLINOIS SKATING ASSOCIATION TO MEET TONIGHT

Harry Berz, president of the Illinois Western Skating association, has called a meeting of the board of control and executive committee of the association for tonight at the Morrison hotel. The purpose of the meeting is to complete plans for the coming season.

The first meet is scheduled for Dec. 27 at the Coliseum, and the outdoor season opening is set for Dec. 31. This year, there is expected to be a wild scramble to sign up skaters who can get an occasional second or third place, and score points that will give their clubs a chance to win the perpetual trophy that will be presented to the association at the Coliseum, by Al J. Horan, chief bailiff of the Municipal court.

LEADERS CLASH SUNDAY IN TWO K. OF C. SECTIONS

Two of the most important games of the season will be played Sunday in the Knights of Columbus league, when leading quintets in the south and west sections clash. No games are scheduled in the south end division. The feature at the west side clubhouse will bring together Damen and St. Cyr, who played for the league title last season. Englewood and Perez top the card at White City. The schedules:

WESTROPE RIDES 297TH WINNER AT EPSOM DOWNS

Houston, Tex., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Jack Westrope, the country's leading jockey from Baker, Mont., today advanced one winner nearer his goal of 300 victories for 1933 as he scored with J. A. Best's Gallop Along at Epsom Downs. It was his 297th winning ride of the season.

The victory, his first since Friday, boosted Westrope's total for the meeting, which opened Thanksgiving day, to 32. Well backed at $8.60 for $2, the little apprentice brought the son of Wrack home in front of a large field, sending the 4 year old colt over the one and one-sixteenth miles in 1:54. Westrope also was second with Isostasy in the sixth event.

Sonnenberg to Meet Smith on Mat Tonight

Sonnenberg will meet Jack Smith of Chicago and Goldenberg will grapple with Joe Wolf.

Sonnenberg, who left Dartmouth after a brilliant football career seven years ago, is in the midst of a comeback after he seemingly was floored for keeps by a one-two punch—a Reno decree by his wife and a pessimistic report of a doctor who told him he had only "six months to live."

Forgets His Troubles.

But now Gus has put his marital troubles out of his mind and his health has returned.

Smith is taking grips with the toughest opponent he has met in his short career and, because of Sonnenberg's high rating, it would appear that Jack's string of eighteen straight victories is about to be broken.

This is the longest victory string any grappler has compiled in Chicago in the last three years. Smith has no special hold. Gus spends most of the evening trying to plant his head in his opponent's stomach by bullet-like rushes. They will go one fall, with an hour and a half time limit, as per Illinois athletic commission rules.

Makes First Appearance.

Goldenberg is appearing in Chicago for the first time as a wrestler, though Wrigley field grid fans know him as a smashing full back. Goldie, like Sonnie, also depends a lot on the flying tackle.

Three supporting matches are billed for one fall, with a 20 minute stop sign. George Mack of Chicago goes against Ole Oleson, a tough Swedish heavyweight; Thomas Stockholm, protégé of Charlie Cutler, old time grappler, meets Dr. Stan Lurik, the northwest side Polish pharmacist, and Serg. Zack Malkov of the Rogers Park police challenges Gus Clem, veteran light heavyweight.

Tonight's card:

Gus Sonnenberg, former world's champion, vs. Jack Smith, Chicago, one fall, hour and a half time limit.

Ole Oleson vs. George Mack.

Thomas Stockholm vs. Dr. Stan Lurik.

N. R. Herlihy Files Entry for Dec. 31.

N. R. Herlihy Jr. has the honor of being the first boy to enter the third annual ski meet which will be sponsored a week from Sunday at Riis park by THE TRIBUNE. Young Herlihy got his entry blank in the first mail after reading the announcement of the tournament in SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE. He will compete in the age class for boys 15 and 16 and he will represent the Forest Preserve Ski club, which has entered a team in all other ski tournaments.

"The Riis park slide will be ready for the tournament Dec. 31," Frank Kalteux, northwest park district commissioner, said yesterday. "Necessary repairs will be made immediately and while the slide will not be made any longer, it will afford jumps of 40 to 50 feet, which is about the right distance for amateur skiers.

Deadline Is Dec. 27.

"Of course, we need snow, but if Chicago doesn't have a snowfall by New Year's the meet will be held on the first Sunday when there is snow," Kalteux added.

It is more important that all boys in Chicago and vicinity remember that even if the meet is postponed, only those who send in their names before midnight, Dec. 27—the deadline—will be permitted to compete.

There are no restrictions on competition except that former champions cannot enter in the same age class in which they previously won gold medals.

Standard Scoring Rules.

The usual method of scoring will be followed. Points will be awarded by the judges on form. The jumps also will be measured of determining points for distance. The two sets of figures then are used to determine the final standing for each contestant. Each boy must make two official jumps.

The age classes include all from the lowest for boys 12 years of age and under to the senior class for boys 17 years of age and over. Clip the entry blank which appears in THE TRIBUNE daily and mail it to the ski editor, sports department, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Team entries may be made by the manager, coach, or captain of the squads.

TRIBUNE SKI TOURNAMENT

Please enter me in THE TRIBUNE'S third annual ski tournament for boys at Riis park, Fullerton and Meade avenues, Sunday, Dec. 31. Print name plainly in pencil. Check age division. Mail entry to Ski Editor, Sports department, Chicago Tribune.

Entries close at midnight Dec. 27.

☐ 13 and 14 years of age.

Ex-Golden Gloves Champs Meet at Marigold.

Johnny Phagan won an eight round decision over Henry Rothier at Marigold Gardens last night in a duel of former Golden Gloves welterweight champions. Phagan held the Golden Gloves title in 1932 and Rothier this year.

The season's best crowd at Marigold turned out to see the bout, 1,200 customers paying $779, according to Illinois Athletic commission figures.

Phagan did most of the forcing and scored points with a left to the face and left hook to the head. Rothier's left hook to the body, one of his most effective weapons, failed to click except in the first and last rounds. Phagan weighed 151 pounds and Rothier 149¾.

Johnny Fitzgerald beat Joey Bozak in the five round semi-windup. They are featherweights. Other results:

Chuck Reed beat Fred Miller [4].
Young Scotty and Johnny Matthews, no contest [2].
Jackie Osborne stopped Toye McLemore [2].

Varias Milling, Filipino featherweight, and Johnny Mitchell of Detroit, Mich., have been matched for six rounds on the Champion Freddy Miller-Sammy Levine card at Arcadia Gardens tomorrow. This forces Curtis Brown of Milwaukee, Wis., off the bill. Milling trained yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium.

The encounter will be Milling's first Chicago appearance since he lost a 15 round decision to Johnny Pena at Mills stadium June 14. His luck has been up and down since. He lost an eight rounder to Pete De Grasse at New York Nov. 2 and then he knocked out Eddie Burl in three rounds at Alexandria, Va., Nov. 14. In his latest he whipped Charley von Reedon at Alexandria, Dec. 13.

Miller and Levine finished boxing yesterday for their 10 round non-title bout, the champion sparring three rounds with Jimmy Ellopoulos and Levine going three with Carl Scalise. Miller expects to weigh 125¾ for the match, which is set over the feather weight limit. Levine may be at 126½ pounds. Other bouts:

Tex Dracy vs. Frank Keevil [4].
Laddie Tonelli vs. Johnny Terry [6].
Gene Salvatore vs. George Engel [5].
Jack King vs. Duane Maddux [4].

The Illinois athletic commission yesterday approved five supporting bouts to the King Levinsky-Don McCorkindale ten round contest at the Chicago Stadium Dec. 29. The eight round semi-final will match Tony Cancela, heavyweight stablemate of Levinsky with Patsy Perroni. Jack Pettifer, or Stanley Poreda. Matchmaker Nate Lewis indicated that Perroni will oppose Cancela. Other matches:

Karl Ogren vs. Young Stribley [6], 160.
Frank Siglia vs. Steve Paido [6], 135.
John Pacek vs. Frank Ketler [4], heavyweights.
Adolph Wiater vs. Bob Stone [4], heavyweights.

McCorkindale boxed here for the first time yesterday. He went two rounds each with Tom Jones and Jack Robinson, local heavyweights. He displayed a standup, aggressive style, with a tantalizing straight left to the face. His main weaknesses were pointed out by several critics as the low position he holds his guard and apparent inability to step inside of swings instead of stepping away from them. His trainer, Dick O'Connor of Newark, N. J., said that boxing and judgment of distance will improve after a few days. He contends that McCorkindale's ability to keep an opponent off balance offsets weak spots.

Varias Milling is paired with Paul Dazzo for eight rounds in a semi-final to the featherweight championship encounter between Champion Freddy Miller and Jackie Sharkey at Cincinnati, O., New Year's afternoon. It will be their second meeting. Last February Milling won on a technical knockout over Paul at Washington boulevard arena.

Barney Ross, lightweight and junior welterweight champion, is scheduled to resume workouts Saturday for a 10 round nontitle bout with Billy Petrolle at New York Jan. 10. . . . Harry Dublinsky will be idle for 10 days because of a cut over his eye sustained during a gymnasium drill. . . . A show is being arranged for Dec. 27 at Arcadia Gardens.

The state boxing commission yesterday upheld Paul Stangar's management contract with Henry Rothier, local welterweight. The commission, which had requested Stangar's appearance for a hearing at the instance of Rothier on charges of violation of contract, held that the manager had not violated their agreement. The contract does not expire until Aug. 14, 1934, when Rothier will be 21 years old.

King Levinsky's claim to the heavyweight championship of America has been sanctioned by the Illinois athletic commission. . . . The commission will not hold a meeting next Monday because of Christmas. . . . Nick Taft, local light heavyweight, has resumed drills after a lay off of several months. . . . Kid Leonard, East Moline, Ill., middleweight, has accepted a match with Solly Dukelsky at Cicero stadium Jan. 1. . . . There will be no show at Marigold Gardens next Monday. The next card there will be New Year's day.

Leo Rodak, south side featherweight, hung up his 12th victory in the pro ranks last night when he decisively beat Artie Mitchell in the six round windup of Johnny Coulon's show at White City.

Eddie Chinski beat Art Donovan [4].
Al Schirado beat Eddie Smith [4].
George Haberski beat Sammy Wallace [4].
Lee Timbles threw Kid Van Herrick, 10:40 [wrestling].

Leave for Los Angeles Dec. 28; arrive at Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 31 for Rose Bowl football game between Columbia and Stanford on Jan. 1; leave Los Angeles Jan. 5 for San Francisco; receive civic welcome at San Francisco Jan. 6 and then go into strenuous training for intersectional bouts there with combined Los Angeles-San [illegible] team Jan. 12, spend Jan. 13 [illegible] Pacific coast fleet; leave for [illegible] Jan. 14.

GOLFERS GATHER IN CALIFORNIA TO SEEK RICH PRIZES

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Promise of the greatest array of golfers in the history of the California's money tournaments was given today as the country's leading professionals continued to arrive for the winter season, which will get under way at Pasadena Thursday.

It was an optimistic array of mashie and putter performers that crowded Southern California's locker rooms and courses in order to get in a few practice rounds before the $4,000 Pasadena event opens.

$26,500 In Prizes.

While the $26,500 in prize money for the seven tournaments is less than half of the stake in the golden era of 1930, it is more than $5,000 larger than last season.

Denny Shute, British open champion, is due tomorrow. Ralph Guldahl, runner up to Johnny Goodman, the amateur, in the national open tournament, is en route. Gene Sarazen, National P. G. A. champion, is expected in time for the Agua Caliente open and perhaps before.

Walter Hagen, the veteran showman of the links, also is California bound; Craig Wood, leading money winner of the 1933 season, is on hand. Leo Diegel, former National P. G. A. champion has been on the scene for several months, collecting a few titles hereabouts such as the Southern California and California open championships.

Runyan to Compete.

Paul Runyan, winner of the big stake last year, the Agua Caliente open, is here. Then there are the Spaniards, who got their start in California, Olin Dutra, former national P. G. A. champion; his brother, Mortie, and the Espinosas, Al and Abe.

The golden trail, which starts Thursday at Pasadena, does not leave California until the second week in February. The schedules follow:

Dec. 21-24—Pasadena $4,000 open.
Dec. 29-31—Santa Monica $2,000 amateur-pro.
Jan. 6-8—Los Angeles $5,000 open.
Jan. 11-15—San Francisco $4,000 match play.
Jan. 21-22—Long Beach $1,000 medal play one day; $1,000 east-west matches second day.
Jan. 26-28—Riverside $2,000 amateur-pro.
Feb. 1-4—Agua Caliente $7,500 open.

NEW FOOTBALL RUMOR: HAMILTON WILL COACH NAVY

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Tom Hamilton, stationed at San Diego aboard the U. S. S. Saratoga, may become coach at the United States Naval academy either next year or in 1935, it was rumored here today.

Coach Bill Ingram of the University of California, former navy coach, said he had heard Hamilton was in line for the position.

"Rip" Miller is the present navy coach.

Hamilton, former back field star at Annapolis, made a good record as player-coach last year of the west coast navy service eleven. A naval service team was not organized this year.

NAVY HEADS SILENT.

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 18.—(AP)—United States Naval academy authorities declined to make any comment tonight on the report that Lieut. Thomas James Hamilton may come here as coach of football.

While the talk in well informed circles differed as to the probability of Hamilton becoming football coach, there was no indications that Edgar E. [Rip] Miller, the present coach, would leave.

Lieut. Com. H. E. Overesch, director of football, tonight said the academy athletic council has not met and no appointments have been considered. The council will meet the first of the year.

BUTLER SCORES 35 TO 24 TRIUMPH OVER PITTSBURGH

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Butler university defeated the University of Pittsburgh, 35 to 24 in basketball here tonight. Butler led at the half, 23-9. Pittsburgh came back with a rush and scored 10 points while Butler was getting only two. Pitt's rough play then became costly and Butler increased its advantage. Score:

Spectator Claims Injury; Sues Cubs for $50,000

Suit for $50,000 was filed in the Superior court yesterday against the Chicago National league ball club by Harry Rosensweig, 756 Junior terrace, a real estate broker, for injuries he incurred last season when he was struck by a foul ball while he was sitting in the grandstand. Attorney Murphy O. Tate, who filed the suit, said Rosensweig's right arm was broken near the wrist when a ball off the bat of Woody English, Cub third baseman, came into the box during a double header game between the Cubs and Boston last May 28.

Mac Smith Ranks Golfers of Old with Today's Stars

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Taciturn MacDonald Smith, one of golf's greatest competitive players and a tournament figure for 25 years, believes that golfers in the days that were compared favorably with modern stars.

"The golfers of 25 and 30 years ago," he recalled, "were every bit as good as the golfers of today and the golf clubs, hand fashioned by the old master, were better than the finest of the clubs you can purchase today, but what a difference I've seen in the golf courses. There is the change for you."

He remarked particularly about greens, saying that in the old days if a player could get down in two putts from 15 feet he was doing well. "Just think that over, remembering that our best courses measured around 6,800 yards, in length and it usually took a 72 hole score of 295 or 296 to win," he said.

Mac looked at his bagful of clubs, 16 of them. "In the old days at Carnoustie," he said, "I was shooting in the low 70s with three clubs, a wood, a cleek and midiron." He putted with the cleek and said he could left a midiron shot as well as he could play a niblick today.

"I would like to see our players of today put backspin on a driving mashie shot and yet Harry Vardon, James Braid and Freddy Tait could do it every time," he said.

He would be content today to use the old clubs, "but don't make me use the old golf ball we used to play."

"That was a problem," he said. "I don't see how we lofted them the way we did. They seemed to weigh a ton and they ducked and twisted in the air to break your heart—and yet we were in the low 70s over golf courses just as difficult as are the courses we play today."

Chicago Beats Milwaukee at Box Lacrosse

The lacrosse fiends were at it again last night in the chicken wire confines of the Arcadia Gardens, and after the smoke had cleared away it was seen that the rubber legged Pabst Blue Ribbons of Chicago had made more goals than the battered young men from Milwaukee, thus netting them the game. The final score, in an overtime period was, Chicago, 14; Milwaukee, 13.

There was less blood and thunder in this, Chicago's second lacrosse game, than there was in the first last week. Bain, Chicago forward, who took it on the chin from Buffalo's reservation Indians, Friday, tried to take it on the head last night. Near the end of the first quarter he took a beautiful dive, by reason of a Milwaukee crosse being inserted between his long, thin legs, and he sailed into the sideboards as though he intended to make a short cut to the box office to collect his pay.

Bain Ties Score.

He changed his mind when the boards held, scrambled back on to those long, thin legs, and took a pretty pass to tie the score at four all in the closing minutes of the first period.

During the second period Milwaukee piled up a score of nothing. The boys representing the city made famous by beer ran four or five miles, slid perhaps two, and toted and tossed the ball almost eight miles, but didn't collect a single point.

Milwaukee Evens Count.

Bain, with the bandages flapping on his chin, made three goals all by himself in the third period.

In the fourth period, Milwaukee made seven goals to tie the score at 13 to 13. Then, in overtime, Bain scored the winning goal, his sixth of the evening. Scoring:

Chicago—Bain, 6; Barron, 2; Baldwin, 2; White, 2; Plummer, 2. Milwaukee—Davidson, 5; Oster, 2; O'Regan, 2; Wallace, Clarke, Bradley, Atkinson.

O'CONNOR STOPS KLEIN IN PREP CATHOLIC BOUT

Fourteen Catholic parishes were represented in 13 intramural bouts held at the St. Michael auditorium, 1628 Hudson avenue, last night under the direction of Brother Henry, athletic director of St. Michael's High school. The bouts were all of three rounds. Last night's contests, with the exception of the 147 pound class, were won on decisions. In this one class O'Connor of St. Michael stopped Klein of St. Michael by a technical knockout in thirty seconds. Results:

118 POUND CLASS—Karl [St. Clements] beat De Mirza [St. Vincent] [3].

135 POUND CLASS—Schmitz [St. Gregory] beat Bauknlder [Lady of Mercy] [3].

147 POUND CLASS—O'Connor [St. Michael] stopped Klein [St. Michael] [1].

160 POUND CLASS—O'Brien [Immaculate Conception] beat Kempf [St. Michael] [3].

HAWKS HIT ROAD FOR FOUR GAMES WITHOUT COULTER

The Chicago Blackhawks left yesterday for a road trip of four games in Canada and the eastern seaboard. The team will meet the Ottawa Senators tonight and the Montreal Maroons Thursday night. They will then go to Boston for a game with the Bruins Saturday and to New York to meet the Americans Tuesday.

While the Hawks are away on this jaunt, the longest they have undertaken to date, their closest rivals for the league leadership, the Detroit Red Wings, who are a half game in front, will be battling the Americans at New York, the Canadiens at Montreal, and Ottawa at Detroit.

Coulter Left Behind.

Anything is likely to happen in the next ten days in the United States division as only three points separate the Detroit team and the Boston Bruins, who are third in the division.

With the exception of Art Coulter, who was left at home to recuperate from a knee injury, the Hawks left in better shape than on any of their first three trips. Duke Dutkowski, loaned to the Hawks by the New York Americans, has the experience and stamina necessary to fortify the defense position left vacant by Coulter.

Ottawa Loses Howe.

The Blackhawks have met the Ottawa team twice this season and defeated them both times by 2 to 1 scores.

The Ottawa team will be without the services of its center, Syd Howe, who sustained a severe shoulder injury in last Thursday's game at Ottawa with the Rangers. He will be out for at least two weeks.

ROCHE LEADS SCORERS

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Earl Roche, Ottawa left wing, retained his National Hockey league scoring lead last week, according to official statistics released tonight.

Roche has 13 points on 7 goals and 6 assists, but is closely followed by three marksmen, each with 11 points. They are Charlie Conacher of Toronto, and Aurel Joliat of Canadiens in his own division and Marty Barry of Boston, American section leader. Barry has scored more goals than any other player in the league, finally wresting that honor from Johnny Sorrell of Detroit.

He has nine scores, two last week placing him ahead of Sorrell. Sorrell, his teammate Larry Aurie, Nels Stewart of Boston, and Joe Primeau of Toronto Leafs, are tied for third place in scoring, each with 10 points.

Red Horner of Toronto has now served 67 minutes in penalties, leading the league by a wide margin. Lionel Conacher of the Blackhawks is next with 34 minutes.

REPORT CLARK WILL QUIT PROS FOR COLLEGE JOB

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—It was reported tonight that George [Potsy] Clark may not return as coach of the Portsmouth, O., Spartans professional football team next season. Clark has not returned to his home here from Charlotte, N. C., where the Spartans played Sunday.

He is known to have been approached by a Yale alumni group regarding proposed changes in the football coaching staff at Yale university, and now that Clarence [Doc] Spears has declined to return to Dartmouth college Spears is said to be backing Clark as Dartmouth head coach.

Spears and Clark were coaching colleagues at the University of Minnesota. Clark then came here as athletic director of Butler university before entering the pro game three years ago. He was a star quarter back at the University of Illinois, was captain of the A. E. F. championship wartime eleven, and then coached at Michigan State and the University of Kansas.

NORTH CENTRAL IS DEFEATED BY DE PAUL, 33-24

The De Paul university basketball team defeated North Central, 33 to 24, last night on the De Paul floor. The home team held the upper hand throughout the game, leading at the half, 22 to 12. Weston, at center, and Adams at guard proved most effective in the De Paul attack, the former making three baskets and four free throws, and the latter three baskets. Lineups:

Harry Pollok Funeral to Be Held Tomorrow

San Diego, Cal., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Funeral services for Harry Pollok, sports promoter who committed suicide at his home here Sunday, will be held at 11 a. m. Wednesday. The body will be cremated. No inquest will be held the coroner announced, in light of clear indications that Pollok shot himself in the head.

Why Mack Sold Stars—He Couldn't Afford to Pay 'Em

CONNIE MACK.

Unburdening his mind for the first time, the veteran manager of the Athletics insisted that published reports that he was "forced to sell by the bankers," were untrue.

"I wish you would do what you can to correct this impression," he asked baseball writers.

Intended to Keep Grove.

He told of realizing last season the need for a new pitching staff, and of his expectation of building such a group around Lefty Grove, the American league's ace southpaw hurler, who was traded to the Boston Red Sox.

"When the team finished third this fall, winning the clinching game just before the schedule closed, I had Grove up here," Mack went on. "I told Mose I could not pay him the same salary any longer. I told him we would have to cut down; that business at the ball parks was no longer what it had been.

"I told him to think it over—I made him a proposition at the time—and said, 'come and see me tomorrow morning.' Well, Grove never came back. I have not seen him since.

Three Fail to Show Up.

"Then, the last Saturday we were here, I called each of the players into my office, discussed the same things with them. Only three didn't come—Grove, Walberg, and Earnshaw, the latter of whom I did not intend to keep."

Walberg, another left-handed pitcher, also was traded to Boston last week along with Grove and Infielder Max Bishop. Earnshaw went to the Chicago White Sox.

Mack said that when he told Bishop of the "situation," the veteran second-baseman wrote him a letter asking to be traded because he "had been with the Athletics 10 years or more, and that he felt such a period was long enough for any player with one team."

Mickey Cochrane, sent to Detroit where he will manage the club, and Bishop, Mack believed, "deserved" the chance to improve their positions.

"Mickey has been with us nine years," he said. "He worked hard; harder than most of them during those pennant winning days. So I thought: 'Should I stand in the way of this boy when he has a chance to go on?' I thought that as long as he would have to take a salary cut here, and had given us all this service, I'd let him go."

"In my opinion, anybody who thinks so is all wrong," he said. "We lose a lot in Grove and Cochrane and the rest, but we have funds with which to rebuild. We have spent a considerable portion already for new players."

He promised that "no player with us today, who would strengthen a major league club, will be sold before the close of the 1934 season."

"We must now go out and get a first class catcher," he said. "That is one of the first things we must replace. Unfortunately, catchers are very scarce just now.

His words indicated that he does not intend using Catcher Charley Berry, obtained from Chicago in the Earnshaw trade, behind the plate in place of Cochrane.

Hubbell Named Chief of Year's Sports Heroes

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The selection today of Carl Owen Hubbell as the "man of the year" in all sports marks the second time the honor has gone to a major league baseball star in the three year history of the annual Associated Press poll. Pepper Martin ran away with the contest in 1931.

The southpaw pitcher of the New York Giants, who compiled the best record for effectiveness in 17 years, was voted the outstanding man, amateur or professional, by a nation-wide jury of sports editors and writers. He received 56 votes out of a total of 207 in the final tabulation, more than double the number for his nearest rival.

Second place went to the first foreign athlete to gain a conspicuous place in the balloting. Jack Lovelock of Oxford and New Zealand, who turned in one of the great solo achievements of 1933 by beating Bill Bonthron of Princeton in a world record mile race, clocked in 4:07.6. Lovelock collected 26 votes.

Third and fourth place went to the outstanding figures in golf and tennis. Johnny Goodman of Omaha, winner of the United States open golf championship, received 19 votes and Frederick J. Perry, hero of the British Davis cup triumph and winner of the United States singles title, 15.

Baseball players were by far the most popular choices in the voting. Led by Hubbell, six major league players and one minor league star—Joe Hauser of Minneapolis—accumulatew 76 votes. Track sports, with five entrise gaining 39 votes, and golfers, with 29 ballots for a half dozen contestants, were next in the volume of voting.

Football furnished eight names but only 15 votes, of which five went to Southern California's quarter back, Cotton Warburton, and three to Army's Jack Buckler.

Jack Lovelock, track, 26.
John Goodman, golf, 19.
Fred Perry, tennis, 15.
Bill Terry, baseball, 8.
Glenn Cunningham, track, 8.
Barney Ross, boxing, 6.
Jack Westrope, jockey, 6.
Densmore Shute, golf, 5.
Chuck Klein, baseball, 5.
Irvine Warburton, football, 5.

Kansas City Blues Trade Garland to Coast League

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 18.—(AP)—John Kling, president of the Kansas City American Association Baseball club, announced tonight that Lou Garland, a pitcher, has been traded to the Los Angeles Pacific Coast league club for Jim Mosolf, outfielder. Mosolf, who was with Kansas City part of last season, has played with Pittsburgh and Chicago of the National league. The Blues obtained Garland from St. Paul.

LOUIS VON WEISE NAMED BROWNS' NEW PRESIDENT

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Calling himself a "100 per cent Hornsby man," Louis B. Von Weise, executive of the estate of the late Philip De Catesby Ball, today was elected president of the St. Louis club of the American Baseball league.

He announced an immediate effort would be made to rebuild the Browns into a profitable and winning team.

"We cannot splurge financially as the Boston Red Sox have done recently, but funds to a reasonable amount will be at Hornsby's disposal," he explained.

Plan to Continue P. building.

The election, and statement, set at rest rumors that the club would be sold. It also placed the heirs of the wealthy baseball man on record as planning to continue rebuilding efforts started by Mr. Ball shortly before his recent death.

Ball's scheme for a winning baseball club centered around Manager Rogers Hornsby, hired near the close of the 1933 season by the late St. Louis ice machinery magnate.

At the recent Chicago major league meeting Hornsby engineered a series of trades involving no expense to the Browns, but believed to have strengthened the club. He has announced his intention to do more swapping in an attempt to inject new life in the tail-end club.

McEvoy, Pritsch Are Vice Presidents.

L. C. McEvoy and Walter Pritsch were elected vice presidents of the club today. William R. Cady was made treasurer, and Miss Ella Jacobi, one of the executors, was named secretary.

"We have a fine working organization with Manager Hornsby and Vice President McEvoy," Von Weise said, "But we realized that the estate would be at a disadvantage if we tried to run the club without a centralization of authority. I am not a baseball man, but I know what Mr. Ball wanted. All questions involving baseball as a game will be left to Mr. Hornsby as manager and to Mr. McEvoy as vice president.

"I have the greatest confidence in Hornsby's ability to rebuild the club. He will have a free hand.

"I want to emphasize that I am a Hornsby man. I had no contect with Rogers before Mr. Ball's death and while I knew how Mr. Ball felt about him, I cannot say I was 'for' Hornsby. But he has won my complete confidence, just as he has that of other American league men."

NOTRE DAME FIVE AFTER 16TH WIN IN ROW TONIGHT

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's basketball winning streak, which has reached 15 consecutive games, will be at stake here tomorrow night when the Irish meet Purdue. Notre Dame has yet to score a victory over Purdue, losing in eight games.

Purdue defeated Pittsburgh by six points and Pitt defeated Northwestern by four points, the same margin by which the Irish defeated the Wildcats.

Notre Dame will rely on the height of Joe Voegel, senior, and Marty Peters, sophomore, forwards from Peoria; Capt. Ed Krause, center, and George Ireland, Madison, Wis., sophomore, guard. Leo Crowe, a senior, will complete the first team.

Coach Ward Lambert of Purdue bases his hopes on the speed of Norman Cottom and Ray Eddy, his diminutive forwards, and the all around ability and height of Dutch Fehring and Ed Elliott, centers.

MICHIGAN LOSES, 29-25

College Park, Md., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The University of Maryland defeated the University of Michigan, 29 to 25, in basketball tonight. While Maryland led throughout the game, Michigan put a thrilling climax to the contest with a rally in the closing minutes of play.

Maryland led, 16 to 6, at half time. The Old Liners' zone defense forced the Wolverines to try for field goals from the center of the court, Michigan registering five of their nine double points on long shots. Score:

ANDY CALLAHAN'S MANAGER BARRED FOR SIX MONTHS

Boston, Mass., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Johnny Buckley, manager of Jack Sharkey and Andy Callahan, today was suspended for six months by the Massachusetts boxing commission.

The commission, reinforced by its ex-officio chairman, Gen. Daniel Needham, state commissioner of public safety, gave Buckley a chance to repeat his charges that it had authorized the posting of a false weight for Callahan for his recent middleweight championship bout with Vince Dundee, the titleholder.

After Callahan lost a close and divided decision, Buckley accused Commissioners Day Kelly and Peter Carr of knowing beforehand that his man weighed 141 pounds and not 152½, as was announced from the ring. During a recent informal hearing, before Kelly and Carr, Buckley produced a 10 pound weight which, he charged, was used to pad Callahan's avoirdupois and get him within the commission's rule against an eight pounds or more difference between opponents.

4 GIRLS HURT ON WAY TO LAKE FOREST SCHOOL

Two Injured in Crash Near Joliet.

Four young women students on their way to the Convent of the Sacred Heart school at Lake Forest were injured yesterday when their automobile struck the rear end of another car as it stopped to make a turn at Sheridan road and Kenilworth avenue in Kenilworth.

The girls, who continued on their way after treatment at the Evanston hospital, are Miss Catherine Cummings, 18 years old, 442 Wellington avenue, driver of the car; Miss Martha Carvy, 18 years old, 6000 Sheridan road; Miss Jean Brady, 21 years old, of Preston, Ia., and Miss Jane McKinlock, 20 years old, 4730 Dover street.

Killed When Train Hits Auto.

Clyde D. Haynes, 35 . ars old, 3140 West 95th street, was killed early today when his automobile was struck and carried 100 yar'e by a southbound Rock Island railroad passenger train in 95th street, n ar Vincennes avenue. Police said that the gates at the crossing were lowered and that Haynes crashed his car through them and in front of the train.

At. St. Joseph's hospital in Joliet, two Chicago men lay critically injured last night, while eight other persons were recovering from injuries received in a head-on crash on the outskirts of Joliet late Sunday. The men are Elmer Nelson, 24 years old, 1949 Berwyn avenue, driver of one of the cars, and Elmer Holin, 30 years old, 5526 North Campbell avenue.

County Total Now 1,084.

One other automobile death in Cook county increased the toll for 1933 to 1,084 since Jan. 1. The victim:

Adam Evick, 68 years old, 5640 Justine street. Died in the Southtown hospital of injuries received Dec. 7 when he was struck by a hit-and-run motorist at 43d street and Western avenue.

Noble Easley, 23 years old, colored, 5607 Prairie avenue, was taken to the county hospital on a coroner's mittimus yesterday when he was arrested in connection with a fatal automobile accident which happened three weeks ago. Frank Roberts, 56 years old, 1310 South Ashland avenue, was killed by Easley's car near his home.

DOCTOR DECIDES DEATH OF VANCE DUE TO CHANCE

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Dr. Charles Norris, medical examiner, today wrote the last chapter to Louis Joseph Vance's latest mystery story.

Was Vance, lone wolf among best-seller authors, strangely murdered—or did he die accidentally Saturday in a fire in his apartment in East 38th street?

"Death—accidental," Dr. Norris wrote today, after receiving a report from Dr. Harry Schwartz, assistant city toxicologist, that Vance was intoxicated when he was burned to death in a trifling fire in an upholstered chair.

Police suspicions were aroused by the finding of a partly filled can of benzine in the thirteenth-floor apartment. But Dr. Norris decided today the author must have used the liquid to soften surgical dressings on his infected jaw so that he could remove the adhesive tape.

"Mr. Vance may have spilled some benzine or liquor on his clothing and accidentally started the fire while lighting a cigaret," Dr. Norris said. "Or he may have been stricken with a heart attack as he tried to get out of the burning chair."

E. A. HEILEMANN FUNERAL WILL BE HELD TODAY

Funeral services will be held today for Ernest A. Heilemann, pioneer business man of Oak Park, who died Saturday at his home, 431 Marengo avenue, Forest Park. His six nephews will act as pallbearers at the rites which will be under the auspices of the Siloam Knights Templar commandery, No. 54.

Mr. Heilemann conducted a men's clothing store at 122 Marion street, Oak Park, for 22 years, retiring in 1930. He was born in London, England, and was 62 years old at the time of his death. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Heilemann.

The funeral will be held at a chapel at 203 Marion street, Oak Park, at 2 p. m., and will be followed by services at the Community Methodist Episcopal church in Forest Park.

COMRADES HONOR SERGT. SHANLEY, SLAIN POLICEMAN

The body of Sergt. William T. Shanley, 13th Chicago policeman to be slain this year, was buried yesterday at All Saints cemetery, carried to its last resting place by three policemen and three fellow members of the Holy Name society. Military rites were performed by members of Taylor post of the American Legion.

"This good man pledged his best to his city and he gave it," said the Rev. Bernard C. Heeney, pastor of St. Gertrude's Catholic church where a funeral mass was sung. "He did not waste his life; he sacrificed it to duty. He was shot down in cold blood by a thug who was a menace to society. You men and women should appreciate the good work being done by the police department against terrible obstacles."

Sergt. Shanley is survived by a widow and four children, aged 6 to 12 years. He lived at 1415 Thome avenue. Last Thursday Shanley was sent to a garage to arrest a man believed to have been one of the 10 convicts who escaped from the Michigan City, Ind., penitentiary. Not certain of the identity of the man who walked in, Shanley dared not fire first. The man he encountered was John Hamilton, one of the escaped convicts, and as soon as Shanley announced himself as a police officer, Hamilton fired and escaped.

RITES TOMORROW FOR MRS. GRACE, VICTIM OF AUTO

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret Grace, 5420 Sheridan road, clubwoman who was killed Sunday evening by an automobile at Catalpa avenue and Sheridan road, will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow in St. Ita's Roman Catholic church. Catalpa avenue and Broadway. Burial will be at Waukonda beside her husband, old time loop hotel operator, who died in 1916.

The inquest into Mrs. Grace's death was continued yesterday until Jan. 16, pending outcome of the injuries of Mrs. Grace's nurse, Miss Mary Doran, who was also struck. At the John B. Murphy hospital it was said that Miss Doran remains in a critical condition.

The two women were hit by the automobile of Arthur G. Strassheim, president of the Broadway Trust and Savings bank, driven by his Negro chauffeur, John M. McKnight, 33 years old, 5632 Indiana avenue. McKnight, who was alone at the time, fled from the scene of the accident in panic, but was later surrendered to police by his employer.

Funeral This Afternoon for Mrs. Molly Klein

Funeral services for Mrs. Molly Klein, 3800 Sheridan road, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel at 4911 Broadway. Mrs. Klein, afflicted by high blood pressure, died suddenly Saturday afternoon. She was 57 years old. Maurice Klein, her husband, was chief deputy United States marshal during both terms of the Wilson administration and now is a receiver in federal court. Mrs. Klein was a daughter of Samuel Simon, a founder of H. Wolf & company, a wholesale mail order house. She is survived by three sons, Dexter, Henry and Harvey, and by three daughters, Mrs. Della Tavelin, Mrs. Sol Burnstein, and Mrs. Ruth Gaberman.

Frank P. Ryan, Illinois Central Official, Dies

Frank P. Ryan, 45 years old, 1306 East 72d place, assistant general passenger agent of the Illinois Central railroad, died at his home yesterday of high blood pressure. He had been an employé of the railroad for 26 years, having served as secretary to the late Charles H. Markham, president of the line; as assistant commercial agent and as chief clerk to the vice president of traffic. He was a member of the Traffic club. His widow, Mrs. May Sheridan Ryan, and his mother, Mrs. Mary Ryan, survive.

AUDITOR HUNTS $30,000 "ERROR" AT JOLIET PRISON

The state auditor's office yesterday reported to Gov. Horner that it had discovered an apparent shortage of $30,000 in the accounts of the Joliet penitentiary. The governor immediately ordered a full investigation.

The auditors said it was possible that the shortage might be the result of a bookkeeping error, with no actual loss to the state. There were indications, they said, that a quantity of supplies, received at the penitentiary and charged to its account on the state books at Springfield, had not been charged off when they were consumed.

Frank D. Whipp, warden of the penitentiary, said he know nothing whatever about the shortage. The prison accounts are kept by convicts with previous bookkeeping experience, he said, but the prisoners never handle any money.

WILLIAM ALONZO LAKE, died May 29. Estate, $1,000, to widow, Edith O. Lake, who is executrix.

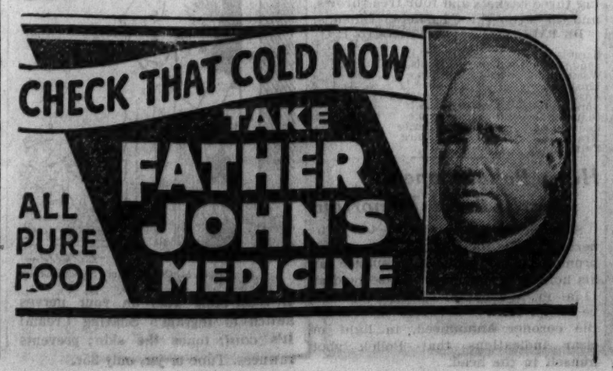
HARRY A. RENICK, died Oct. 16, 1932. Estate, $5,200, to widow and five children, Willie A. Renick, son, is executor.

Lieut. Frank T. Ford's Funeral Service Today

Funeral services for Lieut. Frank T. Ford, who had been secretary to Chicago's police commissioners for the last 10 years, and a member of the force for 39 years, will be held at 10 a. m. today from the home at 5555 Sheridan road to St. Gertrude's church. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery. Lieut. Ford died Saturday after a lingering illness.

BEG YOUR PARDON

An account of a still raid published in THE TRIBUNE on Sunday incorrectly gave the address as 117 West Austin avenue. The still was in a building at 112-114 West Austin avenue, according to government agents. The M. J. Candy company is at 117 West Austin avenue.



MEMORIAL FOR O. J. MILLIKEN, BOYS' TRAINER

Memorial services will be held at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon for Orris J. Milliken, former superintendent of the Chicago and Cook County School for Boys and principal of the Chicago Parental school. Mr. Milliken, who was 72 years old, died Sunday in his home at 3333 Washington boulevard.

O. J. MILLIKEN.

Mr. Milliken had been in the Cook county school service for more than forty years. He was in charge of the John Worthy School for Boys, part of the old Bridewell, but in 1923 started a new and radically different system in a group of cottages on the western edge of the city, the Chicago and Cook County School for Boys.

The Milliken system banished all forms of punishment, substituting withdrawal of privileges for misbehavior. Careful individual handling and teaching took the place of a military routine. Mr. Milliken's ideas were widely praised, although there was later some criticism of the results of his system.

The funeral services are to be private, but the memorial services will be public, at Graham Taylor hall of the Chicago Theological seminary. Surviving are the widow, Hattie F., and three children, Mrs. Ora Bloom, Dr. Irene Josselyn, and Victor C. Milliken.

BENJAMIN JOY'S DIVORCE AT RENO IS HELD INVALID

Circuit Judge Walter J. La Buy yesterday held invalid a divorce which Benjamin F. Joy, building contractor, got in Reno, Nev., on May 7, 1932, from Mrs. Isobel Marie Joy, 7836 South Morgan street.

Then he granted Mrs. Joy a divorce on grounds of desertion, with $40 a week for the support of two children, restored her dower rights, which had been revoked by the Reno decree, and issued an injunction restraining Joy from disposing of any of his property without her consent.

Mrs. Joy's attorney, Robert E. Cantwell Jr., argued that the Reno decree was fraudulent because Joy has continued to maintain a residence in Chicago, and merely established one in Reno to obtain the divorce. Mrs. Joy testified she was given no notice of the proceedings and did not even know the grounds on which the Nevada decree was based.

'PHANTOM GANG' GETS $8,000 IN A JEWELRY HOLDUP

Four gunmen, believed to be members of the "phantom gang" of window smashers, stole $8,000 worth of diamond rings and watches from the George Reichman jewelry store at 4940 South Ashland avenue last night. Inside the shop at the time were several patrons and Rose and Louis Reichman, daughter and son of the retired owner.

The robbers drove in front of the store in a speedy car. Three of them alighted, leaving the fourth man at the wheel of the car. Then two of the hoodlums, each armed with a shotgun, stationed themselves at the shop entrance and intimidated Rose and Louis Reichman and the patrons. Meanwhile, the third man who had alighted from the automobile with them smashed in the front display window. He scooped up sixty-three rings and twelve watches and in another moment was back in the car.

COMMUNITY FUND PLEDGES PASS $2,500,000 MARK

More than $2,500,000 has been pledged in the community fund campaign for $4,000,000, which will continue to Jan. 1 at least, it was announced yesterday. About 25 per cent of the subscriptions received are from individuals or corporations that did not appear on the list of contributors in any previous campaign.

The remaining 75 per cent of the pledges represents renewals from previous contributors, and is almost equally divided between company and employé groups.

Up to yesterday pledge cards were sent to employé groups including 342,497 workers. The total number of subscribers to date is more than 100,000, including all who have contributed through employé groups.

CHICAGO AREA STEEL PLANTS BOOST OUTPUT

Inland and Illinois Mills Rates Up.

Increased activity in the steel industry in the Chicago district was reported yesterday. The Inland Steel company yesterday put six open hearth furnaces in operation and before the end of the week the concern expects to be operating at 50 per cent of capacity, the highest operating level in several years.

It is reported that the Illinois Steel company, subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, is stepping up its activity as the year is drawing to a close.

Officials of the Inland Steel company said that there would be about 4,000 men at work at the end of the week.

"Times have been hard and we are trying to provide as much work as we can before Christmas," an Inland official stated. "For that reason we are cleaning up orders on our books, getting them out faster than we probably would under ordinary circumstances. While we are getting considerable business as a result of the government's public works program, still there is considerable buying of general products. Orders on the company's books include some for structural shapes, piling, bars, etc."

Expect Upturn in February.

From interests close to the Illinois company it was reported that, while activity at that company's plants has increased, a more substantial improvement is expected beginning with February. There has been quite a little pickup on orders for small bridge work in connection with the government's road building program. Bridges must be placed before the work on the roads proper can be started in the spring, it was explained.

The railroads generally have not started freeing their orders, but it is expected that they will have to do so shortly. Some steel orders for car construction are reported to be in sight and the manufacture of some of the new 112 pound rails, recently developed, is expected to be under way next month.

Major orders in connection with the government's public works program are expected to be translated into plant activity in the spring, it was stated. Included in these will be steel required for dam work in the Mississippi river.

PUT RATE AT 34.2 PER CENT.

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The operating rate of steel companies at the beginning of this week is 34.2 per cent of capacity, against 31.5 a week ago, an increase of 8 per cent, the American Iron and Steel institute reported today.

From the low point of the autumn, 25.2 per cent on Nov. 6, there has been an increase of 36 per cent. The current figure is 17 per cent above a fortnight ago.

RAIL COACH FARE FOR ROUND TRIPS TO BE CUT AGAIN

Round trip coach fares will be farther reduced, effective Jan. 2, this time 10 per cent, by all western and southwestern railroads, according to an announcement made yesterday by H. W. Siddall, chairman of the Transcontinental Western Passenger association.

"This further reduction will bring the round trip coach rate to 1.8 cents a mile each way, with a ten day return limit," Mr. Siddall said. "It is an outcome of the gratifying response by the public to the reduction of basic fares on Dec. 1 this year. Practically all railroads which were party to the general reductions in fares report a satisfactory increase in passenger travel, especially local travel."

It was reported that the reduction was made following complaints expressed by coach travelers that whereas the user of first class equipment was given a cut when he bought a round trip ticket, the coach fare stood at a flat rate of two cents a mile, regardless of whether a round trip ticket was bought.

U. S. TREASURY FINDS CREDIT MORE COSTLY; SELLS DISCOUNT BILLS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—The cost of credit to the government has risen sharply in the last month, and even more sharply in the last few months. This was revealed today when Acting Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announced the results of the treasury's latest short term financing.

Accepted bids for the 100 million dollars of 91 day discount bills, which were offered on Dec. 14, ranged in price from 99.851, equivalent to a rate of about 0.59 per cent per annum, to 99.808, equivalent to about 0.76 per cent. The average price accepted was 99.814 and the average rate was about 0.74 per cent.

The average rate, compared with 0.46 per cent on bids accepted by the treasury for 60 million dollars of discount bills offered about a month ago and 0.43 per cent for 100 million dated Nov. 29. Thus the increase in cost of short term financing has been more than 60 per cent in about a month.

Moreover, the present rate is in sharp contrast to the cost of treasury financing last summer, when several issues of discount bills were sold at rates to yield between 0.10 and 0.15 per cent. Thus, the present rate marks an increase ranging from 500 to 740 per cent in the cost of short term financing in a few months.

Total amount of bids was $282,143,000, of which $100,263,000 was accepted.

Dollar Loses Little as Gold Price Is Lifted

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, N. Y., Dec. 18.—The advance of 5 cents an ounce in the RFC's gold price after fourteen successive business days without change depressed the dollar sharply in foreign exchanges early today. The rate recovered late in the day, however, and closed down only .46 cent at 63.29 cents against the French gold franc.

The advance in the RFC's gold price, which carried it to a new high at $34.06, had been widely expected and there was some surprise at the modest character of the rise. Nevertheless the action was taken as confirmation of the prevailing belief that a new stage of dollar depreciation had been entered upon.

Mount Rapidly, Then Fall Back.

At first the foreign exchanges rose rapidly in dollar value. Sterling mounted to $5.18, 6 cents above its previous close and the franc went to 6.22 cents, 7½ points over Saturday's final price. Other currencies were correspondingly strong. The renewed fall in the dollar failed to bring an increase in activity, however. At the highest price for the franc the dollar was worth 62.99 per cent of its par value.

The recovery of the dollar carried it to 63.55 per cent of par, at which level the franc was priced at 6.16½ cents. Sterling dropped to 5.13. The closing price of sterling, $5.15, represented an advance of 3 cents over Saturday's last quotation, while the franc showed a net gain of 4½ points at 6.19 cents.

Guilders Up 50 Points.

Guilders were up 50 points at 63.55 cents, Swiss francs were up 23 points at 30.56 cents and belgas gained 13 points to 21.98 cents. The Canadian dollar rose 12½ points to close at 50 points premium. Marks were up 30 points to 37.78 cents and lire were 7 points better at 8.33 cents.

Based on the opening price of $5.14½ for sterling in the local foreign exchange market the London gold price of 126 shillings and 9 pence was the dollar equivalent of $32.61.

The RFC has purchased 469,491 ounces of domestic gold, valued at $15,682,000, Chairman Jones announced today, but refused to commit himself, as to how much foreign gold has been purchased. These figures may be disclosed in the November report of the corporation to congress.

COUNCIL TO AID FOREIGN BOND OWNERS FORMED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—The Foreign Bondholders' Protective council, a private corporation formed at the suggestion of the White House to salvage American funds in defaulted foreign bonds, completed its organization here today.

Raymond B. Stevens of New Hampshire, former member of the trade commission, was selected to head the council, Laird Bell, Chicago lawyer, and Ernest M. Hopkins, president of Dartmouth college, were chosen vice presidents.

Articles of incorporation were filed in Maryland, establishing the council as a private affair, although the initiative for the project came originally from the White House. Charged in the securities act with the obligation of doing something for American holders of defaulted foreign securities, the administration chose to encourage private corporation rather than to set up the federal corporation which the security act permits. Diplomatic ramifications were given as the reason for this choice.

The council will make no attempt to work out solutions on defaulted bonds of foreign private interests, confining its work to aiding holders of defaulted bonds issued by foreign governments, states and municipalities, it explained.

HOME FITTINGS MAKERS LAUNCH 1934 CAMPAIGNS

Manufacturers of home furnishings are losing no time in getting their 1934 campaigns under way. According to T. J. Reed, general manager of the Merchandise mart, four expositions, Winter Furniture market, National Chicago Lamp show, Glassware, China and Pottery exposition, and Home Furnishings and Electrical Appliances exposition, are scheduled to open on Jan. 2, 1934, at the Merchandise mart.

"These events will run for two weeks, from Jan. 2 to 13," said Mr. Reed. "Buyers from all over the world will attend the showings and their stay here will help Chicago start the new business year in a profitable fashion."

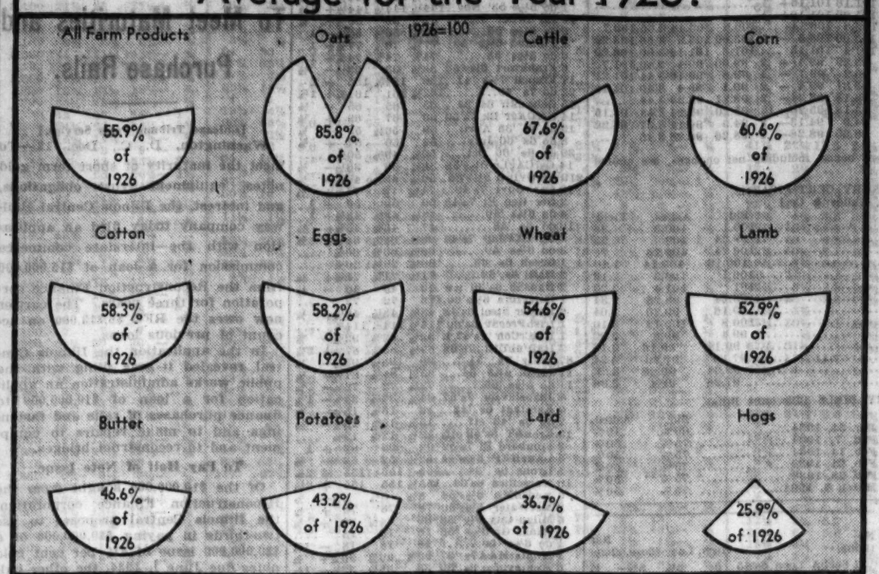
EXPECT O. K. FOR BANK STOCK SALE BY CONTINENTAL

Stockholders of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company at the special meeting tomorrow afternoon are expected to approve by a large majority their directors' proposal to sell $50,000,000 of preferred stock to the Reconstruction Finance corporation and reduce outstanding common stock from $75,000,000 to $25,000,000.

Approval of stockholders holding two-thirds of the common stock is required. Proxies for more than 500,000 of the 750,000 shares of stock have already been turned in to the management of the bank.

A directors' meeting is expected to be held tomorrow prior to the stockholders' meeting.

How Do Present Prices Compare With the Average for the Year 1926?



Germany Cuts Payments on Debt Interest

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 18. — A Christmas "surprise" was handed by Germany to her foreign creditors today when the reichsbank decided to transfer only 30 per cent of all the interest due them in the next six months. The reichsbank declared that unless exports improve Germany will not make any payments.

Exceptions were made for interest and amortization of the Dawes plan loan and interest on the Young plan loan which will be transferred in full.

The British and American bankers, when here early in December, held that because of an increase of 127,000,000 marks [currently about $47,000,000] in the reserves of the reichsbank and an increase in the trade balance Germany should be able "without undue risk" to pay 50 per cent.

Germans Find Danger in Payment.

The reichsbank counters that if it paid more than 30 per cent of the interest it would endanger its painfully accumulated reserve and its currency, that the increase of the reserve was acquired on the strength of the law of "economic treason" compelling every German to relinquish all foreign cash and capital exceeding $50.

The trade balance, though favorable, says the reichsbank, has failed to provide it with the foreign currency it needs. Only a small part of the exports is paid in cash. Part of them is paid in blocked marks while the other part of the surplus represents goods of emigrants, mostly Jews.

Would Pay More on Export Rise.

"Nobody would be happier than the reichsbank if a revival in foreign trade should occur," the official statement said. "The reichsbank would then gladly increase the quota on its payments in the second half of the year."

Inflation in other countries is not proving a good bargain for Germany, the bank's report explains. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the reichsbank, estimates that through the "drop in the value of the pound and dollar, the German debt is reduced by 4 billion marks and its interest bill is reduced by between 200 million and 250 million marks." What Germany save here however, it loses in finding foreign goods dumped on the world markets.

BANKERS' BILLS RISE SHARPLY AS TRADE EXPANDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 18.—A rise of $21,421,153 in the volume of bankers' acceptances outstanding took place in November, according to the monthly survey of the American acceptance council. This was the third successive monthly advance and lifted total volume as of Nov. 29 to $758,212,098, a new high for the year, $64,000,000 higher than the total for three months ago and $38,660,795 above the figure reported for the close of November, last year.

According to Robert L. Bean, executive secretary of the council, bills based on imports, exports, and domestic warehouse credits have advanced $98,500,000 in the last twelve months, whereas bills based on goods stored in or shipped between foreign countries have declined in volume $52,724,866. In other words there has been a substantial gain in the acceptance financing of domestic transactions, but a much smaller use of dollar acceptances to finance transactions originating and completed abroad.

Canadian Banks Will Cut Interest Except on Savings

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Montreal, Que., Dec. 18.—Interest on current accounts will be decreased by all Canadian banks by one-half of 1 per cent, effective Jan. 1, it was announced today. The change will not apply against savings accounts. The new rates will be 1 to 1½ per cent.

CHARGES 10 DIRECTORS OF MONTGOMERY WARD OWN ½ OF 1% OF STOCK

Of 4,666,666 Montgomery Ward & Co. shares outstanding, 22,169 were held in the names of ten members of the board of directors as of Nov. 23, 1933, according to a statement made last night by Joseph Zook, president of the Montgomery Ward Stockholders' association. Mr. Zook said that Sewell Avery, president of the company and chairman of the board, owns 201 shares.

	"A" stock	Common stock
Sewell L. Avery	200	1
David A. Crawford	....	551
Harry P. Davison	....	1
George B. Everitt	....	5,714
R. H. Fogler	....	200
Charles F. Glore	....	1
D. R. McClennan	....	12,374
Jackson E. Reynolds	....	1
Charles H. Schwoppe	2,800	102
Silas H. Strawn	....	224
	3,000	19,169
		3,000
		22,169

"The stock ledger total shown in the names of the ten directors amounts to ½ of 1 per cent of the shares outstanding," Mr. Zook said.

FREIGHT IN FIRST MID-DECEMBER GAIN IN 8 YEARS

Reversing the usual seasonal trend, a number of the leading railroads yesterday reported that their freight car loadings for the week ended Dec. 16 showed a gain over those of the preceding week. This was said to be the first time in eight years that there had been such a gain in the middle of December.

The Milwaukee road reported yesterday that its loadings for the week ended Dec. 9 totaled 21,996 compared with 20,576 in the preceding week and 21,292 in the corresponding week of 1932.

Cars handled by the North Western totaled 20,749 as compared with 19,557 in the preceding week and 18,695 in the parallel week of 1932.

The Santa Fé handled 22,769 cars compared with 21,945 in the preceding week and 20,596 cars in the corresponding 1932 week.

Both the Burlington and Illinois Central are reported as having experienced gains. Among the big eastern lines the New York Central is reported to have had considerably more business than the preceding week. Figures on these roads are to be released later in the week.

The continued improvement in car loadings the last few months is reflected in earnings reports. The Standard Statistics company estimates that class 1 railroads will earn about 98 per cent of their bond interest and other fixed charges as compared with 80 per cent last year.

I. C. C. Investigating Cost of Pickup-Delivery Service

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today ordered further hearings in an effort to ascertain the cost of pickup and delivery service furnished to shippers by the St. Louis Southwestern railroad and other railroads in the southwest. The commission has been studying the case for more than a year.

Atlas Tack Stock Crash Starts Quiz

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 18.—A further wide break occurred today on the New York Stock exchange in shares of the Atlas Tack corporation, coincident with announcement that a triple investigation was under way into action of the stock recently.

There were no nearby bids for the stock at the opening of the market. After being quoted 14 bid and 20 asked, it finally opened on a block of 2,000 shares at 15, then sold later at 14 for a loss of 7⅝ points from the previous day.

Its collapse Saturday wiped out nearly a third of its market value. It closed then at 21⅝, off 11½ points, after having been run up to 34⅝ on Friday. Early this year the stock sold at $1.50.

Investigate Market Action.

The bureau of securities of the attorney general's office, the stock exchange authorities, and the Better Business bureau all were looking into various angles of the market for the stock.

There were rumors in Wall street brokerage houses that the stock had been manipulated from Boston and that high pressure methods had been used to distribute it recently.

Ambrose V. McCall, in charge of the state bureau of securities, began his investigation into operations in the stock this morning. Several subpoenas were served today on stock exchange brokers by the attorney general's office, and it was announced that some of the directors and officers of the corporation will be questioned today.

Directors Are Prominent.

The abrupt decline of the stock Saturday, as support was withdrawn, attracted particular interest because of the prominence of some of the company's directors. Kermit Roosevelt, president of Roosevelt Steamship company, Inc., was added to the directorate last October.

The company's stock consists of 150,000 shares of no par common, of which less than 98,000 are believed to be outstanding. No dividends have been paid since distribution of $2.25 in 1920. Late last week it was announced that directors have been called in a special meeting on Jan. 10 to act on proposals to increase the stock to 425,000 shares and exchange three new shares for each old share.

For the first nine months of this year the company reported a net profit of $71,700, equivalent to 77 cents a share on 93,441 shares of stock. In the preceding three years, however, the company lost heavily.

J. L. MARKS & CO. STOCK PERMIT TO BE REINSTATED

An order for the reinstatement of the license of J. L. Marks, Chicago broker, will be entered in the Sangamon county Circuit court on Dec. 21, according to Attorney Francis X. Busch, who represented Marks in Springfield.

Judge Victor Hemphill decided yesterday in Marks' favor after a petition had been filed to review the action of the secretary of state directed to revoking the registration of the firm.

The bankruptcy hearing of J. L. Marks & Co. was indefinitely continued by Referee Edmund D. Adcock when a composition was offered to creditors. The proposed composition provides a 10 per cent cash payment on the date of approval and eight succeeding 5 per cent payments at six month intervals starting one year after the first payment.

LOW PRICES END TOBACCO SALES IN SIX STATES

Kentucky Growers Talk 'Night Riding.'

Richmond, Va., Dec. 18.—(AP)—By proclamation of Gov. John Garland Pollard, Virginia's burley tobacco markets were asked today to close indefinitely, effective at midnight tonight. The governor's action was in line with what had previously been done in Tennessee and Kentucky. In other burley territory individual markets declared a holiday.

This was the second time within two weeks that Gov. Pollard has issued such a proclamation. The dark fired tobacco markets already are closed indefinitely under executive proclamation, and for the same reason that the holiday was asked for burley sales.

In each case the price had fallen off to a figure said to be ruinous to the planters.

Tennessee Halts Sales.

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Hoping to better burley tobacco prices through a sales holiday, Gov. Hill McAlister in a proclamation today called upon Tennessee's market operators to close their warehouses.

The formal action of Tennessee's chief executive followed closely a similar move by Gov. Ruby Laffoon of Kentucky. These two states produce a large amount of the burley tobacco of America.

Gov. McAlister's proclamation asked that all markets where burley tobacco is offered for sale close by 3 p. m., and late reports were to the effect that practically every sales house was complying with his request.

Kentucky Joins Move.

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 18.—(AP)—A drive to sign up burley tobacco growers for acreage reduction began today as Kentucky closed its burley markets in protest against prices paid since the season opened a week ago.

The Madison, Ind., market closed today in line with those across the Kentucky border, but at Weston, Mo., sales continued.

At a meeting Saturday afternoon in Frankfort growers told Gov. Laffoon that unless he took steps to close the markets "night riding" and other disorders of past years might break out.

Warehouse Falls in Line.

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The Huntington Tobacco Warehouse company today stopped burley tobacco sales for an indefinite period pending working out of federal plans for production control.

Suspension at the Huntington market followed similar action taken at Gallipolis and Ripley, O. Gov. Kump at Charleston said that he had not issued any proclamation in regard to the tobacco situation, and that no request for such action had been made to him.

Grayson D. Thornton, auctioneer for the Huntington company, said that it was considered inadvisable to continue sales with markets in adjoining states closed and with the demand by buyers declining.

Washington Plans Control.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The agricultural adjustment administration took little notice today of the marketing holiday in burley tobacco centers as it moved ahead to complete its burley production control program.

J. B. Huston, chief of the tobacco section, said field workers have been active in the sign-up campaign to get burley growers to restrict their production.

Auburn Spending Million on Tools for New Models

W. H. Beal, president of Auburn Automobile company, yesterday announced that the company is spending over $1,000,000 in new tools and dies in preparation for 1934 production.

Detroit Banks Face Scalpel of Pecora

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Officers of defunct Detroit banks will be the next to have their pictures hung in Mr. Pecora's hall of fame.

A. P. LEYBURN.

The senate banking committee's investigation into the history of banking is to get under way tomorrow, probably will adjourn over Christmas, and resume after the holiday spirit has subsided.

In view of the attempt of the Detroit bankers to whitewash themselves during the one-man state grand jury hearings—which were open to the public and were widely publicized—the federal investigators are reported to be gleefully looking forward to the committee hearings.

* *

During the state hearing the national bank examiners, who had jurisdiction over the banks in question, and the department of justice agents who were investigating the Detroit bank closings were studiously silent.

Without comment they observed banker after banker ascend the witness chair and blame the closing of Detroit's banks—which started the panic that ended with the nation-wide moratorium—on the severity of the national bank examiners.

Now the bank examiners are to have their inning, notably Alfred P. Leyburn, former chief national bank examiner in the seventh reserve district, whom some of the Detroit bankers and politicians blamed for bank closings.

* *

Chicago and New York bankers, as well as national bank examiners, have insisted all along that the trouble with Detroit banks lay chiefly in the speculative real estate commitments.

Under the laws then existing, however, it was next to impossible for any one, including the national bank examiners, to get the complete picture. The Detroit banking structures were so complicated with their state and national units and their holding companies which were not then subject to supervision by examiners that outsiders were unable to discover what it was all about prior to the closings.

The entrance of the Prince group into the management of Armour & Co. [Illinois] is expected to end the intramural battle among stockholders over the proposed recapitalization.

One of the chief difficulties of Armour & Co. in recent years is that it has belonged to nobody. There are about 85,000 stockholders but none of them has held more than 1 or 2 per cent of the total stock outstanding. Even with his recent acquisitions it is believed that Mr. Prince, who has become the largest single stockholder, holds under 5 per cent of the total.

It has been apparent for some time that Armour of Illinois would have to write down its capitalization as a result of depreciation of assets during the last few years.

* *

When President T. G. Lee proposed a plan to accomplish this purpose this fall, stockholders representing about two-thirds of the stock ownership sent in their proxies to support his plan.

Mr. Prince and his associates, however, rallied enough stockholder support to force at least temporary abandonment of the plan.

Another recapitalization plan is promised in the near future. Not until the details are disclosed will the stockholders discover whether the principal changes are to be in the management itself or in the provisions of the plan.

Resumption of the gold raising price program yesterday by the Reconstruction Finance corporation after the price of gold had been permitted to remain at $34.01 an ounce ever since the end of November bore out the expectations of many La Salle street experts who had been saying that the cessation of gold price raising was a temporary expedient adopted with the idea of helping the treasury carry out its Dec. 15 refinancing program.

RFC WILL ASK MORE BILLIONS TO AID BANKS

Seek New Funds for Loans, Stock Buying.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—More billions of dollars for loans to closed banks and for purchases of preferred stock in going banks is the program ahead for the Reconstruction Finance corporation, Jesse H. Jones, its chairman, revealed today after a conference with President Roosevelt.

Admitting that the 4½ billions previously voted to the corporation by congress was virtually used up in outstanding loans and commitments, Mr. Jones said that more billions will be asked.

Five hundred million to a billion dollars will be needed for loans to closed banks alone, according to Mr. Jones, who said that he had discussed these and other matters with the President.

The RFC's life under existing law runs out on Jan. 23, he said. Its continuance is being considered, and President Roosevelt has virtually pledged himself to ask that it be prolonged.

Demands for loans to closed banks and for purchases of preferred stock in going banks are continuing to pour in to the RFC, Mr. Jones explained. The corporation has authorized preferred stock purchases aggregating 627 million dollars in 2,443 banks, of which 1,561 are not members of the federal reserve system, and has ordered 540 million dollars advanced to closed banks.

Despite the fact that the RFC rushed through 414 preferred stock applications in the last few days, there are more than 700 still pending, Mr. Jones' figures showed. Purchases of preferred stock, originally to use up a billion dollars, will be continued even if that total is exceeded. Mr. Jones said. All told, 3,160 banks have applied to sell stock or capital notes to the RFC.

Illinois Leads in Applications.

Many of the preferred stock purchases are being made in connection with strengthening banks for the Deposit Insurance corporation, which begins operations on Jan. 1. Illinois leads the list of states with banks applying for membership in this insurance corporation, with 509 seeking admittance. Banks which are members of the federal reserve system are being admitted automatically.

In regard to loans to industry by the RFC, Mr. Jones said policies would have to be determined by congress. The question has been discussed with the President, he added, but no determination has been reached. Pay roll loans, he continued, are difficult to make because of the difficulty in getting security.

"We would like local banks and mortgage companies to have substantial funds for this purpose but it is nearly an impossible proposition," he added.

Plan to Invoke Congress.

Additional authority to make loans probably will have to be obtained from congress, Mr. Jones said, and he indicated that not only this authority but also an act extending the life of the corporation would be requested. The extension period requested probably will be one year.

Even after the active life of the RFC shall have ceased, Mr. Jones went on, at least ten years would be required to wind up the widespread affairs of the organization, including large loans to banks, railroads and life insurance companies.

All banks not affiliated with the federal reserve system which had applied for membership in the temporary fund of the federal Deposit Insurance corporation, to the close of business Dec. 15, have been examined as to their qualifications, Mr. Jones announced. Since Dec. 15, 53 state non-member banks have made application for membership in the corporation. This has brought the total number making application to 7,257.

DIVIDENDS VOTED BY 3 TRAVELERS' INSURANCE FIRMS

Payments on Annual Basis of $16 a Share.

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 18.—(AP)—A quarterly dividend of $4 a share, payable Dec. 30 to stockholders of record Dec. 18, was voted today by the directors of the Travelers Insurance company. The dividend is the same as voted at the December meeting last year and brings the total voted this year to $16 a share.

The Travelers Indemnity company voted a dividend of $16 a share, compared to $14 paid last year, while the Travelers Fire Insurance company, organized in 1924, voted its initial dividend, one of $4 a share.

Extra Dividends Declared.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 18.—The Reece Buttonhole Machine company declared an extra dividend of 10 cents a share and the regular quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share.

The International Buttonhole machine company declared an extra dividend of 10 cents a share and the regular quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share.

Parke, Davis & Co., declared an extra dividend of 10 cents a share and the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share.

Consider Dividends in Arrears.

Directors of the Philip Carey Manufacturing company will meet tomorrow for action on the 6 per cent preferred dividend, which is in arrears for three quarters, according to George D. Crabbs, president.

Directors of the United Verde Extension Mining company plan to meet Jan. 2 to take action on the dividend that is normally payable around Feb. 1. Usually this dividend is declared just before Christmas. The postponement is due to inability to get a quorum of the board at this time.

The American Maize Products company declared a dividend of 50 cents on the common stock, payable Dec. 30, to holders of record Dec. 26. Three months ago $1 was voted, prior to which time the company paid 25 cents quarterly. Last December a 50 per cent extra was declared.

Company Given NRA Permit for a 60 Hour Work Week

Goshocton, O., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The Novelty Advertising company has received a special dispensation from the NRA to work its employés 60 hours a week temporarily. It was the only answer to its problem, argued the company, in asking for modification of the 48 hour rule. Enough skilled workmen could not be obtained to keep up with its orders.

J. C. Penney Co.

Investors' Guide: Would appreciate being advised regarding any information concerning Penney company stock.—P. H.

Answer: J. C. Penney company is an important chain store organization specializing in wearing apparel and similar products. Concentration on a few lines has eliminated many merchandising problems. Most of the stores are in medium and small sized communities.

Sales are on a cash basis only. This avoids credit losses and enables the company to make commitments on a cash basis when favorable opportunities are presented. Sale of private brands constitutes the bulk of the business.

The company operates about 1,470 stores, located in almost every state. This compares with a total of 297 in 1920. Growth, which has been financed mostly out of earnings, has been accomplished in the main by the opening of new stores, although some established chains have been acquired.

Each month of the first quarter of 1933 recorded a drop in sales in comparison with the corresponding 1932 period. Since then, however, each month has shown gains. Sales in November, 1933, were 27.7 per cent more than in November, 1932. For the first 11 months sales were 12.1 per cent in excess of the corresponding 1932 period.

On a 2½ per cent increase in sales, net income in the first half of 1933 equaled $1.27 per common share, against 81 cents per common share for the first half of 1932. Part of the rise in common share earnings was due to elimination of a $576,000 annual preferred dividend charge through retirement of a portion of the preferred stock.

1932	$155,272,000	$ 5,083,000	$1.57
1931	173,705,000	8,914,000	3.13
1930	192,944,000	8,291,000	2.88
1929	209,690,000	12,413,000	4.66

At the close of 1932 cash of $22,830,000 compared with total current liabilities of $4,103,000. There are outstanding 103,263 shares of $100 six per cent preferred and 2,468,984 shares of no par common. Long term debt consists solely of a $2,700,000 subsidiary mortgage issue.

Dividends have been paid regularly on the preferred. Payments on the common are currently 30 cents a quarter.

Exceptionally strong current position and creditable record of profitable operations entitle the common to a fairly good rating. The preferred is high grade.

STOCKS DECLINE FURTHER AFTER FEEBLE RALLY

New Break in Atlas Tack Unsettles List.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 18.—Today was an unusually blue Monday for Wall street. A feeble attempt at a rally from last week's reaction was in evidence at the outset of trading in stocks, but with traders inclined to ignore the first boost in the RFC gold price as a bullish factor, selling became the order of the day and leading shares in all groups backed off 1 to 3 points to new lows on the movement.

Offerings dwindled after midday and the market developed a firmer tone in final dealings, but the recovery failed to make up earlier losses. Declines of fractions to more than a point were far in the majority at the close on a turnover that did not reach the million and a half share figure.

Atlas Tack Bear Influence.

An unsettling influence was the sharp break in Atlas Tack on what was said to be the backwash of a pool's operations in the stock. The issue lost 7⅛ points on the day, closing at 14½ against its recent high of 34⅝.

The Atlas crackup made for a flurry of selling in the general market, and uncovered especial weakness in certain so-called specialty shares which suffered from a thin market on the bid side.

A disappointing response was made to the more or less anticipated rise in the gold quotation and a consequent fresh droop in the dollar. Another bearish talking point was the failure of commodities to turn up on the gold price boost, although wheat held well against weakness in stocks.

Steel Report Good News.

Steel shares were aided by the magazine Steel's estimate that the industry had staged another contra-seasonal rise in output to 33 per cent of capacity. U. S. Steel opened fractionally higher at 46, dipped with others, and then came back strongly in the last hour to finish with a small advance on the day.

American Can also bore up well under selling and finished fractionally higher, but others of the select standard industrial division closed down, including Chrysler, Du Pont, General Electric, General Motors, Radio, and Westinghouse.

Rallying power in the remainder of the main list was feeble and late trading was slow and uninteresting. Consolidated Gas, North American, and other popular utilities had a poor tone. New York Central set a poor example for the rails. Rail equipments settled back 1 to 2 points. Fractionally lower prices were the rule in oils, chemicals, foods, and motors. Tobacco stocks broke broadly, some losses of as much as 4 points being recorded.

AUTO INDUSTRY GETS ROOSEVELT TO EXTEND CODE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—President Roosevelt today extended the automobile code for eight months. The code was due to expire on Dec. 31, but the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, representing 78 per cent of the production and about 95 per cent of the units of the industry, requested that it be continued.

The automobile industry is the second great industry to apply for the extension of its code. The steel industry has already received an extension to May 31, 1934.

Gen. Johnson informed the President that under the code employment increased from about 125,000 in July to about 150,700 in September, an increase of 25,100 employés, or about 20 per cent. During the same period pay rolls were increased from about $12,700,000 in July to $14,700,000 in September, an increase of $2,000,000, or 16 per cent.

DRY GOODS MEN'S SURVEY REPORTS BIG TRADE GAINS

"Key" Cities Show Rise of 18% Over Year Ago.

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The National Retail Dry Goods association said today a survey of widely scattered "key" cities showed an 18 per cent increase in shopping for the first two weeks in December over the same period in 1932. The poll of department stores, the association said, showed increases ranged up as high as 38 per cent, in Miami.

The association also said that Christmas shopping is progressing at an "accelerated and highly encouraging pace."

The merchants, representing 4,500 department and specialty stores, praised the NRA and expressed confidence it will bring further improvement.

D. F. Kelly Finds Improvement.

D. F. Kelly, president, The Fair, Chicago: "The trade picture in Chicago has brightened . . . There is still a long road ahead. If the merchants generally will support the President's program as indicated by the NRA we have no doubt but that conditions will vastly improve."

G. Irving Latz, president, Wolf and Dessauer, Fort Wayne, Ind.: "We are in fullest accord with everything the President is doing. . . . In my opinion, the latent buying power of America, a resource which is too frequently overlooked, is now being felt and will be felt more as time goes on."

Norman Wilchinski, president, Younker Brothers, Des Moines, Ia.: "The money poured in on the created works program is the most hopeful factor in the stimulation of business we have here at the present time."

Reports Less Anxiety.

Samuel H. Halle, president of the Halle Brothers company, Cleveland, O., said: "We feel the public should retain an open minded attitude on the NRA, as it will take time to appraise its benefits. . . . In general, since the inception of the NRA there is noticeable an increased ratio of employment, a lightening of the burden of anxiety and despair so apparent among manufacturers at that time . . ."

A. H. Burchfield, president of the Joseph Horne company, Pittsburgh, Pa.: "Slow distribution of federal funds for public works in this section has retarded the recovery movement, but I am convinced the NRA plan will achieve its goal."

Sees Gain in Year.

Sidney R. Baer, treasurer, Stix, Baer & Fuller Co., St. Louis, Mo.: "If one will but contrast the picture of today with the picture which this country presented twelve months ago, the only conclusion is that there has been a decided improvement."

William F. Baxter, president, Thomas Kilpatrick & Co., Omaha, Neb.: "We feel that the plan of increasing buying power in the industrial sections—so that through their buying the buying of agricultural workers may be increased—is a valid one and should be carried on."

EGGS GAIN AS RECEIPTS DROP; BUTTER IMPROVES

Receipts of eggs in New York and Chicago dropped under last year, and the movement of storage stocks was 12,000 cases more than last year. The news stimulated new buying, and covering was active; the bullish element is hoping for cold weather to aid the market further.

Butter news was slightly improved, and buying increased. The movement out of storage was 98,000 pounds less than last year, with receipts falling off.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Cotton goods markets opened steady today, with sales better on percales, flannels, and blankets. Gray goods were firm. Rayon fabrics for spring are being ordered in a little better volume. Silk goods were quiet at the opening, with some cutters paying more attention to printed lines for spring. Cutters are showing more interest in sprint dress materials, with sports weaves prominent.

HOGS START UP ON U. S. BUYING, BUT THEN REACT

Packers Balk at Paying Higher Prices.

Federal buyers started the hog market off again yesterday at stronger price levels, but orders on this account were not large enough to enable sellers to do more than retain the 10 to 15 cent gains registered in Saturday's session.

Buying by the government has been well distributed over eight points and, with the exception of Saturday, when only a scant supply was available federal orders have had little influence on the general hog market. Following the stronger opening yesterday, with many instances indicating 5 cents advance compared with Saturday, there was a slight setback in prices. Larger interests balked at paying stronger prices in face of the weaker condition of the wholesale pork trade.

Government buyers yesterday bought about 4,000 head, or 10 per cent of the Chicago receipts, mostly at $3.30 to $3.40 during the early part of the session.

Fresh Pork Loins Decline.

Some of the smaller local houses followed at the early quotations. Reports from the pork trade were not as bullish, top fresh pork loins at Chicago losing about 2 cents of the recent gains. The influence of poultry until after the holidays is expected to be bearish, packers point out, and moderate supplies of hogs will fill current requirements.

Leading outside markets which failed to rise on the week-end session with Chicago, came up 10 to 15 cents yesterday.

Conditions in the wholesale pork trade at the leading eastern centers are reported to be better than at Chicago and buying of pork by those with eastern connections has increased.

Cattle Drop on Big Receipts.

Yesterday's run of 18,000 cattle at the beginning of another poultry season, which will last until after the holidays, proved too great a burden for the trade and prices were reduced unevenly. Some classes of medium and heavy beeves sank to new lows for the last 40 years.

Yearlings still maintain a fairly firm position, tops at $6.85 being within 15 cents of the highest mark since August, but the proportion of the run selling at the top end of the price list is so small as to be almost negligible. In fact, the portion of receipts selling above $6 cut little figure in the general average, the bulk of the crop going at $4.50 to $6.

Lamb prices held steady yesterday despite pressure of heavy receipts, all interests paying the top of $7.35 for price of wool, lambs coming in without fleece are not very popular.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil was quiet and prices a shade easier today under scattered liquidation and commission house selling promoted by the easier trend of lard and tallow. Final prices were 3 points net lower. Sales were 15 contracts, of which 10 were in the way of exchanges from March to July at 40 points. Bleachable spot nominal: December, 4.20c; January, 4.35c; March, 4.48c; May, 4.67c; July, 4.87c.
